General Order No. 33.

I. Christopher J. Melia.

The Acting Fire Commissioner regrets to announce the death of Hoseman Christopher J. Melia of Engine Company 53 on Saturday, April 15, 1922. Hoseman Melia was appointed to this department September 20, 1921.

The funeral was held from his late residence, 155 Eustis street, Tuesday, April 18, 1922, followed by services at St. Patrick's Church, Dudley street, at 10 a. m.

The Fire Department was represented by a detail of sixteen men under command of Acting District Chief Michael Norton. Engine Company 53 was relieved from duty in order to participate in the funeral.

II. Ross Thawing Device.

Ross thawing devices, now carried on apparatus, will be taken therefrom and stored in the quarters of the companies to which they are assigned. The compound which is carried in the boiler of the thawing device will be left in the boiler as a preservative against deterioration.

In the storing of these appliances in quarters care must be taken that they will be maintained in good order, under the direction of the company commanders.

III. Fire Alarm Boxes in High Pressure Zone.

The following fire alarm boxes will be added to the list of boxes which, when struck for an alarm of fire, call for the immediate operation of the high pressure pumps:

Division A.—Boxes 124, 1255, 1275, 1276 and 1333.

Division B.—Boxes 1371, 1472 and 1476.

Office of Chief of Department,

Special Orders.

Bureau of Fire Prevention and Intelligence.

Hereafter, inspections are to be carried on under the direction of the various deputy and district chiefs, and the reports on their findings will be forwarded through channels to department headquarters for disposition. From time to time, as circumstances may demand, the inspection force will be changed, depending entirely upon the degree of efficiency developed. It is further suggested, for the purpose of increasing its efficiency, that the deputy and district chiefs, in selecting the men to carry out the inspections in their particular districts, give preference to those men who are potential officers, i. e., men who are eligible for promotion to the next highest rank. In this manner, with the wide experience thus acquired, they will be prepared to assume the duties incumbent upon officers with greater zeal and confidence.

The duties of the inspection force to be twofold:

1. Continuation of present work of fire prevention.

(a.) Inspection of risks.

(b.) Correction of violations of law; first, by persuasion; second, by prosecution through proper channels

2. Creation of intelligence about risks.

(a.) The inspection, mapping and charting of the various buildings in congested value section, so that in time there will be data quickly available for each building where a serious fire may occur, the information aforesaid to contain the following:

1. Construction of building.
2. Age of building.
3. Number of floors.
4. Location of stairways.
5. Location of elevators.
6. Location of other horizontal openings.
7. Location of vertical openings into adjoining buildings or into adjoining areas, or exposing nearby buildings.
8. Character of occupancy of each floor.
9. Location and character of partitions on each floor.
10. Location of heavy machinery or storage of heavy goods on each floor.
11. Character of materials on each floor.
12. Character of approaches from rear.
13. Dangerous elements in construction of buildings, or contents which may cause walls or floors to fall in comparatively early stages of fire.
14. Location of gas meters and main electric switches
15. All other information which might be of value to the officer in command of a serious fire in building.

(b.) With the growth of this inspection force, the constant presence in their particular districts of at least three members of the inspection force could be well arranged.

3. The response to alarms in heavy value districts of at least two members of the inspection force.

4. The compilation of the intelligence records into such form that copies should be carried by the chief officers in waterproof manifolds.

5. Arriving at fire, the officer in command, from the charted data, will acquaint himself with the character of the building, occupancy, and such other details as may assist him in preventing spread of fire, loss of life from falling floors, etc., lateral and rear exposures, etc.

6. The gradual extension of this system of inspection to cover all buildings in the city proper, excepting private dwellings, first-class office buildings, etc., where there is little potential hazard.

As an argument for the above plan, it must be apparent that no officer, whether chief, deputy, district chief, or captain, can carry the details of more than a very few buildings in his mind. Under this plan the memory is not wholly relied upon, but information is given to commanding officer from charts, written data, etc.

This should be kept up to date by later reports from periodical sections by company officers, etc., and changes of occupancy and instructions to be reported to the Bureau through channels.

The first record, the original of which is forwarded to the Bureau at department headquarters, shall be in duplicate, and the carbon or copy shall be filed at the district headquarters, available for use by inspectors in the compilation of a properly consolidated and practical folio which will be carried when responding to alarms.

There is without question enough ingenuity among all ranks interested to put this idea into successful and practical operation in a short period, and that is the result to be desired.

Where conditions are found which would cause or are liable to cause fire, or to endanger the lives of persons within or having cause to go within a building, immediate reports shall be forwarded through channels to effect remedial conditions. This will not alone apply to rubbish, but to any accumulations or structural conditions brought on through neglect.

The main purpose is to conserve property and reduce the loss caused by fire.

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

MAYOR DEMANDS ACTION.

Both Mayor Curley and Sherman L. Whipple, who is voluntarily assisting the Mayor in his fight for action by the Legislature looking to restoration of a flat five-cent fare on the Boston Elevated, have written Speaker Loring Young of the House of Representatives, requesting answers to letters they have previously written him, or that he do something tangible by way of meeting the wishes of the people of Boston, which they believe they themselves are voicing.

Mayor Curley's letter is as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
April 20, 1922.

Hon. B. Loring Young, Speaker of the House of Representatives, State House, Boston:

My Dear Mr. Speaker,—On April 11, I wrote you asking you to bring up for action by the Rules Committee the resolution presented by Mr. Representative McCormack—or, in the alternative, to appoint a day for a public hearing in relation to the resolve. I have received no answer to my letter.

On April 17 Sherman L. Whipple, Esq., at my request, urged your prompt action in making an appointment for a public hearing, and I am informed that he has received no reply to his letter.

I am at a loss to understand your refusal either to act in this matter or to reply to these letters. I cannot believe that I am to infer from it that my request is to be utterly ignored and that all action on this matter of such vast inportance to the people of Boston is to be defeated by a concerted refusal to act and silence as to the reasons.

I once more urge upon you earnestly to give the matter your attention—at least to give me the courtesy of a reply, stating reasons, if any, why my request should not be granted.

Respectfully yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

"THE PATRIOTS' WARNING"— 1775–1922.

By J. Philip O'Connell.

Issued by the Patriots' Day Committee, and dropped from the United States Government airplane, flying over the cities and town along the historic route followed April 19, 1922, by the equestrian riders impersonating Paul Revere and William Dawes:

You have read of the wonderful midnight ride
 Of Paul Revere, and of William Dawes,
Who sped their steeds o'er the countryside,
 Arousing the people in Freedom's cause;
To summon the dwellers of village and farm,
Awaken from slumber and heed the alarm;
For they knew by the flash of the signals' light,
On the tower of the Old North Church that night,
That the foe had come and 'twas time to fight.

And we know how the people rose at the cry,
 To defend their land in its hour of need;
And as each fleet rider went shouting by,
 They rallied to arms with a martial speed:
How they met the regulars sweeping down
Over Lexington and in Concord town;
While to arms untrained and in numbers small,
They drove them back over bridge and wall,
With pike and bayonet, powder and ball.

We thrill to that story on history's page,
 Of Victory won, and the crimson price
That was paid for the glorious heritage,
 Bequeathed by their noble sacrifice:
At the skill and patience with which they wrought,
To guard the Liberty dearly bought;
That its gleaming radiance far and wide,
Might shine as the new-born Nation's guide;
And our bosoms swell with a glowing pride.

But a voice comes echoing down the years;
 A cry in the night as the riders pause,
And the heart of a sleeping nation hears
 Once more the alarm of Revere and Dawes:
"Arise, ye freemen, ye've yet to win,
There's danger nigh from the foe within;
From avarice, license and selfish greed,
From corruption's chains ye must yet be freed,
Again to arms in your country's need!

"Eternal vigil must be the cost,
 To hold the blessings for which we dared;
That our priceless liberties be not lost,
 But preserved to posterity unimpaired.
Ye must stand as sentinels at the gate,
That the foe be crushed ere it be too late,
To guard the Freedom we died to gain,
That was born in the throes of a Nation's pain,
Lest our sacrifice shall have been in vain."

And the echoes pass,— but 'tis ours to strive,
 And keep the faith with our noble dead:
That the spirit of seventeen seventy-five,
 Which blazed the trail where these heroes led,
May still shine on through the coming years,
To light our way and dispel our fears;
And its rays serene through the darkest night,
Illume our souls with its holy light,
With love of Country, of God and Right.

REPORT UPON CONVENTION.

Arthur L. Gould, Assistant Superintendent, Boston Public Schools, in harmony with the provisions of section 3 of chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914, presents herewith a report of his attendance at the Convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Educational Association, held at Chicago, Ill., February 27–March 2, inclusive:

I respectfully submit the following report of my attendance at the annual convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, held in Chicago from February 27 to March 2, inclusive, 1922.

General Meetings.

The one meeting which aroused the interest of the convention perhaps more than any other was that concerning the topic, "The Need of a National Organization for Educational Service." Those in attendance at the convention sensed that this topic would be productive of discussion of problems dealing with federal subsidy in education and the organization of a federal department of education with a secretary in the cabinet. It was precisely on these grounds that the discussion was based.

Opponents of federal subsidy argued that such a policy was fundamentally unsound, essentially unfair and subversive of our theory of government. Admitting the delinquency of states and communities in relation to the problems of illiteracy, public health and Americanization, they argued that at the present time there is no means of knowing the available wealth of a state or of determining how poor a state must be in order to require federal assistance for the maintenance of an effective system of public education.

Furthermore, they reasoned that all persons familiar with the educational activities of the federal government realize that the multiplication of the number of boards and bureaus has made their effective co-ordination impossible, and has resulted in duplication of effort and extravagant waste.

Those in favor of federal subsidy in education based their contentions on the principle that every boy and girl, regardless of birth or state, should be provided with the opportunity for the fullest development in accordance with his native ability and capacity. They argued that education is a national concern, directly related to national security, and wholly worthy of the dignity which has been given to the departments of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor.

It is interesting to note that the Department of Superintendence went on record in its resolutions in favor of federal leadership and federal appropriations, but with the express stipulation of state authority, state responsibility and state control.

"What the Country has Reason to Expect by Way of Culture, Efficiency and Good Citizenship in Return for the Cost of Operating Public Education," formed the topic for the next general meeting of the department.

The fundamental thought of this meeting was that our schools at any given period express the dominant interest and purposes of our people; that in the recent past these purposes were directed towards individual success and individual accomplishment, based upon ideals of material achievement and material prosperity; but that today the measure of achievement is co-operative effort and the recognition of the principle that a fundamental duty of the public schools is to prepare the individual for a fuller and richer participation in community life.

Sectional Meetings.

Summary of Reports and Discussions.

A. High Schools.

The following summary of several interesting papers indicates the general line of thought of this section:

The American people are accustomed to make much of their belief and faith in democracy. Yet 30,000 or more teachers in our schools have no training beyond the eighth grade. The salaries of teachers have advanced considerably during the last few years, but there is a definite relation between the amount of training and economic return. Outside the large centers during the past few years the high school teacher has become itinerant, nomadic. While in some degree this has always been true, it became doubly so during the period when the supply of teachers was extremely limited and insufficient to meet the normal demand. Many teachers of inferior training crept into the schools to fill places of those attracted to larger centers by the promise of larger salaries. This has resulted in a gradual but distinct loss in community leadership, for the teachers have not remained long enough in a given place to be a force for good. Civic and social responsibility are real aims in modern education and not terms of the mind. The high school teacher should be the agent of community education and the direct relation of training to tenure and salary makes this important responsibility possible of attainment.

There must be a further development of real professional spirit. This can be brought about chiefly in four ways.

(a.) Knowledge of subject to be taught is a prerequisite, but there must also be training in the ideals of the profession, if it is to achieve the dignity of the professions of law, medicine, and surgery.

(b.) There must be frequent contact with dynamic personalities through selected courses and lectures. The youth is far more influenced by a forceful personality than through teaching by precept.

(c.) The high school teacher must manifest genuine whole-souled interest in the achievement of pupils, to encourage and inspire them to continuous endeavor. The take-it or leave-it academic attitude must disappear, and in its place must come unselfish, whole-hearted, self-sacrificing interest and devotion.

(d.) The high school teachers and principals must make intensive studies of their own particular problems in order to determine with clearness the aims, purposes and objectives of secondary instruction.

B. Junior High Schools.

The meetings of this section were devoted to a discussion of the types of buildings best suited to aid in the realization of the fundamental aims and purposes of the junior high school.

The consensus of opinion of the educators present, as gathered from lectures and discussions, is briefly summarized in the following paragraphs.

The junior high school is the unit of transition between the elementary and secondary schools. It is the weld that binds together the units of the school system in such manner as to avoid abruptness of transition from the grades below or to the grades above.

Its course of study consists of a review and continuation of the elementary grade curricula, a preview of secondary school curricula, and additional courses of study drawn from the industrial and commercial fields.

Its point of view is essentially individual. Exploratory courses are offered for the purpose of discovering the kind of work for which the individual pupil is best adapted and in which he is likely to find his greatest success and happiness.

Administrators and executives responsible for the development of successful junior high schools have in mind four principal features.

(1.) The junior high school is a period of adjustment. There is little change in the program of studies in Grade VII., but there is introduced a limited prevocational content and some departmental instruction.

(2.) It is a period of exploration and guidance. General introductory courses prevail with a view to forming apperceptive bases of what is to follow. The curriculum includes courses in industrial arts, fine arts, general science; courses in mathematics, modern language, social science, business and commerce; all for the discovery of aptitudes that promise future skill and development.

(3.) It is a period of choice of electives. Students are counseled and guided by specially trained vocational experts. School programs are so constructed as to facilitate crossing over from one course to another without serious loss to the student.

(4.) It is a period of stimulation. There is constant encouragement to the pupil to continue his studies in the high school. Overlapping courses constitute a prominent feature and to a limited degree reach over into the field of secondary education in order to eliminate difficulties of transition. Objectives in the form of short units characterize the program of studies so that at whatever stage the pupil is compelled to leave school he will have achieved a valuable training and experience, together with a true insight into the field of education which lies just ahead.

C. Educational Research.

There were so many meetings of this department, and the subjects for discussion so diverse, that it would be well-nigh impossible to make any attempt at a general summary.

One of the most interesting discussions dealt with the subject-matter of determining the reading, writing, and speaking vocabularies.

The present situation with regard to work in this field seems to indicate that the vocabulary of correspondence has been rather carefully compiled from data covering millions of words, and that, for all ordinary purposes, this basic vocabulary is known. Although the scientific analysis of the speaking vocabularies of children in the primary grades is but just beginning, the studies made thus far indicate much larger vocabularies than was formerly supposed. There appears to be evidence at hand sufficient to indicate that we shall have to revise our standards and think of the vocabulary of very young school children in terms of thousands rather than in hundreds of words.

In the field of reading the evidence strongly points to the conclusion that a vocabulary of more than five thousand words is the minimum for the reading vocabulary of the first six grades, and that a vocabulary considerably smaller than this will not take care of daily needs.

The direct relation of these investigations to spelling words and text book vocabularies is apparent without further comment.

Respectfully submitted,

Arthur L. Gould,
Assistant Superintendent.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation; Tremont Street Subway from Broadway and Tremont st., South End, to North Station and from Boylston st., near Charles to Park st., 1.68 miles, opened to Park St. September 1, 1897, and to North Station on Sept. 3, 1898, costing with subsequent alterations, $4,416,000, the first municipal subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, from Maverick square, E. Boston, under Boston Harbor and State st. to Scollay square, Boston Proper, 1.42 miles, opened December 30, 1904, costing $3,336,000; Washington Street Tunnel, from Ash st. opp. Nassau, South End, to Traverse st., near North Station, 1.16 miles, opened November 30, 1908, costing $8,496,700 (including $2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway, from under Park st. station of Tremont St. Subway to Grove st., near Cambridge Bridge, 0.47 miles, opened March 23, 1912, costing $1,465,000; Boylston Street Subway, from Commonwealth ave., near Kenmore st., Back Bay, to Tremont St. Subway, near Charles st., 1.5 miles, opened October 3, 1914, costing $5,327,000; East Boston Tunnel Extension, from Scollay square to North Russell st., 0.41 miles, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost, $2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, from Park st., Boston Proper, to Andrew square, South Boston, 2.26 miles, opened December 3, 1916, as far as South Station, on December 15, 1917 to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal; trains of four or six cars are run in the Washington St. Tunnel, continuing on elevated track to Forest Hills, also in Dorchester Tunnel and connecting Cambridge Tunnel from Andrew sq., So. Boston to Harvard sq., Cambridge, while only single or double street-cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1921 for the Dorchester tunnel, $10,750,000. Total cost of all subways and tunnels, about $36,995,000, incl. loan of $825,000 for new Arlington Station, against which a sinking fund of $5,818,710 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont Street 20 years) at annual rental of 4½ to 4⅞ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at ⅜ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be 4½ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

THE NECESSITY OF A SHIP SUBSIDY.

ARGUMENT OF HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE ON COMMERCE AND HOUSE COMMITTEE ON MERCHANT MARINE AND FISHERIES. DELIVERED AT WASHINGTON, D.C., FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1922.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee:

The era of reconstruction following the World War and so vitally affecting the destiny of the American nation presents as one of the first and earliest problems to be mastered the determination of our export and import trade. The revival of the American merchant marine can alone be effected by the dismissal, now and forever, of the proposal that our import and export trade shall be carried in the bottoms of British, German, and Japanese ships.

No question in my humble opinion is of greater importance than the passing by our Federal Congress of a subsidy bill which would allow the development of the merchant marine of the United States and the definite beginning of a movement for commercial liberty upon the waterways of the world for United States ships.

A comprehensive study of the figures relative to our commerce covering a half-century of this nation's growth is sufficient to convince even the most bitter opponent of governmental aid in the development of a merchant marine as to the imperative need for action regardless of the protests that may emanate from foreign powers, which during this period have been the chief benefactors on sea of our nation's prosperity and progress.

There is no finer sense of patriotism imaginable, in my judgment, than laws which will entitle the ships of our own country to carry American products in their own bottoms, serving not alone the commercial interests of our country, but providing for the carrying of the excess of our manufactured products to the nations beyond the sea who are so cruelly torn by the exactions of the World War. No man can deny that the success of American commerce and industry is largely dependent upon the rebuilding of our foreign trade, and this trade can alone be assured by federal aid in the form of a subsidy in behalf of the American shipping industries and the extension of our merchant marine.

I desire to present as an especial illustration of the decline of the American shipping industry a comparative table based upon fifty years of the nation's life.

In 1859 the value of goods carried in American vessels was $465,741,381, and in foreign ships $229,816,211, or more than 100 per cent greater value carried in American ships than in foreign ships. In 1909, however, the value of goods carried in American ships had decreased 44.46 per cent, or a value of $258,657,217, while on the other hand during this brief period of fifty years the value of goods carried in foreign vessels had increased 971.59 per cent, to the staggering total of $2,462,693,814.

Can any member of Congress contend that he is performing his duty as an honorable and patriotic representative of the American people, and sit idly by when the right arm that was once the nation's sign of commercial greatness is being severed at the shoulder? I appreciate that there are members of Congress who believe that governmental subsidy in any form presents certain economic and political unsoundness, yet the startling figures that I have presented relative to the commerce of the American nation for a test period of fifty years should be an invulnerable argument to warrant any man changing his conviction and becoming enthusiastic in support of a policy of governmental aid which may directly serve the interests of American shipping.

I call to your particular attention, my friends, that no more grievous sight has been witnessed in the history of the American nation than is today presented upon the waterfronts of our commercial cities. With splendid waterfronts destitute of ships, commerce and industry both stagnant, and longshoremen and seafaring men in various capacities idle and compelled to seek other forms of livelihood.

The policy of our forefathers in Washington for the protection of our commerce is splendidly illustrated by the Tariff Act adopted July 4, 1789, and which made possible a development of the commercial supremacy for the new Republic that became the envy of the entire world. This act provided:

"On all teas imported from China or India in ships built in the United States and belonging to a citizen or citizens thereof, or in ships or vessels built in foreign countries and on the 16th day of May last wholly the property of a citizen or citizens of the United States, and so continuing until the time of importation, as follows: On Bohea tea, per pound, 6 cents. On all Souchong or other black teas, per pound, 10 cents. On all other green teas, per pound, 12 cents.

"On all teas imported from Europe in ships or vessels built in the United States and belonging wholly to a citizen or citizens thereof, or in ships or vessels built in foreign countries and on the 16th day of May last wholly the property of a citizen or citizens of the United States, and so continuing until the time of importation, as follows: On all Bohea tea, per pound, 8 cents. On all Souchong and other black teas, per pound, 13 cents. On all Hyson teas, per pound, 26 cents. On all other green teas, per pound, 16 cents.

"On all teas imported in any other manner than as above mentioned as follows: On Bohea tea, per pound, 15 cents. On all Souchong or other black teas, per pound, 22 cents. On all Hyson teas, per pound, 45 cents. On all other green teas, per pound, 16 cents.

"On all goods, wares, and merchandise other than teas imported from China or India in ships not built in the United States and not wholly the property of a citizen or citizens thereof, nor in vessels built in foreign countries and on the 16th day of May last wholly the property of a citizen or citizens of the United States, and so continuing until the time of importation, 12½ per cent ad valorem.

"Section 5. A discount of 10 per cent on all the duties imposed by this act shall be allowed on such goods, wares, and merchandise as shall be imported in vessels built in the United States and which shall be wholly the property of a citizen or citizens thereof, or in vessels built in foreign countries and on the 16th day of May last wholly the property of a citizen or citizens of the United states and so continuing until the time of importation."

This provision was amended in the Tariff Act of August 10, 1790, by imposing an additional duty of 10 per cent on articles imported in ships or vessels not of the United States instead of allowing a discount of 10 per cent on articles imported in American ships.

These or similar discriminations in favor of ships owned wholly by American citizens were continued for a period of approximately twenty six years, and resulting in such an increase in American shipping that in the year 1810 more than 90 per cent of our foreign commerce was carried in American ships over the world and was much greater than the tonnage of American steamships engaged in foreign commerce today.

Can there be any question that a policy so enlightened as to commend itself to the fathers of our country, should not meet the indorsement of our government today in the reconstruction period following the greatest war which the world has ever known?

I belive that no thinking man who has witnessed our commercial and industrial depreciation following the World War can but feel that vigorous ways and means must be immediately devised to relieve our commercial situation, protect the American flag, and encourage American shipping, and that the passage of a subsidy bill is the first duty of the Federal Congress. Broad and comprehensive legislation is an absolute and imperative necessity that shall protect both the domestic and foreign trade of the United States. Carrying American goods in foreign bottoms is an incredible suggestion considering the fact that the nations of Europe are staggering under the burden of the taxation of the late World War, and are wholly unable to resume their former commercial supremacy.

One peculiar phase reflecting the situation as relates to a subsidy has been the opposition of great bodies of farmers to a subsidy provision in the laws of the United States, despite the fact that in our Great Lakes region there has been repeated evidence of three or more miles of vessels bearing grain laying in the harbor of Buffalo and other ports, all awaiting the arrival of foreign carriers who had conspired to refrain from handling the grain until such time as sufficient excuse had been afforded for the raising of rates, and for which the agricultural interests of the United States were compelled to asume the ultimate burden.

I have no slightest hesitancy in saying that the enactment of a liberal and well defined subsidy bill would immediately place in operation the immense number of idle vessels within the jurisdiction of the United States Shipping Board. I have been advised by unofficial statement that at one time in this country there were 1,467 of these idle ships. An investigation conducted by the Interstate Commerce Commission disclosed the fact that through the control exercised by the foreign shipping interests, wheat for export trade could be sent from the Mississippi river region to New York for 12 cents a bushel, while wheat sent to New York for manfacture into flour for home consumption paid a rate of 19½ cents per bushel. In other words, it was possible, through the power of the combined foreign ship owners, to furnish European millers American wheat at 4½ cents a bushel less than it could be supplied to the American millers at New York.

The average wheat yield is twenty bushels to the acre, and a fair return from this yield is $15. Allowing that it costs $5 an acre to break, disk, and seed, and $2 an acre to harvest, thrash and market, when the value of farm products is less than $10 an acre a loss rather than a profit results.

During the last ten years in this nation, we have witnessed the foreign shipowners by piratical combine, succeeding through manipulation and control, in not only doubling but even trebling the ocean rates for the carrying of grain.

The Western farmer has been compelled to pay from 37 to 45 cents a hundred to lay his grain down at Liverpool, and at the close of navigation on the Great Lakes he has been compelled to pay in excess of 50 cents a hundred. A rate of 40 cents a hundred is equivalent to 24 cents a bushel, and if a farmer has sold his grain for 87 cents a bushel, and the carrying charge has been 24 cents, the actual amount received by the farmer is but 63 cents a bushel; and if the yield is 20 bushels to the acre, the gross returns, less the carrying charges, is $12.60 per acre; and deducting from this amount the $7 paid for labor per acre, leaves the farmer but $5.60 an acre, or nearly $4.50 less than he should receive in order to secure a fair return upon his investment; and what is true in the case of the farmer is equally true in its application to all our industries.

Let us devise ways and means by the enaction of a federal statute that will provide that the American flag may be seen upon every sea of the world, and insuring a fair and equable freight rate for the carrying of American goods in American bottoms to our friends across the sea. Can any thinking American deny that as an absolute moral and economic right, American ships should carry our products in ocean trade to every port of the civilized world?

The time has come in this nation when acts of maritime reciprocity urged upon Congress by merchants in the foreign trade, for the benefit of alien shipping interests, must cease for all time, for the certain result is that entries of foreign ships in our ports will increase, and continue to increase, and our own tonnage as carried by ships flying the American flag, will decrease until the vanishing point is almost reached.

The control exercised by foreign ship owners in years that are past is such that American merchants have no voice in the matter of the regulation of charges which they are compelled to pay for the carrying of their commodities. Foreign ship owners, who in other years have been largely in control of American commerce, have met from time to time in foreign lands and after a conference, the purpose of which is to prescribe the rates to be applied to the handling of the foreign trade of the United States, it is common knowledge to shipping experts that under foreign auspices there has been provided at these conferences that any ship or ships controlled by foreign ship owners shall rebate at the end of each six months' period to the shipper using the ships controlled by them exclusively in the carrying of goods, 10 per cent of the total carrying charges, and this policy, through the lure of the rebate system, has led to the destruction of independent ship owners in the United States.

It is absolutely vital and important today that during this period of reconstruction when our first duty is to the American wage earner, that the intolerant interference of foreign ship owners with our ocean-carrying trade must cease now and forever, if we are to preserve the integrity of American institutions represented by our commerce and industries.

The absence of the independent ship owner in years that are past from the field of ocean-carrying endeavor has made it possible to provide the 10 per cent rebate, in consequence of an excess charge made possible through the absence of competition and through the exercise of absolute control of the trade, to exact charges many times in excess of the amount rebated under foreign shipping auspices.

There has also been in other years a dictation to our railroads and the establishment of through rates from Central Germany to Denver and Salt Lake which are lower than rates on similar articles from Cincinnati to these points.

By a series of rebates, under various names, they were able to direct practically all our South American traffic to New York, to which point manufacturers in the interior must ship in order to take advantage of the low rate offered. Foreign ship owners prevented the direction of trade from the central valley through New Orleans where the whole Middle West would enter into competition with the export commerce of the Atlantic ports.

Investigation has shown that shoes shipped from St. Louis to New Orleans in a modern river barge cost about $4.50 per ton, but it has been required under foreign auspices that they be shipped for export from New York, and in consequence the shoe dealer in St. Louis has paid as high as $19.20 per ton.

I call to your particular attention that vast sums of money spent upon river, lake and harbor improvements, upon great railway terminals located on the waterways throughout the land, and there we have ceased our labors at the very point deserving of the most urgent consideration.

The amount actually expended in recent years in the carrying of our foreign commerce has been estimated at $300,000,000, and this vast sum is an important factor in the balance of trade and a serious one in view of the fact that our exports of natural products has rapidly decreased, while the presence of our flag upon ships engaged in the foreign trade has become a genuine curiosity.

As an illustrative example of the benefit of a subsidy bill, I desire to call your particular attention, gentlemen, to the fact that prior to the recent World War, Great Britain constructed the "Mauritania" and the "Lusitania," having a speed of approximately twenty-five knots an hour, with an understanding that such ships should be used as auxiliary cruisers in time of war, and the expense of the building of these vessels was charged to the naval appropriation of England. The German government prior to the war paid a subsidy of $1,300,000 to the North German Lloyd Company, and $300,000 annually to one of the ship carrying companies associated in the East Indian trade. England, prior to the war, furnished ships to carry supplies and food to our navy upon the Pacific Coast.

How preposterous is the idea that in the development of our foreign trade we are now to send our commercial travelers abroad to the various countries of devastated Europe to find new markets for American trade, unless it can be clearly established that American goods shall be delivered by American ships flying the American flag, and which if this provision is made, will do more for the development of our national commerce than efforts undertaken under all other auspices.

Wise laws should immediately provide that our idle ships by the protection of a subsidy should be immediately placed in commission, and that American shipyards should have the privilege of building those vessels which have been formerly constructed in the Belfast yards and other great ship centers of the British nation. Laws preferential to American shipbuilding are an immediate necessity, and no better evidence of this fact can be shown than in sixty years the government of Great Britain expended in mail and admiralty subsidies for the development of its ocean-carrying commerce the sum of $300,000,000.

American ships should replace the English ships that furnish means of travel and trade between New York, Brazil and Argentina, as well as the Norwegian and Swedish tramp steamers which with passage between the United States and the West Indies have carried our manufactured goods and fruit. The South American nations whose friendship and trade it is an absolute necessity we should cultivate as a result of the World War, should be served by our own ships rather than those of foreign lands. Our import traffic with the South American countries should by the direction of a subsidy be increased fully 50 per cent.

The hour is at hand for favorable and definite action in the matter of the restoration of the American merchant marine, and the necessary provision for the enlargement of our foreign trade and to assure the industrial prosperity of our people.

Prior to the war tables provided by eminent statisticians showed that the commerce of the United States carried in foreign vessels amounted to 91.75 per cent, while of our commerce carried by ships of our own land and flying the American flag was but 8.25 per cent.

I believe that there are many lines of ships flying foreign flags today and owned by American capital that, in the event of a subsidy act and the restoration of our merchant marine, would gladly seek an opportunity to change their registry and to become recipients of the bounty of the American nation.

I can but feel, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the committee, that the adoption of a subsidy bill will mark a new era in the development of our nation's prosperity, in so far that the best flag that ever waved over a free people in the history of civilization may again become a familiar sight upon the waterways of the civilized world, and serve again the nation's greatness as so eminently depicted under the sagacious laws that marked our country in the early days of the nineteenth century.

RADIOPHONE FOR LONG ISLAND.

Appeal has been made to Mayor Curley for the establishment of a radiophone in the chapel of the Boston Almshouse and Hospital at Long Island for the benefit of the inmates. The appeal is made by Dr. David J. Johnson, Institutions Commissioner, who wrote the following letter to the Mayor:

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In the interest of the inmates of the Boston Almshouse and Hospital at Long Island, I would ask that a radiophone be installed in the chapel at that institution.

Such an instrument would bring to many unfortunate individuals who, on account of infirmities never leave the island, messages from the outside world which would awaken an interest in life, an interest to be aroused in no other way.

It is indeed pitiful to see many who are blind or unable to do any work, rocking by their bedsides day after day with little to interest them beyond the gossip of the wards. The pleasure which a radiophone would bring in relieving the irksomeness and monotony of such an existence can hardly be over estimated.

It would certainly be a pleasure for the old people to here voices of happy children at the playground on the Charles river, to listen to good music, and to enjoy the infinite variety of entertainments which a radiophone can convey.

I cannot but feel that you will agree with me that everything possible should be done to bring happiness to the people at Long Island, especially on account of the isolated location of the institution.

Trusting that this matter will receive your favorable consideration and that means may be provided, I am,

Respectfully yours,

David J. Johnson,
Commissioner.

CONFIRM MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS.

The Civil Service Commission has confirmed Mayor Curley's appointments of Francis Peabody as a Statistics Trustee and Matthew Cummings as a Sinking Funds Commissioner. The commission refused to confirm Benedict V. DeBellis as a Statistics Trustee.

FOR HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE.

MAYOR CURLEY ASKS LEGISLATURE FOR RIGHT TO BORROW $2,000,000 TO COMPLETE INSTALLATION.

Mayor Curley, before the Joint Rules Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature, presented a petition for authority to borrow $2,000,000 outside the debt limit to complete the installation of the high pressure water system for fire-fighting purposes. The Mayor and several others were heard in favor and Judge Michael H. Sullivan of the Boston Finance Commission registered his opposition.

Through a misunderstanding it was expected that the Rules Committee of the House would take up the order favored by Mayor Curley, requesting the opinion of the Attorney-General regarding the constitutionality of the Boston Elevated Public Control Act of 1918. The committee and the Mayor agreed that some day next week be assigned for that hearing.

Advocates of the petition for completing of the high-pressure system expressed the belief that a reduction of fire insurance rates was likely to follow the extension of this form of fire prevention.

Mayor Curley stated that if the bill is admitted and favorably acted upon by the Legislature, work will be rushed to complete the system, and that while he is generally opposed to borrowing outside the debt limit, he feels that this is an emergency measure. He stated the city has at present a borrowing capacity of $1,100,000, and several large expenditures are planned for city improvements within the limit of the borrowing capacity.

In addition to Mayor Curley, Joseph Rourke, Commissioner of Public Works, Chief Taber of the Fire Department, Thomas F. Sullivan, former Commissioner of Public Works, Alfred Davenport, president of the Boston Fire Underwriters, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Lyons spoke in favor of the bill.

Mayor Curley, in advocating the admission of the bill stated that in 1911, under a special act, $1,000,000 were appropriated within the debt limit to provide for a pumping station and about fifteen miles of piping in the central section of the city. In 1920 the city appropriated $300,000 out of the tax levy and in 1921 there was appropriated by loan within the debt limit, $120,000, making a total of $1,420,000, which has provided for the existing 11.70 miles of mains and two pumping stations of two units each.

Continuing, Mayor Curley said: "The location of the North End pumping station extended greatly the original layout and comprised 20-inch lines as main feeders from the pumping station. There are yet incomplete many lines within the original gridiron.

"The extension of the area in the National Board of Fire Underwriters report increases the original fifteen miles of piping to approximately twenty-two miles. Pipe laying for the past few years has been in streets intended to be permanently repaved, and this policy should continue so as to avoid digging up good pavements for later installation.

"The completion of the gridiron system within a given area is absolutely essential in order that motor-driven apparatus will not ordinarily be called upon to alarms within such area and can be utilized elsewhere without endangering the high-value downtown area.

"At present there is not a hydrant near Washington street from School street to Friend street, a distance of 1,600 feet, and a large area in this neighborhood is unprotected, including Scollay square. Similar conditions exist elsewhere, due to the congestion of subsurface structure and the nearness of the subway roof to the street surface.

"The benefits of the protection of such a system if completed within a certain area are not confined to this area, but extend over the entire city. Few men and less apparatus are required than with the steam or motor-driven engines for a large fire, and the protection of the rest of the city need not be greatly reduced at the same time.

"Pipe materials for the greater part, if not all of the ten and one half miles of mains, and the additional pumps for the two existing stations, should be bought at once.

"To insure a good, permanent paving, the pipe laying should be done in the year preceding the paving work, and considerable pipe laying should be done this year for that reason. Where new buildings, with areas, are being constructed, a vault is being reserved within the area for placing a high pressure hydrant later.

"The cost of pipe laying in 1914 and 1915 averaged about $4.30 per foot, gradually increasing until 1920 and 1921, when it averaged about $15.50 per foot for work in streets not particularly difficult. At the present time there is a deficit in the high-pressure service of about $15,000, and the five men have been transferred to the Water Service in order to provide their salaries."

Mayor Curley then outlined the plans of expending the $2,000,000 if the city is authorized to borrow, showing that $1,339,190 will be spent for different sizes of pipe, gates and hydrants and the payment of labor for laying the pipe, and the remainder for pumping stations and the extension of the system.

Public Works Commissioner Rourke said the piping system should be extended at once, and Chief Taber said the system is necessary to stop a serious conflagration.

Ex-Public Works Commissioner Sullivan said the work is at a standstill because of the exhaustion of the appropriation and Alfred Davenport stated that the fire underwriters are making commensurate reductions in rates where the system is completed, and when the entire system is completed additional reductions will be made.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Lyons said the bill is to care for a matter of extreme emergency and the completion of the system should be made before the construction of the Stuart street development.

Judge Sullivan, in opposing the admittance of the bill, said the Finance Commission is opposed to the city borrowing outside the debt limit. The work has gone on for eleven years within the debt limit, he said, and the money necessary for the work should have been included in the budget of this year and taken out of the tax rate. The work should also cover a period of three years, he said, and the money can be raised by taxation and not borrowed outside the debt limit.

JOHN A. SULLIVAN TO FIGHT BANKS FOR BOSTON.

John A. Sullivan, ex-Corporation Counsel for the City of Boston, is to conduct the city's battle in the courts against the proceedings of ten local national banks to recover from the city taxes already paid to it by these banks on their shares outstanding in individual hands.

Here in Boston, $7,000,000 is at stake in the fight. A like sum will be involved in contests between outside national banks in Massachusetts and the cities and towns where they do business, which imposed this tax, as did Boston.

The Mayor recently obtained City Council assent to a $50,000 appropriation from the Reserve Fund, with which to meet initial expenses entailed in the fight. Of this sum now available Mr. Sullivan will be paid at once a retainer of $2,500.

The understanding is that the fight is likely to be a long, exacting one. Mr. Sullivan, it is expected, will give much of his time to the matter.

Mr. Curley said that other payments to Mr. Sullivan will be authorized from time to time, as warranted. The Mayor expects that the City Council will furnish money to make the fight as it is needed over and above the present $50,000.

The Mayor has summoned his fellow members of the Mayors' Club—comprising present and past chief executives of all large Massachusetts cities—to a conference at Young's Hotel this afternoon, at which measures will be discussed for a unified contest against the action of the banks.

MEAT SHIPMENTS START.

Mayor Curley has secured, through the agency of William H. McMasters, one of the directing secretaries of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau, a car load of fresh meat from the Cleveland Provision Company to be shipped to the United Kingdom via the port of Boston, thus inaugurating a line of business which it is hoped will increase. This first shipment will go forward from Boston on board the steamship "Samaria," of the Cunard line, when she leaves on the return half of her maiden trip to Boston. Mr. McMasters is still traveling in the Middle West in the interest of business for the port.

The "Samaria" arrived Friday and officials of the company are making extensive plans for her reception. The first of these functions took place Saturday, when officials of the line tendered a reception to all steamship agents in this vicinity. The reception was on board the ship. On Monday there will be an invitation reception, followed by a dinner in the evening to which the Mayor and officials of the city and state as well as leading business men have been invited.

On Tuesday during the entire day the public will be received aboard the ship and allowed to inspect her fully. She will sail on her return voyage Wednesday morning.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

The Mayor has approved, upon the indorsement of the Commissioner of Public Works, the following extensions of contracts:

C. & R. Construction Company, for building sewerage works in Muddy river conduit in Brookline avenue, between Beacon street and Audubon road, Roxbury, from August 2, 1921, to February 10, 1922 (192 days). This extension is occasioned by the fact that there was a labor shortage during the early part of the job and that on account of inclement winter weather the work was retarded.

Messrs Gore, Inc., for granite block pavement in Washington street, from 69 feet south of Corinth street to Denton Street terrace, West Roxbury, from November 15, 1921, to May 1, 1922. This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that other work by the Boston Elevated road was not completed in time and also because of the rigors of winter.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

MAYOR SEEKS HOSPITAL FOR DISABLED VETERANS.

Mayor Curley has appealed to Senator Lodge to use his influence toward securing one of the hospitals which the government is to erect for disabled veterans for Boston and thus aid in relieving the unemployment situation in this section. The Mayor asks that a portion of the $17,000,000 which the United States Veterans' Bureau will spend be turned to Massachusetts. His letter to Senator Lodge reads:

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Senate, Washington D. C.:

My dear Senator,—The reduction in the personnel of the Boston Navy Yard, coupled with the commercial and industrial depression has resulted in a most serious unemployment situation in Greater Boston and yet one which I believe it will be possible for you and your colleagues in Congress from Massachusetts to greatly relieve.

I am informed that the United States Veterans Bureau, of which Col. Charles R. Forbes in the director, is to expend $17,000,000 for hospitals throughout the United States.

In a majority of cases the relatives of the men who will become inmates of the Massachusetts hospital reside in the vicinity of Greater Boston, and the fact that Harvard Medical, Tufts Medical, Massachusetts Psychopathic Hospital, Brigham Research Hospital and numerous other organizations are to be found in Boston, coupled with the additional fact that railroad connections are excellent, would make it extremely desirable that such an institution be located in Greater Boston.

In my opinion, his Excellency, the Governer, Channing H. Cox, would undoubtedly be pleased to recommend to the Metropolitan Park Commission the assignment of such land as may be necessary in the Blue Hill Reservation or the Middlesex Fells, as might be required to properly provide for the needs of the institution that the Government proposes locating in New England.

Trusting that you will find it possible to devote the time to this most worthy undertaking that will insure the selection of a site in Greater Boston, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR DONATES BASEBALL CUP.

Expressing his hearty approval of twilight baseball, Mayor Curley has donated a beautiful cup. The trophy is to be called the "City Cup," and will be awarded to the club that wins the championship of the Boston Twilight League.

The opening game will be played on Monday evening, May 15, at the municipal playground, Forest Hills. The competing clubs will be the St. Andrews of Forest Hills and the Dorchesters.

Mayor Curley will be present. The Park Commission and several other departments will also be represented. Commissioner Shea plans to erect bleachers in as many of the playing fields as possible, so that those who have no opportunity to witness a game of baseball during the day can attend the evening games which are made possible by the extra hour of daylight.

Supply Department.

Upon April 26 the Mayor approved the contract with George McQuesten Company for furnishing 50,000 feet of hard pine to the Transit Department. Bids for the supply were opened April 14 with bidders as follows:

Downes Lumber Company, $60 per thousand feet; George McQuesten Company, $44 per thousand feet; P. S. Huckins Company, no price on Supply Department copy, $44 on auditor's copy.

Incident to the award of this contract Frank P. Rock, Superintendent of the Supply Department, made the following statement:

"Attached please find list of bids on proposals for furnishing 50,000 feet, more or less, of hard pine to the Transit Department, which were publicly opened and read at this office under date of April 14, 1922.

"In view of the fact that the bids submitted by the P. S. Huckins Company were irregular, as the proposal submitted to the Supply Department was not signed and had no prices therein, I respectfully request that permission be granted me to award this contract to the lowest bidder, the George McQuesten Company, at $44 per thousand feet."

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Domenico Gentile, 95 Leverett street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,
Joseph A. Rourke,

* Monarch; † American.

Reed-Prentiss Company were bidders on Items 7, 8 and 13, $900, $800 and $750, respectively. Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company were bidders on Items 14 and 15, their bid being $1,296.50 and $1,117.50, respectively.

On Items 4 and 6 Lynd-Farquhar Company, 419 Atlantic avenue, was the lowest bidder on machines as specified; on Items 5 and 7 this company was the lowest bidder on machines equal to those specified. The Board therefore voted on March 28 to award to Lynd-Farquhar Company the contract for Items 4, 5, 6 and 7, which award was approved by your Honor on April 1, 1922. Formal contract was approved by your Honor on April 12, 1922. The Law Department has ruled, however, that this award was not legally made, owing to the fact that the duplicate proposal deposited by the bidder at the auditor's office did not contain the separate prices on the various items of machinery, but only the total amount of the proposal, as has hitherto been the custom.

Inasmuch, however, as the prices named are the lowest obtainable, and no advantage to the city would result from readvertising, the Board has therefore voted, subject to the approval of your Honor, to award to Lynd-Farquhar Company the contract for the items named, under the provisions of section 30, chapter 486, of the Acts of 1909, and hereby respectfully requests the approval of your Honor to this award, without readvertising, under the provisions of the said act.

Respectfully yours,

Thomas P. Glynn,
Chairman.

MAYOR SUBMITS BUDGET.

Mayor Curley has submited to the Council the segregated budget for the year 1922-23. This is a substitute for the one submitted on February 27. In presenting the final copy to the Council the Mayor made the following comment:

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith the budget for the year 1922-23, in full segregated form, in substitution for the budget submitted on February 27, 1922.

I believe it my duty to direct the attention of your honorable body to the fact that the total amount available for reconstructing and repairing streets is $1,000,000, despite the fact that an expenditure of $5,000,000 for this purpose annually would not be excessive and is actually necessary, not for one year, but for a ten-year period, in order to provide streets suitable for public travel.

The problem of adequate highways has been met in other sections of our country by the issuance of loans and, apparently, some day the public may realize that, distasteful as this course may be, it is the only rational method of meeting a situation annually becoming more unbearable.

I respectfully recommend the early adoption of the budget.

Respectfully,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

RENT COMMISSION CONTINUED.

The Rent and Housing Commission is to be continued for three months after May 1, according to Mayor Curley.

The commission is to be housed in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall, as the reorganized Transit Department needs all the room at 1 Beacon street, where both departments have been quartered.

MAYOR ISSUES GRANT DAY PROCLAMATION.

Mayor Curley, through a proclamation, issued a stirring appeal to all citizens of Boston to observe the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Ulysses S. Grant, one of the most heroic figures in the annals of American history. The anniversary occurred on Thursday, April 27, and the proclamation was as follows:

To the Citizens of Boston:

Thursday, April 27, 1922, marks the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Ulysses S. Grant, one of the most heroic figures in American annals, and a man whose achievements in the field of military action, supplementing the patient wisdom and far-seeing statesmanship of the immortal Lincoln and under the providence of God, saved the Union from disruption and preserved the principle of Government of the People, by the People, for the People from perishing from the earth.

To recall this great figure, to recount his achievements, to remember his sacrifices, to repeat to our children the story of his life, and to impress upon the stranger within our gates something of the measure of his services to the Republic and the manner of man Ulysses S. Grant was, is a serious patriotic duty in this hour and day. The world forgets too easily, and already we hear the names of those who sought to destroy the Union acclaimed by the unthinking in public places, while the names of those who saved the nation and preserved human liberty are heard with indifference. Boston and Massachusetts must never forget.

The splendid simplicity of Grant's character, his unqualified Americanism, his patience under trial and misrepresentation, his magnanimity in victory, his charity and solicitude for the vanquished, his personal modesty, his scorn of revenge, his wisdom that saw only weakness and futility in vindictive measures and laws, his love of peace, his devotion to his country, his loyalty to the Constitution and the principles of democracy, his unfaltering humanity, his fidelity to right living, his contempt for official ostentation and his personal dignity, revealed the native worth of the man, marked him as one of the greatest figures of his time and lifted him above the level of his age.

He lived simply; he wrought greatly; and the patient and uncomplaining endurance of the suffering and anguish of his last days in the seclusion of Mt. MacGregor touched the heart of America and called forth the sorrow and admiration of the world.

To forget Grant is to reject the most heroic chapter of American history; to remember him is a patriotic duty, a sacred obligation.

In these days of unrest, when evil influences are at work in this American community, fomenting social, racial and religious dissensions, it is a wholesome thing to recall the names and deeds of our great dead; and, as in every great crisis of our national life, find in the primal principles of our democracy the antidote for that spurious Americanism which corrodes humanity and destroys liberty.

Therefore, as Mayor of the City of Boston, I call on the citizens of Boston to make Thursday, April 27, 1922, a Grant day; to display the flag of the American Union he saved and to honor his name and memory in other suitable ways.

James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR CURLEY CONDUCTING FOREIGN BUSINESS SURVEY TO BUILD UP BOSTON TRADE.

Mayor Curley, through his Commercial and Industrial Bureau, in co-operation with the Boston Chamber of Commerce, has been conducting a business survey of foreign countries through the various consular agents and commercial attaches of embassies. As the result of this survey plans are being developed for putting Boston and New England commercial interests into direct connection with merchants in these countries and thus building up business for the Port of Boston.

With the first of these surveys received from George H. Pickerell, United States Consul at Para, Brazil, comes the announcement from him that Boston and New England can have South American business if direct steamship service can be established. As the first stimulant to business the Bureau, in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce Maritime Association, is turning over to manufacturers of rubber goods and other industries, as well as importers of Brazil nuts, the information this survey contains as well as the suggestions made by Consul Pickerell.

There is a wide field in Para, according to Consul Pickerell, for general merchandise and manufactured goods produced in New England. Our machinery and tools are also well liked and preferred.

"Without direct shipping facilities," says Consul Pickerell, "I do not see how it would be possible to place orders to an advantage with Boston firms although personally I believe that given proper facilities Boston would be as good or perhaps a better buying market for this district than New York; as also, the probabilities are that Boston firms could afford to do business on a lower overhead charge."

"For this entire district, New York is now and has been for several years our principal source of supply, due to the fact that such shipping board steamships as touch these ports have their principal offices there; and the fact that your city had no steamship lines and no direct business connections with this market made it, if not impossible, at least difficult to utilize your facilities.

"I have often wondered why your rubber manufacturers, who in times past were large buyers of crude rubber, did not arrange to have more direct connection with this market."

According to Consul Pickerell there is much business to be done in all the states of Brazil, particularly those of Para, Amazonas, Maranham and Ceara. In addition to this the resources of the country are of great promise, there being vast mines of iron, manganese, bauxite, copper, gold, silver, lead, platinum, diamonds and oil awaiting capital and development.

"When these resources are developed," he concluded, "there will be no complaint as to the amount of business to be done as the people of Para are good spenders and are always willing to be shown."

MAYOR CALLS FOR HIGH MORAL TONE IN MOVIES.

Mayor Curley has sent a letter to the meeting of the Southeastern Conference of movie producers at Atlanta, Ga., expressing approval of the convention and voicing the sentiment that this form of entertainment is one of the noblest of its kind and praising the plan of motion picture regulation as adopted. The letter reads:

Boston, April 25, 1922.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Chairman, Better Films Committee, Atlanta, Ga.:

Dear Madam,—While I deeply regret my inability to be present at this important gathering, I wish to express my sincere good wishes for the success of the Southeastern Conference, assembled in the interest of the highest type of motion picture entertainment. The power of enlightened public opinion is equal to any task, and it was because of my belief in the fundamental wholesomemindedness of the American people that in my previous administration as Mayor of Boston I inaugurated what has come to be known throughout the country as the "Boston Plan of Motion Picture Regulation," which, continued by succeeding administrations, is generally recognized as providing every safeguard for the public welfare, while at the same time preserving for the motion picture those principles of freedom of expression guaranteed by our Constitution. This Boston plan is simply the concentration of the best public opinion, through the picture theatres, on the authors, actors, producing directors and executives employed in picture making.

The influence of citizens' committees organized for the purpose of voicing the highest ideal in their communities with respect to their amusements cannot fail to exercise a mighty power in the studios, where already much that is finest in classic and modern literature is being adapted to the screen. While we are sometimes compelled to recognize that there are those who do not always live up to the highest ideals set before them in the pictures they send out from the studios, I nevertheless believe that this conference will be far-reaching in crystalizing a powerful public sentiment which will act as a mighty urge for all producers to strive toward the highest goal. I further believe that could meetings be held in other sections of the country similar to this meeting of representatives of large and small communities of the six Southern States, together with representatives of the National Board of Review, upon whose advisory board I have placed a representative of the City of Boston, the present standard of motion picture entertainments would be measurably raised.

The moving picture industry occupies today relatively the same position with reference to the molding of thought on the part of the youth of the country that literature has in the past. The bad effects resulting from evil literature are known to everyone. The bad effect resulting from obscene motion pictures is greater than that from bad literature.

The motion picture actors and actresses are today the heroes and heroines of the boys and girls of the world. They loom large in their mind's eye at the plastic period of their existence when impressions once formed are impossible to efface; consequently motion picture actors and actresses owe it to the future womanhood and manhood of America to live up to the ideals created in the minds of the young of our country with reference to them.

Greater responsibility never rested on individual men or women than that which rests upon those operating the motion picture industry, and their responsibility is only equalled by that which rests upon the actors and actresses. Their power for good is immeasurable. Their power for evil is so great that unless they live clean and produce clean, public sentiment will wreck the industry.

I sincerely hope and believe that your deliberations will be fruitful of great influence on our national life as expressed in the employment of its leisure hours, by pointing the way in making the voice of the community felt in the studios of California.

Respectfully yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR SEEKS TO HALT GAS DEATHS.

Mayor Curley has asked the Law Department to frame a measure to safeguard Boston citizens from death by gas poisoning. The Mayor has been constrained to take this action as the result of the numerous fatalities being reported in Boston and throughout the state. In his effort to save the lives of the citizens he has sought the aid of Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan in a letter which reads:

Boston, April 26, 1922.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, 730 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—The report in the morning papers of three deaths from gas poisoning, coupled with the fact that the average of asphyxiations is two each day in the state, would make it advisable to adopt a regulation or ordinance making it unlawful to use anything other than a fixed metal connection to any device used for either illumination or heating for household purposes.

The report in the case of the Dempseys, father and son, at Roxbury, would indicate that, in some manner, the rubber hose attached to the gas stove became disconnected, and this occurs so frequently that measures should be taken to safeguard the public from a recurrence.

In the case of the quarter meter system, apparently most of the deaths are due to some individual reading in bed at night; falling asleep; the amount of gas provided for by the prepayment meter being furnished, the light goes out with the cock open.

The arrival of some other inmate of the house desiring illumination and dropping the customary coin in the gas box causes the gas to flow from the jet and results in the death of the sleeper.

I, personally, believe that the present situation is such that immediate action should be taken, and trust you will assign some representative of the Law Department to confer at once with the representative of the gas division of the Building Department and the Health Commissioner, with a view to devising a necessary means of protecting the public.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

BACK MAYOR FOR HOSPITAL.

Mayor Curley was visited by a delegation from the Women's Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Association of Disabled Veterans, Inc., who called to tender their thanks to his Honor for his able championing of the cause of a new hospital for disabled veterans in Massachusetts and New England.

They announced to the Mayor that they were supporting him in this fight and proposed to have every member of their organization write to the senators and congressmen from this state urging upon them the necessity for such a hospital here, located either in the Fellsway or in the Blue Hills Reservation.

Miss Annie Molloy acted as spokesman for the delegation. Those accompanying her were: Mrs. Arthur D. Halley, Mrs. Alfred Rosser, Mrs. Edward F. McGrady, Mrs. Mary J. Langen, Mrs. Catherine Hearty, Mrs. Dora Horne, Mrs. Anna D. Collins and President William H. Burns.

MAYOR URGES STATE ACTION ON ELEVATED FARE SCANDAL.

Mayor Curley has addressed the following communication to Honorable B. Loring Young, Speaker of the House of Representatives, State House, Boston:

My dear Mr. Speaker,—I am gratified with the information in your note of the 22d instant, that the matter of the McCormack order will be given attention by the Rules Committee early this week.

I venture again to emphasize the issue which the situation presents. I do this because so many, including even his Excellency the Governor, have either failed to perceive or have ignored it.

The present issue is not whether it was necessary or expedient in 1918 to grant relief in some proper form to the Elevated Railway.

It is not whether the increased cost of transportation should be paid by car riders or be met by some form of taxation.

That is water than has gone under the wheel.

The question is not even whether the Public Control Trustees are doing all that may be done to bring about a five-cent fare. We may assume, knowing the character of these gentlemen, that they are doing their best under the provisions of the law by which they are bound.

The question now before us is quite a different one, and we must not permit it to be either confused or ignored.

The issue which now confronts the Legislature and the people of this commonwealth is whether a contract with the state, which has been secured by fraud, which has been incorporated in a statute passed by means of bribery and corruption of the members of the Legislature, is binding on the commonwealth; or whether, because of fraud, such a contract can be set aside by appropriate proceedings in court.

The question is not even whether there was fraud and corruption of the Legislature. The evidence on that subject is before the people. They know, the Legislature knows; we do not need the opinion of the Attorney-General on that subject.

But those who profited by the fraud, those who defend this legislation, say that even though fraud was exercised, still there is no remedy. This contention presents the issue, and the sole issue.

Will the Legislature ask its adviser, the chief law officer of the Commonwealth, whether this be so: whether if fraud was perpetrated and the Legislature corrupted, the people of this Commonwealth are still without remedy?

Why should there be hesitation in asking such an opinion?

I again repeat the expression of my hope that if the committee have any doubt in the premises, the matter may be discussed at a public hearing.

Your letter of March 6 should have been acknowledged. Accept my apology, please, for my inadvertence.

So far as that letter calls for a reply what I have here written covers what I have to say—except, let me add, that I sincerely appreciate your friendly suggestions and thank you for your promised co-operation.

Yours very truly,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner.

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

REJECTED CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved four claims against the city, in two of which no amounts were specified, and the other two aggregated $95 and are classfied as follows:

Against the Franklin Union, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Institutions Department, one, amounting to $65; against the Public Works Department, two, in one of which no amount was specified, and the other one amounted to $30.

All these claims were disapproved because there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

MAYOR TELLS COTTON MEN OF PORT.

The following address was delivered by Mayor Curley at the opening of the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at the Hotel Somerset:

"Next to the shoe industry and its allied interests, the textile industry represents the most important economic enterprise in New England; and it is becoming increasingly necessary, if it is to continue to function and thrive in its present home, that every phase of its economic life must be watched and safeguarded. It is a highly competitive industry, for besides the competition between the manufacturers of New England, there is a keen competition with the textile enterprises of the country at large and particularly with the relatively new rivalry of the Southern States, which grows sharper with the passage of time.

"Boston is unquestionably the capital of New England, of the region in which your mills operate; and the ebb and flow of your industrial tide is reflected and registered here; for here your banking and financing are done and here live many of your stockholders. It is natural that the Mayor of Boston should be interested in your economic condition and in the commercial, industrial and financial factors that count in your progress and prosperity, and I conceive it to be a duty of first importance that he should feel a deep concern in all the elements that concern you.

"Looking at industry in its broadest and most human aspect and its effect on our social conditions, it is undeniable that the basis of all contentment, which is happiness, is work and wages, constant and perennial. The busy man engaged in productive work is the best pledge of social and industrial peace, the best guaranty of democratic stability and political safety; and per contra, the idle man is a danger to the peace and security of a democracy such as ours. The present wide-spread unemployment is the most serious problem of the day; it is a breeder of unrest and discontent; and the business and industrial depression which it connotes is the source of that most regrettable of incidents in industrial life, the strike, which seldom helps labor and always injures capital.

"Today I prefer to bring you a message of suggestive hope rather than discuss the less pleasant features of the industrial situation. I would like to tell you that in my opinion it is the duty of the textile industry of New England to keep its home fires burning, to make New England the Alpha and Omega of its industrial energies. New England must be self-sufficient and independent; she must find her foreign, Southern, and Pacific Coast markets through the same channels, through Boston, or become a mere suburb of New York, which in the end means the extinction of New England individuality, commercial and industrial.

"You people use millions of bales of cotton annually, most of which comes to you at high rates over interior lines with long hauls. The great cotton regions of America from Texas to the Sea Island, are in close proximity to the sea and their crops can be brought by water to Boston for a much cheaper rate and landed in your warehouse with a saving that must count in an industry that finds a quarter and an eighth of a cent worth considering.

"The City of Boston is now negotiating with Washington to obtain control of the Army Base, with its piers, docks, splendid equipment and vast storage facilities, and here it proposes to set up, if you will help, a great cotton depot to serve the textile industries of New England. Here may be stored hundreds of thousands of bales at a trifling expense, which can be forwarded to your mills as your industrial needs demand, giving you quick and safe deliveries, saving you needless expense building warehouses, and giving you a service difficult to obtain today. The advantages of this system when worked out in detail must appeal to you. It will be a great public utility working for the commercial and industrial good of Boston, Massachusetts and New England and not for private gain, a utility to serve you, for upon your prosperity ours rests. We will be partners in an enterprise that will help you to do business more economically and enable you to compete with your rivals more successfully. I leave you that thought. Think it over. Boston wants to help you and New England if it be humanly possible, and I think it is."

CELEBRATE CITY CENTENNIAL.

All citizens of Boston are asked to take part in the celebration of the centennial of Boston as a city, next Monday, May 1, by the Boston Centennial Committee, in an announcement of the program for the day.

Display of a city flag, together with the national emblem, if nothing more, is desired, as well as a large attendance at the noon meeting in Faneuil Hall and at the City Hall flag raising at 11 a. m. Special window displays in celebration of the day have been installed by a number of the larger stores.

On Sunday, churches will have special features in their services pertaining to the day. Historic Christ Church, in the North End, the "Old North Church," will have a special address in connection with the morning service, by Walter K. Watkins, on "The Last Days of Boston as a Town." Monday, at 11.10 a. m. the chimes in churches will be rung.

The committee has asked that all church bells within the city shall be rung, those that are not chimes to begin at 11 and end at 11.10 a. m., and the chimes then to be played for from ten to fifteen minutes.

A permanent tablet commemorative of Boston's hundred years of existence as a city will be dedicated at the meeting in Faneuil Hall, at noon. Mayor Curley will preside and two essays by public school pupils, on the Boston of a century ago, will be read. There will be music by an orchestra and singing by the assembly. George W. Coleman, chairman of the Boston Centennial Committee, will present the tablet to the city and it will be unveiled by the Mayor's daughter, Miss Mary Curley.

Historical material relating to old Boston has been on display at the Old State House for several days and will remain until after May 1. The Boston Public Library is preparing to open an all-summer special Boston display, to begin May 1, for the benefit of visitors to the city as well as Bostonians.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

Abraham Caplan et al., in the amount of $38.81, for refund of bills paid on estates at 14-8-22 Wayland street through misunderstanding.

William J. Stober, in the amount of $160,000, for damage on account of takings for the laying out, extension, widening and relocation of Stuart street, Back Bay.

Massachusetts Automobile Club Trust by Francis Peabody, for self and Trustee, in the amount of $120.18, as payment for all land taken and damages occasioned to its estate in Clarendon street, Back Bay, by the laying out and construction of an extension of said street under an order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

Annie F. Stack, in the amount of $20,331, as payment for land taken and damages occasioned to her estate in Eliot street, city proper, by the laying out, extension, widening and relocation of Stuart street under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

SENATOR LODGE WRITES THE MAYOR ON HOSPITAL.

The Mayor has received a communication from Senator Lodge relative to a hospital for disabled veterans in or near Boston, in response to his telegram. In this letter Senator Lodge states that he is taking up the matter with the Director of the Veterans' Bureau. The letter reads as follows:

United States Senate, April 25, 1922.

My dear Mr. Mayor,—I have received your letter of April 22d in regard to the matter of the hospitals. Seventeen millions additional has been appropriated which is to be spent under the direction of the President for hospitals, and I have been attempting to take the question up with Colonel Forbes with reference to Massachusetts. You will remember that under the previous appropriation of eighteen millions the commission to whom the selection of sites was intrusted picked out Rutland in Massachusetts for one of the new hospitals. For this reason, as you will readily see, it might be difficult to get a second new hospital built by the United States in a single state. Undoubtedly there may be some additional hospital accommodations needed in the neighborhood of Boston and perhaps some additions to the hospitals now existing, but these are the points which I am going to take up with the Director of the Veterans' Bureau.

Very truly yours,

H. C. Lodge.

EXPERT FOR PLANNING BOARD.

Boston's City Planning Board, which recently was awarded a special fund of $10,000 by the City Council in order to obtain an expert city planner and decide on some comprehensive plan for future development in this city, took steps at a meeting of the Board toward engaging such an expert.

A man most eminently fitted to lead in the development of a "Boston beautiful" is being considered by the Board members, but as he has not yet decided to accept or decline the position his name is not mentioned.

TWO ADDITIONAL CONSTABLES.

The Mayor has approved the request of William M. McMorrow, City Collector, for the appointment of two additional constables. A communication from the City Collector on the subject was as follows:

Boston, April 21, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I respectfully call to your attention what I consider the desirability of the appointment of at least two additional constables in the Collection Department to aid in the collection of overdue poll taxes.

It has been called to my attention that in the past three or four years there have been several glaring instances of the practice of collecting poll taxes from delinquent taxpayers through "outside" constables where the costs have been pyramided to an extent entirely disproportionate to the tax itself.

The arrest of Mr. M—— of W—— street is a case in point. The costs in this instance appear to have been as follows:

Poll tax	$5 00
Interest	08
Demand	25
Warrant	50
Arrest	1 00
Distraint	4 00
Copy of warrant	50
Travel expense	20
Board	1 75
Assistant	2 00
Total	$15 28

Several other cases where the costs have been similar might be cited, e. g., Mr. A—— of Ward 16, who was compelled to pay $14.42; Mr. W——, also of Ward 16, whose total costs amounted to $15.15; and Mr. F—— of H—— street, whose costs ran up to $14.58. It is to be noted that of the total amount in every case only $5.82 is paid over to the city, the same being the first three items mentioned in case No. 1.

It appears to me that these costs are pernicious, especially in these times of stress and where so many lack employment. I therefore request permission to make the appointments referred to as a step against this long outstanding evil.

Very respectfully yours,

William M. McMorrow,
City Collector.

ASK ROOMS FOR WOMEN JURORS.

Mayor Curley received a communication from the justices of the Supreme Judicial Court calling attention to the need of remodeling the Suffolk County Courthouse so as to take proper care of the women jurors should jury duty be imposed on the women of the county. The letter reads:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.
SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

WORCESTER, April 20, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The justices of the Supreme Judicial Court by Statutes 1894, chapter 453, are vested with "the care, custody and control" of the Suffolk County Court House. It is by virtue of the responsibility thus imposed upon them that the justices feel constrained to address you.

The newspapers report that a statute imposing jury duty upon women is likely to be enacted at the present sitting of the General Court. Manifestly the expediency of such legislation is wholly outside our province. But our duty under the statute concerning the Suffolk County Courthouse compels us to call your attention to certain facts.

If women are to be jurors, adequate provision must be made for their convenience in performing that service. The Suffolk County Courthouse is utterly unfit for the accommodation of women as jurors. Before appropriate provision could be made for them material changes in the building and the expenditure of large sums of money would be required. The necessary changes to that end would demand space already devoted to other imperative public uses. The courthouse is now and has been for some time badly overcrowded. In view of this, we are of opinion that proper provision for women jurors will render essential an addition to the courthouse, the nature of which will depend upon the extent of relief deemed wise for the present congestion within the building and for imminent future needs. What special legislation may be regarded as necessary for this purpose is not for us to decide. The Suffolk County Courthouse was built under the authority of Statutes 1885, chapter 377, at the expense of the City of Boston, and an addition under Statutes 1906, chapter 534, two thirds of the expense of which was borne ultimately by the City of Boston and one third by the Commonwealth.

A letter similar to this in substance has been sent to his Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth. A similar one, also, was sent to your predecessor in January, 1921.

Yours very truly,

ARTHUR P. RUGG,
Chief Justice.

TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR MEMORIAL MASS.

The memorial mass in Fenway Park for Catholic soldiers and sailors who died in the war is to have an appropriation of $2,000 instead of the usual $1,000, Mayor Curley stated, after he heard representatives of several organizations which will take part in the exercises.

MAYOR GETS HOSPITAL ACTION.

Quick action to relieve the unemployment situation in Greater Boston has been secured from Senator Lodge by Mayor Curley according to a message received from the Senator relative to securing one of the hospital buildings for this section which the United States Veterans' Bureau is planning to erect from the $17,000,000 fund Congress has provided for that purpose.

The Mayor sent a message to Senator Lodge Saturday asking that he confer with his colleagues in Congress from this state and by their united effort secure the erection of one of the hospitals in Greater Boston as the most logical place for such an institution because of its proximity to leading medical authorities of the country and such facilities as our medical schools and hospitals afford.

His Honor received the following reply from Senator Lodge:

"Your telegram received. Think I ought to consult other senators from New England representing states where similar conditions exist. Will write.

H. C. Lodge."

COTTON MEN STUDY PORT.

Development of the Port of Boston for the benefit of New England was one of the chief topics of discussion for the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers when they held their annual meeting at the Hotel Somerset Thursday, April 27, and Friday, April 28. Mayor Curley opened the sessions and told of the port's needs as well as the development he hopes to achieve with the co-operation of all Boston and New England interests.

There were five hundred of the most prominent men connected with the cotton industry in the country attending and some of the most noted economists of the day made addresses. In addition to port facilities and efforts to make greater use of these in cotton industry traffic, there were discussions of the natural resources of New England and how they may be preserved and made to serve the community to greater advantage.

Among those who addressed sessions were: Dr. Julius Klein, Director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C.; Charles Penrose, member of the National Electric Light Association; John Oldham, of Boston, transportation expert; Nathaniel F. Ayer, noted mill man, and Arthur H. Lowe, chairman of the Consolidated Tariff Commission.

Tours of manufacturing plants of the city and an excursion down the harbor to show its advantages concluded the session, following which the annual dinner and election of officers took place.

MAYOR CURLEY ASKS INQUIRY INTO TEXTILE STRIKES.

Mayor Curley addressed the following telegram to Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and David I. Walsh at Washington:

"The textile strikes now on in Lawrence, Lowell, and other textile centers in New England present a serious situation.

"The mill owners assert that they have been conducting their business at a loss; that if wages cannot be reduced their mills must be closed because they cannot compete with the textile mills in the South.

"These assertions have been repeated publicly on responsible authority. If they are true we are threatened with disaster. If on the other hand the statements are false and unfounded they should not be used as a means of coercing labor.

"If labor were convinced that these industries would be driven out of New England unless concessions were made in wages, I believe the workers would consent to a reduction, but if these statements are false and misleading the public ought to know it.

"I respectfully suggest and urge a Congressional investigation of this whole matter covering not only present conditions but as well the war profits and accumulated surplus of these mills.

James M. Curley, Mayor."

MAYOR TO REWARD BRAVERY.

Walter Scott of 495 Broadway, New York City, vice president of Butler Brothers, and formerly an employee of the Jordan Marsh Company, called on Mayor Curley and presented to the city two solid gold medals, the dies from which the medals were cast, and two $1,000 7½ per cent bonds of the French Republic.

The income from the fund will be used to cover the cost of medals for future years, one to be awarded to the bravest fireman and one to the bravest policeman. Each year half of the income from the fund is to be turned over to the Police Commissioner and half to the Fire Commissioner to pay for one medal for each department. If in any years the commissioners do not find an act warranting such an award the money will be turned back into the fund.

"May I say to you, Mr. Mayor," said Mr. Scott, in presenting the medals, "as one who spent his boyhood days in Boston, and who has ever held the City of Boston very close to his heart, that it affords me more than ordinary pleasure to donate these medals in perpetuity to two such worthy departments in your city, the records of which I have watched with keen interest."

BOSTON INDUSTRIAL CENTER.

At the reception and banquet at O'Connell Hall, Hibernian Building, Roxbury, Monday evening, April 24, to Michael J. Ward, outside secretary to Mayor James M. Curley, a debate on political matters developed between the president of the City Council, James A. Watson, and ex-representative Thomas J. Giblin of East Boston, which provoked much laughter. When Messrs. Watson and Giblin sat down each believed he had won.

The reception was tendered by the Seaver Square Associates. More than 500 members and their friends attended. A feature was the presentation of a gold watch and chain to Mr. Ward by Mayor Curley.

In his address Mayor Curley said that Boston was the coming industrial center of the country. He stated that an iron foundry will be constructed in South Boston that will give employment to several thousand men. He also said that the big grain growers of the Middle West will establish a branch in Boston.

He declared that if Beacon Hill blocks his plans too strongly he will go out and capture the hill.

The Mayor concluded with a glowing tribute to Mr. Ward.

After Mayor Edward Quinn of Cambridge finished his address he was persuaded to sing.

Other speakers were Congressman Peter F. Tague, Rev. Dr. John E. Killion of St. Francis de Sales Church, Councilor Daniel W. Lane and Victor A. Heath. An entertainment was provided, including several vaudeville numbers from downtown theaters.

VETO—CHRISTOPHER J. LEE PLAYGROUND IMPROVEMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 11, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the order approved by your Board on March 27, providing for the expenditure of $100,000 for improvements in the extension of Christopher J. Lee Playground, South Boston.

The failure of your Board to rescind the order providing for gymnasium at Broadway, South Boston, not only renders it impossible for me to approve the appropriation for the Christopher J. Lee Playground but, in addition, renders it impossible to proceed with other equally necessary and important playground developments.

Twilight baseball enjoys today a larger attendance than any other outdoor sport, yet it will be necessary to put the public to the inconvenience of standing during baseball games in all sections of the city, simply because of the failure to rescind the order for the gymnasium at Broadway, South Boston.

The action of the Council will make necessary the possible postponement of the erection of bleachers and improvement of the baseball field at Gibson Street Playground, Dorchester, Eagle Hill Playground, East Boston, and the Christopher J. Lee Playground, South Boston.

I sincerely trust that, upon reflection, the City Council will consider the fundamental that should never be overlooked in government, namely, the greatest good for the largest number and, if this thought is observed by the City Council, it should result in the immediate rescinding of the unexpended balance of the appropriation for a gymnasium at Broadway, South Boston, and with this money available it will be possible to provide for the needs of many sections of Boston at once.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—SIDEWALKS ON NEWBURG STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 11, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your honorable body providing for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks on Newburg street, from Belgrade avenue to Beech street.

The limited appropriation for work of this character makes this action necessary.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Placed on file.

AMOUNT OF RELIEF TO CITY POOR.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Overseers of Public Welfare be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to inform the City Council if it has the information of the amount of relief, if any, that is given to the worthy poor of the City of Boston by the Family Welfare Society of Boston, formerly known as the Associated Charities.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, in consequence of information, facts that have been brought to my attention, I have introduced the order just read by the Clerk for the purpose of furnishing the public, through the minutes of the Council, and perhaps through the kindness of the press, data with which I believe the public should be acquainted concerning the Family Welfare Society of Boston, formerly and better known as the Associated Charities. This is not the first time that I have stood upon this Council floor and spoken my mind plainly concerning the professional philanthropists who make up this organization and who draw large salaries through the goodness of heart of the people who subscribed to the associated charities of the City of Boston. John Boyle O'Reilly, the gifted poet, penned the following lines in one stanza of "In Bohemia," which I shall use as my text in the remarks concerning the order I have introduced:

"The vulgar sham of pompous feast,
Where the heaviest purse is the highest priest;
The organized charity, scrimped and iced,
In the name of a cautious, statistical Christ."

No truer words were ever penned concerning the philanthropist who ekes out glory and salaries from the misfortunes of the worthy poor of great centers like Boston. The words of O'Reilly tell the entire story, and I would stop here only that I wish to present a few facts and figures that are germane to the subject under consideration. The information I have had in hand for weeks is fortified by action of certain police officers of the City of Boston yesterday, following out the propaganda and the proselyting of the Family Welfare Association of Boston. Yesterday, at about half past nine, my door bell rang. I answered the bell, and upon opening the door I was accosted by a respectable appearing man with a band upon his arm which bore the inscription, "Russian Famine Conference," and he told me that he and others making up several organizations, among them labor organizations, were soliciting contributions for the relief of starving Soviet Russia. I hold no brief for Sovietism, as I understand it, although I know little about it, but I do hold a brief for starving and suffering humanity, regardless of political or religious affiliations, and I told him that I would subscribe one dollar. He accepted the dollar, thanked me, and handed me two receipts for fifty cents each, which say, being numbered 4491 and 4492 respectively, "Received donation, fifty cents, for the relief of famine-stricken Soviet Russia. Russian Famine Relief Conference," and they bore the union label. He left my door and went to the left. In about five minutes the patrol wagon of Station 10, which covers the district in which I live, came by the house with an officer on the rear step. The officer, knowing me, waved his hand to me, and, becoming curious, I followed him with my eye to a point about three doors beyond my home. The wagon stopped there and the officer on the rear got off and was joined by another officer from the interior of the patrol wagon. I then heard a voice say, "Here they are," and they went across the street. I wandered down there to see what the trouble was. They came to the wagon carrying a respectable looking young man and a respectable looking young woman, to place them in the patrol wagon. I assumed that they had committed an offence in particular that I had in mind, but I inquired, "What is the trouble?" The officer said, "We are taking them in for soliciting." I then noticed that they both had on their arms the band I referred to as being on the arm of the man who solicited and received a contribution from me at my door a few minutes before. I said, "What are you arresting them for?" The officer, whom I don't know but who evidently knew me, said, "We are not arresting them, Mr. Watson, we are merely taking them to the station house." "For what?" I said. "For soliciting without a permit." "Do you mean to tell me that you are going to take that young lady and that young man in the patrol wagon to Station 10, submitting them to that public disgrace, taking them down there in this manner without placing them under arrest?" The reply was, ""Those are our orders," and they told me that they were combing the district for many more who were soliciting for this selfsame fund. I said, ""I tell you what I will do. If you will release those two, not taking them in the patrol wagon, we will all walk down to the station together, and I will guarantee that they will go there in an orderly way." The officer said, "We can't do that, Jerry; we have our orders from the captain." I said, "Before you take them, will you come to my house and telephone to the captain, and tell him that I protest against these apparently decent people being placed in the patrol wagon when they have committed no crime, and when it is not proposed to place them under arrest?" They said, "Yes," and they went to my house with the young man and the young woman. I got the name of the young man and the young woman, and I have the names here. The officer telephoned to Station 10. I did not hear what was said at the other end; I am not on intimate or friendly terms with the captain in charge, and do not desire to be. The officer who had come into the house with me, said, "There is a citizen here protesting against my taking this man and woman, who have been soliciting without a permit, to the station house in the wagon." Then the answer came back asking who it was, and the officer said, "Jerry Watson." Almost immediately the phone was hung up and the officer said, "They will have to go." I said, "Very well. You will hear from me." I had had no intention of referring to this matter, not knowing that anything of this sort was going to happen, but simply had in mind the Family Welfare proposition, upon which I have had something in preparation for weeks. But this incident dovetailed into the other as well as anything could. Then my front door opened and another officer came in, the driver of the patrol wagon, making a third officer who was taking part in this affair. The thought immediately struck me that the District Attorney of the state, the United States District Attorney and the Attorney-General, at the suggestion of Governor Cox, had been holding a conference in order to put down crime, which they say is rampant in Massachusetts, that we had been told that there was great need of police officers, and here they were sending out a number of officers to gather in inoffensive and well-meaning people who were simply soliciting for suffering humanity in a foreign country. They were there altogether four officers, and I don't know how many more had been delegated to gather in these solicitors, at a time when we had been told that crime was rampant and that all the police were needed. The conference must have been a joke; I don't believe there is any such amount of crime as they claim there is. It is hysteria, brought about by propagandists. But they will cause more crime and disturbance if they are not careful. Gentlemen of the Council, we are on the edge of a volcano. The service men of our country are dissatisfied, and rightly so, with the treatment accorded them by the government of the country, national, state and city. Crime is on the increase. Starving men and women are not using the best judgment in securing the necessities of life. They are not standing for authority and for law and order, because they think only of their dear ones and their needs. We have the spectacle of two district attorneys of the state removed from office; we see increasing unemployment; we see generally disturbed conditions. More men are receiving soldiers' relief than ever before in the history of Boston. The Overseers of the Poor Department have been working the limit in helping worthy people, and then we see the money of the taxpayers being wasted by people in the department which is responsible for sending out squads of men to take into custody and to intimidate those who are seeking money to aid a starving community. For shame! I want to say—my duty compels me to do so, in all fairness to Commissioner Wilson—that I waited upon the commissioner this morning and stated the circumstances, and he produced a letter which was the last general order sent out by Superintendent Crowley under the late Commissioner Curtis, in which it said in substance that, owing to the numerous complaints from certain people about pan-handling and begging on the highways, the captains in the different districts should instruct the officers to warn those who were begging on the highways; and it said further that any man or women in need could apply to the Family Welfare Society or to the Overseers of the Poor of the City of Boston. The latter was stamped with the name of Mr. Crowley, the Superintendent. I talked with the Police Commissioner and told him the circumstances. I told him, first of all, that soliciting from door to door for a genuine charity was not against the law. I told the commissioner that Judge Hayden, who holds no brief for Russians or for those of Jewish extraction from Russia, the so-called Soviets, had discharged several solicitors who had been put in court for soliciting from door to door without a permit. The result was that the commissioner, after I told the story, basing his information on facts suggested by me, said that those people should never have been placed in the wagon. But I have got away from the trend of my thought, and I will go back to the time in my house when the other policeman came in. The one who telephoned said, "I have got to take them." The other policeman said, manfully, "I will walk this woman down to the station house." I said, "Well, you are taking a chance. The orders from the chief or the captain are that they must go down in the wagon, and you may be reprimanded or worse." "Well," he said, "I will take a chance." So the man went to Station 10 in the wagon, and the young woman walked. I have the name of the young man here, James Poles, of 72 Boylston street, Jamaica Plain, and the name of the young woman is Eva Preed, of 108 Cedar street, Roxbury, not far from where I live. Both were unpaid volunteer solicitors put out by the Russian Famine Relief Conference. I simply say this, that such treatment should not be extended in any such unwarranted way to people who come here from foreign climes, having in mind the Statue of Liberty and freedom and equal rights. They come here to escape oppression in their country, to escape persecution, autocracy, special privilege. They come here, their bosoms heaving with appreciation of what they think is here, and we preach Americanism to them. We establish departments to teach the principles of Americanism, and then what happens? While we are preaching to them the glory of America and its history, they are taken in hand by officers of the law, wearing the brass buttons of authority, who place them in patrol wagons, without any offence being charged against them, simply because they are soliciting funds to save starving children. This Russian famine proposition has the O. K. of the United States Government. Mr. Hoover, the Secretary of Commerce, has already sent over several steamer loads of provisions to relieve starving Soviet Russia, and more are on the way; and yet when these poor, well-meaning people, attempt in their humane way to get together, not only in Boston but in other parts of the United States, and raise a fund to aid those who are starving in Russia, a movement that the government itself is already deeply interested in, they are held up by the police authorities of a community, without any proper action of law. What is going to be the result of that sort of thing? Are these people going to think more or less of our so-called free institutions? They are of the laboring classes, they are affiliated with labor unions to a great extent, and when they know that there are organizations trying to take protection from them in the labor field, plus denying them the right to lawfully solicit contributions for their starving fellow countrymen, women and children, is that going to make of them better or worse citizens of these United States? I occupy a small position in this governmental body, and in the eyes of those outside of Boston I am not even the dot over an "i," but I know this, that there is a fire smoldering and that it should not be fanned into a blaze by the action of any individuals or set of individuals at this time. We Americans should bear this in mind and remember it. Remember the sign at the railroad crossing, where there are no gates or flagmen, "Stop, Look, and Listen," in large letters. It is my feeling that today the constituted authorities in the United States must play fair with the average man and woman, must not crowd them, trample upon them or take from them the rights which they are guaranteed under the constitution. Remember this, friends, members of the Board, that when men and women land on these shores from some country where they have been oppressed or persecuted, they do not immediately become citizens. They cannot do so under our laws. They must wait five years for complete citizenship, and then pass an educational test. Therefore, in the beginning they ought to be treated as human beings and their rights should be respected, because some day it is possible that their male or female offspring may rise to the highest elective office within the gift of the American people, sitting in the President's chair. Remember, we are all immigrants, either through our parents or our parents' parents, because the Mayflower held only 170, and there were but few here when that boat came here. So much for the Police Department. I hope that Commissioner Wilson will put some real, genuine human spirit into the hearts of the policemen of Boston, where they do not possess it already, and he need not confine his efforts simply to those who became policemen after the strike, but can also direct them to those superiors and others, who were there before the strike, as well as those who have come since the strike. Furthermore, the police officers of Boston should be required to be gentlemanly and to talk politely. They do not do it. Commissioner Wilson says he is going to compel it, and I think he means it, and I hope that his resolution in that direction will not dry up, but that the thing will go through. He treated me fine. It seemed to me that the man or woman should never have been arrested, that they should have been warned, and they were not warned. So much for the Police Department, in their zeal to follow out the wishes and desires of the Family Welfare Society, professional philanthropists, at so much per. I am only repeating now a part of what I said here in 1914, and I spoke then after a long acquaintance with the work of the Associated Charities. At that time I bared my past to the world, and it is in the record—I would not allow it to be erased,—that in my early days, when I was fifteen, on account of the adversity of my parents I was compelled to go with my basket to the Roxbury charitable yard for my Sunday dinner for my mother and father and younger brothers and sisters, because we were in want. The Associated Charities have that record on their files. Poverty is no disgrace. I made up my mind then—it got into my bones—that I would try to do what I could for the ordinary man or woman who needed help whenever I could. My purse is limited, but I am as liberal as any member here in helping those who need it, and I don't put them through a civil service examination, either. When they need half a dollar to buy food or to buy coal to keep them warm, I don't send a social worker to their home to look into the history of the family from the beginning of time, and at the end of five days serve notice on them that, owing to some other agency being interested, I cannot interest myself in the matter. Only today in the reporters' room I heard of an instance in the West End where a family had been cold for four days. They were suffering from the cold, were without coal, and they applied to these same people for relif. Five days afterwards their appeal was denied, and if it were not for the charity of neighbors that family might have been frozen to death in that period. I cannot help getting aroused at that sort of thing, the feeling is in my bones, it is an obsession. I have investigated this Family Welfare Society, better known as the Associated Charities, who have occupied city property free of charge. Let me call to the attention of the members the fact that the St. Vincent de Paul Society of the church to which I belong and the Jewish Welfare Society, representing their people, refused to have anything to do, in the way of helping by records or in any other way, with the Family Welfare Society. Furthermore, the Public Welfare Department of the city, formerly the Overseers of the Poor, after I made my attack in 1914 on these people, to permit their records to be scanned by the Associated Charities or the Family Welfare Society, and today they are refused that privilege. You might think that the Associated Charities were of some consequence, and you might get that opinion from reading some of the editorials in the Herald columns. The Boston Herald said in its editorial columns on April 13:

"The facts have come to the Boston Herald from so many quarters that it has made a special study of one of the leading charitable enterprises, the Family Welfare Society, and herewith presents to its readers a situation both curious and interesting."

Then it goes on:

"The society has fourteen neighborhood offices scattered throughout municipal Boston, where paid and voluntary workers stand ready to render assistance in the neighborhood. Everyone in the city thus has an office in his general neighborhood and a chance to help those who have fairly a right to look on him as their neighbor."

And they indorse the society. Then there is some propaganda in the Post. In the Post of the 15th of April it says, under the heading, "'Doing Much Social Work." The report for March from the fourteen districts of the society, submitted at the meeting to the directors, reads as follows:

"Families visited during the month, 1,811; new applications during month, 264," and so on. A lot of numerals, figures, are given so as to make you think they are doing a lot, but that is all there is to it. Then it says in the Herald of April 12, under the heading, "'Appeals for Support of Welfare Society," "President Moors points out needs due to unemployment. John F. Moors, President of the Family Welfare Society," and formerly president of the Finance Commission, "said yesterday that it is the duty of all good citizens to uphold the society in its campaign to increase its membership, because of the unemployment situation here," and so on. Then it says here, in the Post of April 12, 1922, under the heading, "Backs Plan to Stop Begging," that "The Family Welfare Society realizes the seriousness of the position in which the handicapped man is placed, and has agreed to join with the Overseers of Public Welfare and other agencies to do its best to help such of these men as are residents of Boston and have family connections." That shows the nature of their very cunning crusade to stop soliciting by these well-meaning and deserving people, such as I have referred to, for the help of their starving fellows in Russia. They back the policemen up and urge them to stop public begging. Why? Because they are making a drive for contributions, now, with a deficit of $17,000 in their funds, according to their own statement. A deficit of $17,000, and how can they make it up if these people are going to be allowed to raise money for starving Russia and for other deserving charities? And how much money do these people spend? Let me show you. And, by the way, let me refer for just a moment, to Jeffrey R. Brackett, the vice president, formerly a member of the State Board of Charities of the Commonwealth, a man whose department I investigated for Governor Foss in 1911, finding that he was working both ends and the middle. He organized a social service school back of the Courthouse, and there trained young women in his organization and got them recognized by the state Civil Service Commission as being sufficiently trained as to give them a high mark for social service work. He organized that as a bread and butter scheme, from which he obtained a pay envelope every week. Here is the outfit: John F. Moors, president; Jeffrey R. Brackett, vice president; and Mrs. Joseph Lee, also a vice president. Why, I cannot figure here the name of an immigrant or the son of an immigrant in the whole outfit. And I will tell you why. A short time ago a family out my way were in need. They got in touch with a visitor from the Overseers of the Poor, and, instead of getting the help they expected, they were advised to see a representative of the Family Welfare Society. A visitor from the organization came to see them, and the woman very foolishly told the visitor that if she could not be helped she would see Jerry Watson. She was told, "Politicians don't bother us. You know, Mrs. So-and-So, that no Catholic contributes to the Family Welfare Society funds." And God bless them, they don't, and the reason is because not one dollar contributed to the Family Welfare Society of Boston, better known as the Associated Charities, ever goes for relief, and I will prove it. I have here the forty-first annual report of the Family Welfare Society, better known as the Associated Charities, a report issued in November, 1920, and I will read from it. It says here:

"November 8, 1920.

"We have made an audit of the financial books and records of the Family Welfare Society of Boston for the twelve months ending September 30, 1920, and certify that the treasurer's statement as shown above is correct.

Moyer & Briggs,
Certified Public Accountants."

And now I will read from this report. Giving the receipts for the year ending September 30, 1920, it enumerates the source of the income, the total amounting to $78,297.70, with deficit for current expenses of $8,073.82, which somebody advanced to them, totaling $86,371.52. Those were the receipts for the year ending September 30, 1920. Then there are the payments for the year ending September 30, 1920. Under administration, for salaries and wages, $15,936; under service, for salaries and wages of staff and of welfare committee for men, including traveling expenses, $44,325.78; under confidential exchange, for salaries, administration and equipment expenses, $10,799.69, making over $71,000 of the $86,000 expended for salaries. The other amount, about $14,500, was expended as follows: For rent, light, heat and care of administrative and district offices, $4,305.46; for office equipment and supplies, including printing, $6,038.80; for telephone, all departments, $2,593.56; for national conference expenses and other traveling expenses, $302.53; for miscellaneous expenses, $1,442.95; for League for Preventive Work, $400; for audit of books, $226.75. That is, of the $86,371.52 given up by well-meaning people, the whole amount was expended for salaries, overhead and other expenses, and not one dollar for relief. That has been going on for forty-three years in Boston, continuously. I am unable to get the 1921 report; I don't know why. Now, members of the Council, isn't this an organization that ought to be exposed? Think of these volunteer workers, with no overhead attached to the thing, being apprehended by the police at the suggestion of the Family Welfare Society, who are gathering money together for starving humanity, keeping back not one dollar for their own salaries or expenses, all the work being volunteer work; and on the other hand we are harboring in a city building an organization made up of practical, professional philanthropists, who feed the starving on kind words and smiles. Why, it is a disgrace to the city to permit them to occupy one foot of our property. The idea of contaminating the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Jewish Welfare Society and all the other relief organizations, by permitting these proselyting, propagandists, begging, professional philanthropists to conduct an organization of this sort alongside of them in order to keep a lot of Jeffrey Brackett's social workers on the pay roll, entirely independently of the fact that the well wishers and well meaning people who contribute know nothing of what the money is contributed for! I have talked longer than I should. I could say more, but what is the use? Barnum said that the people loved to be fooled, and this is virgin soil for that business, Boston, where a sucker is born every moment, and a bodyguard to catch him. I would rather express my opinion about this kind of propagandists and professional philanthropists in the quietness of a corner with my good friends about me, men who would not chastise me for my language. But I cannot do it on this floor. I do think, however, that if the Governor of this Commonwealth, the Mayor of this city, the District Attorneys of the state, the United States District Attorneys and the state Attorney-General desire to thrill the future citizen with true Americanism, they should come out and expose the rich hypocrites, the canting hypocrites who prey upon the unfortunate men or women who have to sink pride in order to avoid starvation and who, when their necessities overcome their pride and independence, when they see misfortune threatening their loved ones, who look to them with beseeching eyes, perhaps hungry or cold, and who perhaps sacrifice their pride, accept the gift of honeyed words from the professional social service worker, who has a heart of stone but a velvet hand, and who is on the pay roll and draws money from the coffers of the Family Welfare Society. If the Overseers of the Poor Department, to which we contribute money, can commune either secretly or openly with the Associated Charities, now known as the Family Welfare Society, I propose to drag out the skeleton from the closet of the Overseers of the Poor Department, which, in my opinion, should be cleaned from cellar to garret, because their work is getting down on a par with that of the professional uplifters and philanthropists. I propose to continue my efforts and propose to find out whether or not the Overseers of the Poor, now known as the Overseers of Public Welfare, are back in the ditch again and working hand in glove with this organization, which should be turned out of public property. Therefore, I move a suspension of the rule in order that my order may pass at this time.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

Coun. MORIARTY in the chair.

EXTENSION OF TERM, COMMISSION ON NECESSARIES OF LIFE.

Coun. FORD offered the following:

Whereas, The term of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life expires April 30, 1922; and

Whereas, There is now pending a coal strike which may seriously affect the people of the City of Boston; and

Whereas, There is good ground to believe that there exists in the City of Boston a combination to regulate the price of coal to consumers; and

Whereas, There is now pending before the Committee of the Legislature a bill to extend the life of said Commission on Necessaries; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Boston City Council favor the adoption of the legislation to extend the term of said Commission on Necessaries of Life; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Massachusetts Legislature.

The resolutions were read a second time and the question came on their passage.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I am sorry that it is so late in the day. I intended to make a rather extended speech, if so it might be called, upon this matter, but it is so late that I am not going to do so. I do, however, want to call the attention of the Council to the fact that the term of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life is to expire the last of this month. I was up there about two weeks ago and had a conference with the secretary. I have been interested in the work that they have been doing. When the coal strike was about to break I went up to see them and to get their ideas of the coal situation. If this commission is continued in existence after the first of May I intend to introduce an order to have a fuel commissioner for the City of Boston. I have read the statement of Commissioner Hultman who intimated, although he did not directly charge, combination or agreement on the part of the coal dealers of the City of Boston, to regulate and fix the price of coal. Edward Hamlin, the president of the Metropolitan Coal Company, when called on his telephone at Cotuit, said he doubted if Mr. Hultman made the statement he was reported to have made; that there was an agreement or combination on the part of the coal people to fix the price of coal, and the United States attorney says he will investigate that fact, if such is the fact. I charge, as shown by facts in existence, that there is an agreement or combination on the part of some of the large coal companies in the City of Boston to fix the price of coal. I proved in 1918 that there was such a combination and understanding, when the Fuel Committee of the City of Boston took as their standard and basis, in fixing the price of coal, the price fixed by the large dealers of the City of Boston, namely, $9.50 a ton. Whenever you see one price on the part of large or small coal dealers, or dealers in ice or other necessities of life, there is a combination or conspiracy to fix the price. I said then, and I say now, that the matter ought to be investigated by the prosecuting attorney on behalf of the public. Whether because they did not dare to do so, lacked nerve, or whatever the reason was, such action as should have been taken was not taken. In any such case dealers should be brought before the Grand Jury, so that the public may know what is going on. The mere fact that the price is uniform proves the thing. When the price goes up uniformly, as it has done for the last twenty years, during which time it has done practically nothing but go up, that is evidence in itself of a combination or conspiracy.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman opposite if the gentleman at the head of the state commission did not advise the public to buy coal some months ago?

Coun. FORD—I don't know whether he did or not. If he did, probably at that time he might have felt that the price was going to go up. But he recommends now, I understand, that the public do not buy coal, because he says that there is plenty of coal on hand. I am holding no brief for him, however, and if the councilor on the other side has any information about Mr. Hultman which shows that he is not working for the interests of the people, I will certainly be as much against him as anybody else taking that position. I do know that the price of coal is uniform, and I know from past history that coal dealers in the City of Boston have increased the price of coal uniformly for years, showing that there is a combination. They have said that they kept the small dealers in Boston because they wanted competition, but there hasn't been any competition. The small dealers were making a small profit of about 25 cents a ton, while the Metropolitan Coal Company and other large dealers doing business in Boston, working on a large scale and more economically, were making up to $1.14 per ton; and at that time the reason given for the existence of the small dealers was that their existence stimulated competition. There is never any stimulation of competition when there is a fixing of prices; when you see that the prices sent out are all the same, and evidently agreed to. The situation, so far as the small dealers is concerned, is that they do not dare to say that their souls are their own, because they depend on the large dealers, who are in communication with the mines. Whenever you ask information from a small dealer, if he states the fact and takes the bull by the horns, he will say, "I cannot give it, because if I give you the information I cannot get my coal from the Metropolitan Coal Company or the other large dealers." I notice that the Boston Telegram says that W. A. Clark, president of the Massachusetts Dealers' Association, is doing his bit to prevent the enactment of the bill extending the life of this commission, and also points out that "The Black Diamond," the organ of the coal men's organization in Philadelphia, is gloating over the fact that the life of the Commission on Necessaries of Life will cease on May 1. There is a bill that has been introduced to continue the commission, and I understand from the press reports that gentlemen like Mr. Leonard of Springfield, who owns three transports and who would be one of the chief beneficiaries—I am quoting the Telegram—of high prices charged on Sundays for ice cream, is interested in ending the existence of this commission. The Commission has done some good. It is the only organization in Massachusetts that has the right to summon witnesses and investigate this situation. If we have no fuel commissioner in Boston and nobody to look after the coal dealers generally, we will be in a precarious situation, because without question if there is any raise at the mines because of the fact that the mine operators may give a slight raise to the men who are working there by the sweat of their brows, we will find any raise reflected three or five fold here in prices in Boston. We at least need such a commission, and we need in Boston a fuel administration to look after our interests. There is a bad situation growing out of the strike which, of course, may result in a cut in the wages of the men. They need an increase, there is no doubt about that, but any increase, no matter how slight, we will find reflected three or four fold in Massachusetts, unless we can get some protection. I tried at a previous time, without success, to get the figures. I offered at my own expense to put public accountants on the books of the different coal companies at the time, to show that the increase that they were getting at that time, even against the advice of the Fuel Commission, was an unwarranted one. But, and this is a suspicious circumstance, they never would give me the figures which would show me what the overhead charges were for doing business at that time. I could have shown that the price of $14.50 charged during the war was unwarranted, and Commissioner Bates, who was following the situation, was of the same opinion; and I charge now that the people of New England and Boston have been subjected to an unjustified additional expense of millions upon millions of dollars in the last few years in increased prices of coal. There is an understanding between the operators in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania and the large dealers here, and whenever the price there is increased even a slight amount per ton by rail we get it reflected immediately in higher prices here. But whenever the price goes down there we do not see the price here going down. Gentlemen, we must look out, must watch. That Commission on Necessaries of Life must continue to exist. If the conspiracy at present to wipe out that commission is successful, we will not have any way to protect ourselves, but will simply have to submit to increases in the price of coal. They did it before, and they will do it again. It has been shown that one of the reasons is that our banking institutions, especially Lee, Higginson & Co. have money invested in these coal companies, particularly the Metropolitan Coal Company. I have tried to be brief, to shorten my remarks, but I simply wish to impress upon your minds the fact that it is imperative that this commission should continue to exist. It is imperative that we should have a fuel commission, in the interest of the City of Boston. We all know that the prices of coal in Boston are too high, and that not only applies to prices of coal but to prices of all the necessaries of life. Unless we watch those people and keep after them all the time, prices will go up and up, instead of down. We must have some proper supervision and regulation in order that our citizens may live properly and decently.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, I have no desire to discontinue the activities of the Commission on Necessaries of Life, in the State of Massachusetts or in Boston, and therefore I shall vote for the resolution, which I feel will, in any event, do no harm. I will say, however, that this commission has been in existence up there for a long time and that I don't see one single thing it has done which has warranted its expense. However, if there is any possibility of its doing some good, by all means continue it, because I think it will do no harm even if it does no good. I remember reading a short time ago in the papers that Mr. Hultman urged people to buy coal. That was some time ago. I was told that that was an honest piece of advice on his part; but, nevertheless, it was going to aid the Metropolitan Coal Company in disposing of a lot of surplus coal. If we ordered coal at that time it meant that the employees of the Metropolitan Coal Company and of the other big companies would have very little to do this fall, and we would have more unemployment on our hands. But he advised us to buy. I did not buy then. I don't know how many did. Now I understand from the councilor opposite that he is advising the public not to buy. I would like to know from the councilor opposite which advice is good. If the first advice was poor, the advice now may be equally poor. But, as I say, I think it can do no evil to continue the commission, although I fail to see where it has been of any benefit to the Commonwealth in any particular. Referring to a conspiracy existing among these coal dealers, I will be frank in the matter. I think that there is such a conspiracy, and certainly there is just one tribunal that can find out about that conspiracy. There must be laws on our statute books providing for criminal prosecution in such cases. I believe that the place for action is the District Attorney's office. Entirely apart from continuing the commission, if the gentleman opposite has any information to present which would show conspiracy among the coal dealers —and I believe that such a conspiracy can be shown—I believe it is its duty to present these facts immediately to the District Attorney of Suffolk County, letting the prosecution start in now, rather than waiting until this commission is continued by act of the Legislature and is allowed to go ahead in its easy-going, slipshod way. There is a conspiracy, I believe. I cannot prove it, but the gentleman opposite must have some data. In addition to passing the resolve, let us follow the thing up by a resolution calling on the District Attorney of Suffolk County to proceed to ascertain whether or not a conspiracy exists. That is the remedy. There must be some teeth in the law. Let that be done, rather than simply continue the commission. By acting in that way, we may do some good.

The resolutions were passed.

LEGISLATION CONCERNING FIREARMS.

Coun. MORIARTY offered the following:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that the Legislative Committee of the Legislature should adopt strict regulation in relation to the purchase and sale of firearms.

Coun. MORIARTY offered an order—That chapter 254 of the Acts of 1922, entitled "An Act Authorizing the City of Boston to Pay a Sum of Money to the Father of Robert L. Sheehan," be and the same hereby is accepted.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

WILLIAM J. KELLY SQUARE.

President BRICKLEY offered an order—That the name of Central Park square, East Boston, be changed to William J. Kelly square in memory of said Kelly, who served during the World War, and that said space be suitably designated with signs.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

ROPING OFF STREETS FOR ROAD RACE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the City Messenger be requested to rope off Centre street, Jamaica Plain, from Walden street to Sunnyside street, during a road race to be held by the Michael J. O'Connor Post of the American Legion on April 19, from 9.45 to 11.15 a. m., and that the expense of the same be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

RESCISSION OF SOUTH BOSTON GYMNASIUM LOAN.

Coun. FORD moved that No. 6 be taken from the table, viz.:

Ordered, That so much of the loan order authorized August 22, 1921, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, as has not been issued, amounting to $150,000, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Ordered, That the loan order for $118,000 authorized January 31, 1922, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

The order was given its final reading and passed, yeas 7, nays 2, Coun. FORD and MORIARTY voting nay.

LOAN FOR CHRISTOPHER J. LEE PLAYGROUND.

Coun. LANE offered an order—That the sum of $75,000 be hereby appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Park Department for improvements in the extension of Christopher J. Lee Playground, and that to meet such expense the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, at the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. LANE—I move a suspension of the rule, Mr. President, that the order may be put upon its passage.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I would like to ask if our object could not be attained by making an amendment to No. 6 on the calendar, in view of the fact that the purpose of rescission provided for in No. 7 is for the specific purpose of clearing the decks for this other matter?

President BRICKLEY—If there is any amendment to No. 6 on the calendar it will have to lie over for two weeks, instead of being passed today.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, we are all in accord here, but doesn't it come down to this, that Coun. Donoghue's order was the first order introduced, providing $100,000 for this purpose? To be fair in the whole matter I will simply say that, as far as the councilor on my right (Coun. Moriarty) and myself are concerned, we can take our licking on the South Boston proposition with good grace, as long as it has to come to us. But I really do think that Coun. Donoghue should have the credit of introducing the $100,000 order for the improvement of the Christopher Lee Playground. I think he ought to be given the opportunity to put it in.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, personally I shall be very glad to withdraw the order and have Coun. Donoghue put it in. I only put it in with an idea of following out the recommendation of his Honor the Mayor, and I shall be perfectly willing and glad to have Coun. Donoghue offer the order that I have introduced.

President BRICKLEY—Do you want to offer the amendment suggested instead of having the order acted upon as offered, Coun. Donoghue?

Coun. DONOGHUE—I don't care, Mr. President.

Coun. LANE—I simply took this position because the matter came before the Committee on Finance, and the Christopher Lee Playground was stricken out at that time, with the understanding that Coun. Donoghue's order for $100,000 was before the Mayor. That, however, has been vetoed. I shall be glad to withdraw my order and let Coun. Donoghue put it in.

President BRICKLEY—Does the councilor consent?

Coun. DONOGHUE—I consent.

(The order above offered by Coun. Lane was withdrawn by him, and the order was immediately offered by Coun. Donoghue.)

The question came on suspension of the rule for the passage of the order.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, is $75,000 enough money to do the work?

Coun. GILBODY—The $100,000 was vetoed.

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, the Mayor vetoed it, as appears, on account of the action of the Council, not on the ground of the figure, but because the Council had not acted in accordance with his views.

Coun. GILBODY—Well, Mr. President, the Mayor satisfied me that he was going to give $75,000 for that appropriation, the Lee Playground, and that that is all he would give.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I would suggest as an amendment that the $75,000 be stricken out and $100,000 inserted in its place, as I think we ought to have the original $100,000, because his Honor the Mayor promised us all in his office that he would go ahead with the $100,000. I don't think we ought to cut the amount down to $75,000, because I feel that the Mayor, when the $100,000 was pending before him, would have approved it if it had not been for the desire to rescind the other appropriation. That is, I believe it was not a question of the amount, as between $75,000 and $100,000. That is the reason why I would suggest that Coun. Donoghue introduce his original order for $100,000. I think we ought to get the $100,000. Hence, I move that $75,000 be stricken out and $100,000 be inserted. I think that we will need all of that money, and I would ask Coun. Donoghue to do that. I think we ought to have what we started out with.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I think that would be a dangerous thing to do. I think if we did that the Mayor would veto the whole proposition. He has been over the thing pretty carefully, I suppose, with his landscape architect. We saw the plans in the Mayor's office, and he said that $75,000 was needed. I believe that Coun. Donoghue, when he put in his order for $100,000, was more or less ignorant about the situation. He had asked about several things in connection with the matter, in regard to what was necessary, but he had not gone into it as carefully as the Mayor had. Therefore I think it would be rather dangerous to increase the amount to $100,000 now—that there might be danger of losing the whole business.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I don't think there is any danger of losing anything. We want M street done. There is no doubt about that. If the Mayor assures us that $75,000 is enough, very well. I would ask if Coun. Donoghue thinks that $75,000 will do the work at M street?

Coun. DONOGHUE—I understood the Park Department to say that it would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 to complete the playground. His Honor the Mayor in the communication he sent in after I had introduced the order for $100,000, provided for but $75,000. If he has information showing that it will require only $75,000 to make the necessary improvements over there, I would feel, as I suppose the other members of the Council would feel, that that is all the Council should appropriate. I also feel that if we pass an order for $75,000, as suggested by the Mayor, at this time, if the necessary improvements at the playground are not completed with the $75,000, his Honor the Mayor will give whatever additional money is necessary in order to complete the playground and put it in proper shape. So I don't think we are doing anything detrimental to those interested in the playground, if we pass the $75,000 order today. I want to say, while on my feet, that I pointed out to the chairman of the Committee on Finance the fact that if we rescinded this other order today there was no provision for the Christopher Lee Playground, and that, having been brought to his attention, he tried to remedy the situation by introducing the order he did. I don't think there was any attempt to take the order away from me in any way, by such introduction. I simply want to say that in explanation of what I understood Coun. Lane's position on the matter to be.

Coun. FORD—Yes, Mr. President, I did not think there was any attempt to take away any credit from Coun. Donoghue, who had made a start in the matter; that Coun. Lane's only position was that he wished to see the work started and finished. If it is thought that $75,000 will do the work, I would not press any amendment to make the amount $100,000, with the moral understanding among us, however, that if $75,000 is not enough we will agree to supply whatever it is necessary to supply later. I understand that Coun. Watson and the other members agree to that.

The rule was suspended and the order was given its first reading and passage, yeas 9, nays 0, and will come up for final reading and passage in two weeks.

Subject to confirmation by the City Council the Mayor submitted the following appointments for terms ending April 30, 1923, viz.:

Tanner, 65 Ferrin street, Boston.

(2) Thomas J. Hubbard, 23 Radcliffe road, Somerville, to be a Weigher of Boilers and Heavy Machinery.

Laid over under the law.

VETO—BRITTAIN SQUARE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 20, 1922.
to the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am returning herewith without my signature the order passed by your honorable body on April 17 transferring William J. Brittain Square from the junction of Geneva avenue and Bloomfield street to the junction of Algonquin, Bradlee and Washington streets.

I am returning the order at the request of Councilor Ford who introduced it.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—PAYMENT TO MRS. MAURICE O'BRIEN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 18, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my signature, the order passed by your honorable body on March 27, providing for the payment of the maximum amount determined upon by the Law Department in cases of this character, for the reason that, in the opinion of the Law Department, there is no legal liability on the part of the City of Boston and the testimony of the officials of the Fire Department sets forth that the death of Maurice O'Brien cannot reasonably be charged to the carelessness of the men operating the fire apparatus.

I am extremely desirous of aiding the widow of Mr. O'Brien, but I believe that a sum might be determined upon by your honorable body that would be more equitable so far as the city is concerned and that would not represent the maximum determined upon.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RELEASE OF CITY'S RIGHTS, GATELY STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 22, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a communication from the Law Department relative to the release of the city's rights to sewer in Gately street, Dorchester, and respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 10, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

My dear Sir,—I inclose herewith an order to be passed by the City Council authorizing the release to the Roman Catholic Archbishop of all the right, title and interest of the city, if any it has, in and to the fee and soil of a private way called Gately street and in the sewer constructed in said street by Edward Gately about the year 1900. This matter was delayed somewhat pending the consideration by Father Daly and his contractor as to the plans and they now desire that the matter be completed in accordance with their original request. Please present this to the City Council at its next meeting and I am subject to your order in this matter. When the order is duly passed I shall immediately prepare the release and see to its delivery to Father Daly.

Yours very truly,
CHARLES FRANK DAY,
City Conveyancer.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city and for a nominal consideration to release and quitclaim unto the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston, a corporation sole, all the right, title and interest of the city, if any it has in and to the fee and soil of a private way called Gately street, leading easterly from Samoset street in the Dorchester district of said city, and in and to the sewer in said Gately street, which sewer was built in or about the year 1900 by and at the expense of Edward Gately and was released by him to the city by an unrecorded instrument dated and acknowledged August 15, 1900, and on file in the office of the Commissioner of Public Works of said city.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SEMIMONTHLY PAYMENT, SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 22, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a report from the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, which is a reply to your order of the 3d instant, relative to paying relief to soldiers and sailors and their families in the City of Boston twice a month, instead of once a month as is now the custom.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Soldiers' Relief Department, April 7, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—I have the honor to make the following report, with reference to the order of the City Council, dated April 3, 1922, that the Commissioner of Soldiers' Relief be requested to pay relief to soldiers and sailors and their families in the city of Boston twice a month, instead of once a month as is now the custom:

The Soldiers' Relief Department is prepared to establish a system of payments patterned after that followed by the Overseers of the Poor of the City of Boston. This system embraces the following features:

1. Preparation of pay rolls on the pay days, using registration numbers instead of the names of the men.
2. Daily drafts upon the treasurer to cover the amounts required.
3. Accounting for the sums expended twice a month, or as ordered by the City Auditor.

At present, the payments to veterans of the World War cover three pay days, and the pay room is located in the basement of City Hall. Under the new plan the payments to the World War veterans will be distributed over five days, and the men will be paid in the office of the Department, in Room 60, City Hall. The change of the pay room will necessitate extended use of the elevators, and very probably the Superintendent of Public Buildings should be consulted.

It is the experience of the department that the beneficiaries drawing relief because of service in the Civil War do not desire payments twice a month, and for them it would be well to adhere to the old plan of paying them once a month in the pay room in the basement of City Hall. It has been found that they are very well satisfied with the old plan and that many of them experience great difficulty in the use of the elevators. With reference to them, however, the department is prepared to establish payments by check to be sent out through the mail, although this plan has been kept in abeyance partly due to the fact that it is felt that most of the Civil War beneficiaries take pleasure in coming to City Hall once a month, and this they will miss under the proposed plan of payments by check.

Subject to your approval, and by arrangement with the City Auditor and the City Treasurer, this department is ready to proceed immediately to make arrangements necessary for changing over the system.

Respectfully,
HENRY C. MCKENNA,
Soldiers' Relief Commissioner.

Placed on file.

BALLFIELD, OLMSTED PARK.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a communication from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners which is a reply to your order of March 27, 1922, relative to improving the condition of the ballfield at Olmsted Park.

City of Boston,
Park Department, April 20, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The City Council passed an order on March 27 asking your Honor to request the Park Department to improve the condition of the ballfield at Olmsted Park. The work on this improvement will commence within a week. Up to the present time it has been impossible to do any work on the ground by reason of the wet weather.

Very truly yours,
JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Placed on file.

APPROPRIATION, RENT AND HOUSING COMMITTEE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The appropriations for the Rent and Housing Committee are practically exhausted, and as the committee still receive a large number of new cases each day, I think the work should be continued for at least three months more. I therefore respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Committee on Rent and Housing be and hereby is authorized to expend, under the direction of the Mayor, an additional sum of $1,500, said amount to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION ORDERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith appropriation orders for the Overseers of Public Welfare Department in the amount of $975,000 and the Soldiers' Relief Department in the amount of $1,100,000.

Immediate action is necessary upon these two orders for the reason that the one third of the annual appropriation which departments, under the law, are permitted to expend in anticipation of taxes is very nearly exhausted, due, in large measure, to the demand resulting from industrial and commercial depression.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying orders.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

APPROPRIATION ORDER FOR THE CITY OF BOSTON.

Ordered, That to meet the current expenses payable during the financial year beginning with the first day of February, 1922, of performing the duties and exercising the powers devolved by statute or ordinance, or by vote of the City Council during the year upon the City of Boston, or the departments or officers thereof, the respective sums of money specified in the tables hereinafter set forth be and the same are hereby appropriated to be expended for the objects and purposes hereinafter stated, that the same be raised by taxation upon the polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston, and that all orders relating to appropriations, taxes and the interest thereon apply to the taxes herein provided for.

Overseeing of the Public Welfare Department.

F. Special Items		$975,000 00
9. Care of dependents	$350,000 00
10. Mothers' aid	625,000 00

Soldiers' Relief Department.

F. Special Items		$1,100,000 00
8. State and military aid, soldiers' relief and burials	$1,100,000 00

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

APPROPRIATION BILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith the budget for the year 1922-23, in full segregated form, in substitution for the budget submitted on February 27, 1922.

I believe it my duty to direct the attention of your honorable body to the fact that the total amount available for reconstructing and repairing streets is but $1,000,000, despite the fact that an expenditure of $5,000,000 for this purpose annually would not be excessive and is actually necessary, not for one year, but for a ten-year period, in order to provide streets suitable for public travel.

The problem of adequate highways has been met in other sections of our country by the issuance of loans and, apparently, some day the public may realize that, distasteful as this course may be, it is the only rational method of meeting a situation annually becoming more unbearable.

I respectfully recommend the early adoption of the budget.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would state that that is a joint name, in memory of two boys of a widowed mother, who made the supreme sacrifice. I move a suspension of the rule for the passage of the order.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

JOHN J. CONNORS SQUARE.

President BRICKLEY offered an order—That the name of Winthrop square, Charlestown, be changed to John J. Connors square, in memory of said Connors who fell in action during the World War, and that said space be suitably marked with signs.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, in this matter I think we are treading on dangerous ground. The opponents of our action in making squares will have some ground upon which to criticise us if we vote to change the name of Winthrop square to that of some hero of the late war, no matter how deserving. The first objection that will be raised will be that the square was named after Governor Winthrop, and we will meet a great deal of opposition on that account.

President BRICKLEY—We have been simply asked to pass these orders naming the squares, as a matter of courtesy, and they have been sent along to somebody with greater authority for final action. That is my understanding in the matter.

Coun. WATSON—Well, before we pass this order, with a good chance to have somebody veto it and to have a stigma attached upon us, I suggest that it be referred to a committee.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

ACTION ON CONSTABLES.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business, No. 1, viz.:

1. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor April 17, 1922, of Constables for the term of one year beginning May 1, 1922, as contained in Document 50.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Ford and Walsh.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, I desire to make a statement before we ballot upon these names. As long ago as the last week in February considerable information was given to me, although not direct, concerning some individuals on the list. It may be because of sour grapes on the part of those who furnish me with the information. But I do not intend personally to vote to confirm a single name here without there being an opportunity given to anybody who wishes to do so to look into the record of men who are appointed as constables. I think there should be that opportunity, and perhaps information can be obtained through the Law Department or otherwise. I am satisfied that the names of several at least are here that should not be here. But I am not prepared to present any information as against those men until I am able to get it directly. Furthermore, on May 1 their commissions run out, and we could not get a real, genuine hearing on the matter before that time. Next Monday will be the first of May. But if anybody will furnish information to me directly I want to state that I am prepared to bring charges against any constable who may not have done his duty as such or who may have used his office in an improper manner. If any such information is brought to my attention I shall act accordingly.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I would like to have the question of confirmation laid over for one week. I understand that there have been many instances of improper conduct on the part of constables. There is in the Boston Telegram today an editorial referring to some of the men on the list here who have obtained for collecting taxes $15. It does not name them, but, with that sort of thing going on I want the information, the facts. Until we get the facts I would go on record as voting against the whole of them, if the issue is forced. I happened to be in the courthouse a short while ago and heard one of the men who is on the list here testifying that he was in the employ of a detective agency. Still, he is here on this list. I would like at least time enough to go through the hundred or more of these constables here, and I think a week is little enough time to do it. Even if some of them are out of a job for a week, if they have been making the money that some people say they have been making, I think it will do no particular harm to have them out for one week. I don't believe it will be a hardship. It will certainly be for the benefit of the poor unfortunate who has not had the money to meet them when they have come to his door. I have known of some summonses which have been sent out in some of the residential sections of the city where the women of the house have been all worked up and alarmed for fear that their husbands were going to be arrested before they came home. Some of the summonses were very, very pointed. I want to say in regard to some constables that if they had any manhood in them at all they would not take the job. I believe if there is any job that is a blood-sucking job it is that of a constable, and I don't believe any one who would work as a constable and do some of the work that these constables have done in the last three or four years is a man. I think it is the toughest job in the world. Some of them have been proven to be in the employment of second hand houses and installment houses, and have done all sorts of things that people with any decency would not want to do. I believe every one of them should come in here and should be put under oath. I believe the City Clerk should be here and should put them under oath; that we should have every one of them who serves civil process brought here and put under oath, finding out how he has really acted, instead of allowing it to go out to the electorate of the City of Boston that these men can do the sort of thing they have been doing, taking in sometimes taxes to the amount of $5 and getting $15 for doing it. Some of them I saw around a few years ago on their uppers, and now they are riding around in Packard cars, on the money gouged from the poor unfortunates who have not been able to pay their taxes at the moment when the demand was made. I say that any man who would take that job is no part of a man. I mean that for the whole of them, and some of them are my personal friends, but I am willing to sever my friendship for any man who will take a gouging job.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I wanted, if possible, to vote on those who are in the employ of the city, holding the others over for one week.

Coun. MORIARTY—That is satisfactory to me, Mr. President.

Coun. GILBODY—There are some employed by the city on the list, and I think those should be voted upon today.

Coun. MORIARTY—I have no objection to that, Mr. President.

President BRICKLEY—The question comes on the confirmation of those connected with official positions, and not authorized to serve civil process.

The Council voted to confirm the appointment of constables connected with official positions, to serve without bonds, yeas 8, nays 0.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I now move you that the other constables (those authorized to serve civil process upon filing bonds) be notified to come in here at our next meeting, and that they be put under oath when they appear before the members of the Council.

Coun. HAGAN—Did you want all of them here?

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, we might as well settle that matter in just as satisfactory a way as we propose to settle the budget. I think, in fact, that it is of more advantage to the City of Boston to do so.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I don't want to do anything that we have not the power to do. I would ask the City Clerk if we have a right to put them under oath, not that I am opposed to doing so, but I don't want to have the body placed in the position of attempting to do something which it does not have the power to do.

President BRICKLEY—We have the power.

Coun. HAGAN—I was simply wondering, Mr. President, whether it was necessary to bring in 150 men here and try to interview them all next Monday. I am afraid that it would be impossible to do so.

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, Mr. President, I think we should get at the bottom of the case. It is certainly a very important matter. The citizens of this city have been abused long enough, and it is time that the thing should be righted.

Coun. FORD—I would suggest that, officially or unofficially, if the press or anybody else has any information in regard to the gouging constables, if there are such, it would be well to have the information in the hands of the President before next week, in order that we may take intelligent action in the matter, because after we have confirmed the appointment we cannot do much until another year. It is hard to upset them after they are once appointed and confirmed. So I think it would be well to get all the information we can before next Monday, and I trust that the press will aid us in the matter of getting it. We can then act intelligently and perhaps rid the city of some undesirable officials. Certainly constables who charge too large fees, gouging fees as the councilor properly calls them, should not be tolerated.

It was voted that the question of confirmation of the constables authorized to serve civil process upon filing bonds should be assigned to the next meeting, and that the appointees should be duly notified to appear before the Executive Committee.

CONFIRMATION OF MINOR OFFICERS.

Coun. FORD moved a general reconsider-No. 2, viz.:

2. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor April 17, 1922, of minor officers paid by fees for the term of one year beginning May 1, 1922, as contained in Document 51.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Ford and Walsh. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, and the appointments were confirmed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. FORD moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 5.14 p. m., on motion of Coun. WALSH, to meet on Monday, May 1, at two o'clock p. m.

MAYORS OF BOSTON.

In its 99 years of existence as a city Boston has had 36 elected Mayors and five ex officio Acting Mayors. Those born within the present limits of Boston numbered 21; in towns near Boston, 8; in neighboring New England States, 5; in Ireland, 2. The Mayor longest in office was Mayor Lincoln, who served 3 years ending 1860 and then 4 years ending 1866. The five Acting Mayors were Chairmen (Board of Aldermen) Parker, Leavitt, Allen, Cutter and Whelton.

Mayor Otis was Speaker of Massachusetts House of Representatives, President of Senate, United States Representative and United States Senator before becoming Mayor. Mayor Armstrong was Lieutenant-Governor and at times Acting Governor before serving as Mayor. Mayors Rice and Gaston served 3 years and 1 year (respectively) as Governor, after their terms as Mayor. Mayors Collins, Curley, Fitzgerald, Peters, Pierce and Rice have represented Boston in the lower house of Congress, Mayor Peters having also served as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

ANNEXATION TO BOSTON.

East Boston in 1637; South Boston in 1804, being set off from Dorchester; Roxbury in 1868, a city of Norfolk County since March, 1846; Dorchester in 1870, a town since September, 1630; Charlestown in 1874, a city of Middlesex County since February, 1847; Brighton in 1874, set off from Cambridge and incorporated as a town of Middlesex County in February, 1807; West Roxbury in 1874, set off from Roxbury and incorporated as a town of Norfolk County in May, 1851; Hyde Park in 1912, a town of Norfolk County since April, 1868.

These annexations, which added 24,312 acres of land to the original land of Boston, were by area as follows; East Boston, 1,435 acres; South Boston, 795; Roxbury, 2,450; Dorchester, 5,600; West Roxbury, 8,075; Brighton, 2,664; Charlestown, 424; Hyde Park, 2,869. Filled land increased the area later by 1,396 acres. In 1875 the annexed territory had a population of 201,250, or 58.86 per cent of city's total; in 1910 its population had increased to 477,311, or 71.18 per cent, Hyde Park not included.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

ARGUES FOR SHIP SUBSIDY.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, SUPPLEMENTS REMARKS BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE ON COMMERCE AND HOUSE COMMITTEE ON MERCHANT MARINE AND FISHERIES AT WASHINGTON, D. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 3.

In support of his arguments of last week before the Senate Committee on Commerce and the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, Mayor Curley presented additional arguments to this body on Wednesday. His argument reads:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee:

The industrial development of the past few decades has transformed America into a country undreamed of by its founders. Industrial expansion has been accompanied by agricultural shrinkage. Only a few years ago we supplied the grains, meats and food products that fed the old world; today we are fast losing our leadership in grain and meat to Argentina, Australia and Canada, and we ourselves have become importers of meats for our tables and of raw materials for our industries to supplement our domestic supplies. Our urban population outnumbers our rural and our industries have so multiplied their productive capacity that they can furnish the annual needs of the country by the production of seven months.

This industrial condition presents a serious social problem that must be solved. Our industries must function all the year around to prevent unemployment. Today the production of seven months supplies the needs of twelve and the production of the other five months which the domestic market cannot consume must be marketed in foreign lands. This problem, which is grave and imperious, demands an outlet for our surplus production, and the solution calls for a statesmanship inspired by common sense and a knowledge of the mechanics of international trade and commerce.

The carriage and distribution of our industrial surplus in foreign markets and the importation of raw materials for industry and foreign commodities for exchange call for an American merchant marine operating under American laws, flying the American flag and sustained and protected by American legislation, for unless the business of America is done by Americans for American interests in foreign markets it will never be self-sufficient and independent, and this problem is with us here and now to be solved.

There are some illusions we must rid ourselves of, some old political fetiches we must banish, some practical ideas we must grasp, if we are to succeed in this commercial policy, for we are now standing on a battle line where we must win to live.

When we enter into competition with the world in the markets of the world we must depend on our own naked strength, resource and ingenuity; we will have neither tariffs nor restrictive laws beyond the three-mile limit to protect us from a commerce sustained by underpaid labor, subsidized steamship lines, preferential rates and alien controlled cables, the artificial aids and the body and bones of European international trade, and unless we are able to meet the prices and conditions which this system enables our competitors to quote and now dominate, we will not get the markets which are essential to our industrial salvation.

Let me repeat and emphasize the vital facts and invite you to face them, facts that are here and cannot be blinked, evaded or talked out of existence. Without foreign markets to consume the five months' surplus of our industrial productions we will have five months in every year of idleness and unemployment; five months when the American worker is without work and wages; five months of unrest, discontent and conditions that are a potential danger to the peace and stability of our government; months pregnant with want, hardship, disorder, tumult, demagogic appeals and legislative quackery and public panic. Get this further fact plainly in sight. Industry will not function in congested domestic markets in sterile months; it will not pay its workers twelve months' wages for seven months' work, and the government must take its choice of two plans of action—secure foreign markets for the surplus American products or support by doles paid out of taxes the idle workers in the workless months.

The wise, the imperative solution is the foreign market and the American merchant marine, with every agency and energy of America behind it.

Unemployment is the most serious problem the government faces today; it is the breeder of discontent, civil disorder and crime; and the policy which solves the problem and makes work and wages constant and continuous for the workers of the nation is the enlightened and wise policy, the one that will bring strength and stability, peace and security to the republic.

Lincoln once said that a country half-free and half-slave could not endure. Applying that aphorism to an industrial country, it is as sound and true to say that a nation whose workers are employed half the year and idle half the year is in constant peril, living constantly under a threat of political death and civil dissolution.

This is not the cry of the alarmist; it is the counsel of safety.

It becomes bluntly plain that the preventive remedy for our industrial ills lies in obtaining foreign markets that will consume our domestic surplus and enable us to keep the wheels of industry turning fifty-two weeks in the year.

Let us look at another phase of the industrial situation and the sullen wolf following in its train—unemployment.

To keep the product of underpaid foreign labor out of American markets and if admitted to compel it to compete on a basis of economic equality, we enact protective tariff laws, and tariffs, stripped of all their fine phases, are only subsidies that are indirectly paid by alien industry to American industry for the privilege of trading in our domestic market. When we go outside our protected market and into the open markets of the world we must be prepared to meet the competition of subsidized ships and commodities with American subsidized ships and with the feeling that the competitor who pays our tariffs will be paying our ship subsidies. With our merchant marine placed in a position to meet the subsidized foreign ship on an equality of competitive opportunity, we can safely believe that the productive quantity and quality of well-paid American labor can compete with the product of underpaid foreign labor.

We now come to a proposition as old as ships and commerce and as true today as in any day—the ships that carry trade control it; the nation that owns the ships is the master of the markets its trade goes to. The nation whose commerce is carried in the ships of a competitor must do business as the competitor dictates and pay tribute to him, no matter by what name it is called.

Only when we have a strongly entrenched American merchant marine, able and willing to meet any and every form of competition on the high seas, able to carry American commerce to every part of the world in the face of all natural and artificial obstacles, will American trade and industry thrive, and that happy condition can only be secured by subsidizing our merchant marine and making it a potent instrumentality in peace and war for the protection of American interests.

There is nothing new or sectional in the policy of subsidizing our merchant marine. One of the first measures adopted by the Confederation, six years after the achievement of American independence, was a law that was a combination in principle of protective tariff and ship subsidy, making the rates payable upon imports dependable upon whether the bottoms they were carried in were American or alien, built in America or in foreign yards, or owned in part or in whole by Americans. This policy built up American trade and commerce, established American shipbuilding on a solid basis, and made the fortunes that later became the foundation of New England industry, and in the days of war proved a strong right arm for the republic.

The policy of subsidies benefits the whole country. It gives industry an outlet for its surplus products in foreign markets; it gives the American worker constant work and wages and gives to agriculture a prosperous domestic market for its harvests. The whole productive life of America is closely interrelated; when industrial America is busy and prosperous agricultural America is prosperous; when mills close down and workers are idle the farmer feels the pinch of hard times.

The policy of subsidy is found in every phase of our legislation under a hundred names—river and harbor improvements, road building, educational assistance, agricultural bureaus and experimental stations, irrigation schemes, protective tariffs and other methods of helping the many activities of the country; and certainly there is nothing new or novel in extending help and protection to so vitally important an agency of our national life as our merchant marine. We have hundreds of idle ships waiting to be manned by American seamen and put to work on the high seas for the benefit of American agriculture and industry, and we have the financial means to equip, man, operate and protect them; and it is the poorest kind of patriotism and the blindest kind of Americanism that cannot realize the necessity of beginning the work of rehabilitating the American merchant marine, revitalizing and restoring our foreign trade, carrying our flag into every port of the seven seas and making once more an America, free, independent, self-sufficing in every atom of its national life. If we have money to lend to the alien world to finance enterprises in Canada, supposedly to aid the trade and agriculture of the Middle West, to prop up this staggering country and that limping tribe in distant land, can we not find the means to maintain and protect our own vital interests, upon which, in view of the world conditions, the happiness and prosperity of America depend.

Why should we pay tribute to foreign ship owners when we can carry the harvests of American farmers in American bottoms to every foreign market? The amount of money paid out to foreign carriers is siphoned out of America for foreign uses; it mounts up enough in a year to subsidize a dozen fleets.

Why should not the money be kept at home to enrich our own land and people and furnish the life blood of American agricultural, industrial and commercial enterprizes?

Only a nation of slaves pays tribute to alien conquerors, no matter under what name you hide the conqueror and disguise the tribute. Is it not time for us to drop our provincial and sectional outlook; to take on a national and an international viewpoint; to understand that an American merchant marine is a national instrumentality serving every part of American and building up our first line of national defence? Nations are destroyed in peace by lack of vision, by inability and unwillingness to assume the burdens of a great and productive country, destroyed as effectually as though destroyed by hostile fleets and armies.

> Today we are face to face with the problems of industrial idleness and unemployment; they are as wasteful and dangerous as those of war; their remedy lies in new markets, foreign markets, for a production that can open idle mills and give work to idle hands; and those markets can be reached and conquered only by American merchants and American ships, a merchant marine subsidized to meet all eventualities. An American merchant marine without a subsidy is as helpless as an Amercan warship without guns—it cannot fight successfully the alien armed with subsidies.
> Let us be up and doing. Let our commercial ideal be American goods, on American ships, buttressed by American money.

BOSTON CENTENARY EXHIBIT.

In connection with the centenary of Boston's city government there is being installed in the exhibition room of the Public Library in Copley square a selection from the Bostoniana in the library. It is intended to confine this exhibit in the main to material dealing with Boston in the first quarter of the nineteenth century. It will be kept on view until September 1 and may be changed and added to as occasion demands.

MAYOR RADIOS INVITATION FOR WORLD TO SHIP FROM BOSTON.

Mayor Curley delivered an address by radio to all New England and the world on the advantages of the Port of Boston, at the Radio Exposition, Mechanics Building, Wednesday, May 3. In his address he said:

"Boston is the gateway of New England and the portal of the regions north and west of it. Through this oldest and finest port on the Atlantic seaboard the commerce of a continent should flow and will flow, if the people of New England will awake to their opportunities and give to their commercial and industrial interests the zeal, energy and whole-hearted loyalty they deserve.

"This week is the Centennial anniversary of the transformation of Boston from a colonial town to a continental city; and the maritime and commercial advantages and opportunities of site and harbor that whitened the waters of Boston with the sails of the world in 1822 are still here to enable us to do the import and export trade of America, expanded, increased, multiplied and modernized. We say to New England and the West, opportunity is at the Port of Boston, knocking on your doors: Answer it.

"Boston is nearer to Europe, the Isthmus of Panama, both coasts of South America, our own Pacific states and the ocean highways of the East than any port on the North Atlantic. To ship in or out through the Port of Boston means an economy of time and money, quick deliveries of consigned cargoes, the finest piers and docks on the coast, the most up-to-date appliances for handling cargoes, the largest and best equipped facilities for storage, three trunk lines serving the waterfront, shipping conditions that represent the best service at the lowest cost, and a harbor safe, secure and free from fog and ice 365 days in the year.

"Boston is the ideal port for transatlantic passenger service, the only port in America where travelers are brought without change of car and baggage from his home to the side of the steamer. Returning home this efficient machinery is reversed in direction, enabling the traveler to go from ship berth to Pullman berth, giving him speed, security and satisfaction, and safeguarding him in person and property from the dangers, delays and vexations that mark the outgoing and home-coming of travelers at all American ports.

"Boston invites all the world and his wife to ship and sail from Boston. In this Centennial anniversary week our latchstring is out to visitors and travelers. We have a beautiful city, full of historic interest and spots sacred to American hearts, and we are surrounded by the loveliest sea and coast that ever delighted mortal eye.

"No American can afford to die until he has seen Boston."

BOSTON'S CENSORSHIP PLAN.

JOHN M. CASEY, CHIEF OF LICENSING DIVISION, MAYOR'S OFFICE, SPEAKS AT ATLANTA CONFERENCE.

John M. Casey, chief of the licensing division of the Mayor's office, delivered one of the principal addresses of the sessions at the Southeastern Conference of movie producers at Atlanta, Ga., telling of the method by which Boston controls the motion picture production in Boston. He said:

"This conference of the representatives of the Southern States is in my opinion not only a most important one, but one of far-reaching significance in the field of theatrical entertainment. Many of us will recall the motion picture in its infancy, and have watched its marvelous growth with wonder and perhaps at times with misgivings. We have said to ourselves, will this infant prodigy grow into an incorrigible child, or respecting the wishes and mandates of those who attempt to guide it, will it grow up to be a respected member of society?

"The moving picture in the business field has grown from a hazardous gamble to a gigantic enterprise, until today it has become a prominent factor in the world of instruction and pleasure.

"This conference is most valuable in that it affords representatives of various committees an opportunity to exchange opinions and to discuss suggestions and methods of practical improvement in the exhibition and presentation of pictures.

"I feel deeply honored on being invited to describe the system of regulation which has been in vogue in Boston, and which has come to be considered a model of municipal regulation of motion pictures. This method was inaugurated under the previous administration of the present Mayor, Hon. James M. Curley.

"Because of the position I occupy in municipal government, as chief of the amusement license division of Boston, and because I am held responsible for the regulation of exhibitions on the screen, I feel that I am in closer contact with the patrons of the theaters than any other citizen of the city. If a patron has a grievance or complaint on the film, invariably that individual comes to the licensing office with that grievance or complaint. He may speak to the exhibitor or manager of the theater about it, but he always communicates officially with the office of the Mayor. I believe, also, after my eighteen years of experience that I am in a position to speak with authority on the character of moving pictures.

"It is an indispensable requisite of any official charged with this responsibility that he be constantly "on the job"; even though much of the routine work be delegated to subordinates, the official in charge should be the recipient of complete reports systematically rendered, considered, acted upon and filed. He should keep himself fully informed regarding all pictures where there is apt to be a difference of opinion. His duties bring him in contact with exhibitors and exchange men with whom the licensing official should make it his business to develop cordial relations with a view to their co-operation.

"The basis of regulation in Boston has been the bulletins of the National Board of Review. It is an imperative order of the present Mayor and of his predecessors, that all films must be passed or approved by this Board before public exhibition in Boston. Every week a list of all films that are to be exhibited at the various places of amusement is sent to the Mayor's office by the various theater managers. Each film is carefully checked up with the bulletins of the National Board.

"These bulletins contain three classes of films: first, pictures that have been passed or approved; second, pictures in which specific changes or eliminations are required; third, pictures which have been disapproved by the Board or have not been submitted to them.

"Immediately upon receipt of the weekly bulletins containing the lists of films, those in which eliminations are required are reported to the exchange or renting agency handling the film with an order from his Honor, specifying that the theater involved will not be permitted to exhibit the picture until the eliminations are made and the cut-out portions forwarded to my office. When these eliminated parts are received by me, they are inspected and checked up with the bulletin, and so thoroughly do the managers of the exchanges understand the system that in every case I find the order of the Mayor absolutely complied with. When the cuts have not been made at the various laboratories, they are in all cases made at the local agency. Where the film has been cut at the factory before shipment to the agency, the manager of the agency immediately forwards a written statement to me to that effect, but in such cases the film is inspected before the first public exhibition.

"Occasionally a film is advertised for public exhibition where the title of the film does not appear on the bulletins of the National Board. In such cases the exhibitor and manager of the theater is notified and he communicates at once with his New York office and the film is properly submitted.

"If, after a public exhibition, complaint is received by me on a film, the complaint is investigated and my report and the report of the National Board on the film are submitted to the Mayor for his action and his decision.

"I have made a careful study of the question of state censorship, have personally talked with members of a few State Boards functioning, and I am fully convinced that a systematic inspection of films, in co-operation with the National Board, and based upon its weekly bulletin service, is undoubtedly far more effective, from the standpoint of the best public interest, than could be any possible form of legal censorship.

"I have found that the theater managers generally are quite willing to lend their assistance to the "Boston Plan" with its assurance of fair and equitable treatment, as opposed to the frequently capricious dictates of official censors. The "Boston Plan," summarized, involved the systematic review of pictures on a democratic basis and the co-operation of theater owners with the Mayor's office in making that review 100 per cent effective.

"But the responsibility of a municipal official does not end here. He is a representative of the people and as such should foster and encourage all effective methods of gathering and voicing public opinion. Public opinion is the foundation of all laws. Without the backing of public opinion the law could not be enforced, but public opinion can, if it is properly developed and guided, go beyond the law in their work, and a few persons of honesty, sincerity and higher ideals can accomplish marvels in the education of public taste, from which will later develop a permanent public opinion.

"So the formation of better films committees can go beyond the law into that field of education of public desires which of necessity is the hope of raising the artistic standard of motion pictures. Before you can have artistic pictures, you have got to have a public capable of appreciating and desirous of having the finer type of pictures. The better films movement will only succeed through the organized voice of different groups being heard and then being supplied with the pictures it demands. The committee in charge must rally to the support of such pictures and secure sufficiently large audiences to make it financially possible to exhibit them.

"The poet, Walt Whitman, said, 'You cannot have great poetry until you have a great audience,' and you cannot get better pictures, that is, more artistic pictures until you get better audiences; audiences with a desire for the artistic in pictures and a willingness to make a personal effort to support them. Further, your problem is not alone to voice a demand for the best, but to educate public taste to create an audience for the best when it is shown.

"There is at this time also another matter of great public interest in relation to better pictures to which his Honor Mayor Curley has briefly referred in his letter, and of which Mrs. Sharp has spoken, namely, the personality and conduct of the screen artists, the men and women with whose faces we have all become so familiar as to feel we have almost a personal acquaintance with them.

"Last fall the City of Boston was invited to send a representative to the Pacific Coast to visit the motion picture studios in and around Los Angeles where probably 90 per cent of American films are produced.

"I was designated by the Mayor to represent the municipality, and in company with officials from various communities, I spent a week on the Coast visiting the centers of production, going in and out of studios, talking personally with studio managers, producing directors, heads of scenario departments, camera men, actresses and actors, the artists and artisans having to do with film production.

"I found them a very friendly and a very human group of people. I found them not only ready and willing to listen to and accept suggestions, but anxious to discuss at any length my impressions of the reactions of audiences to the various types of films which had been produced there and with which they were, of course, familiar. My visit to Los Angeles convinced me that much that we read in the daily papers about the film colony is wholly manufactured.

"I talked with many actors and actresses and I came to the firm conclusion that they are, in the main, no better and no worse than we are ourselves. They love their homes as we love our homes. They pet and care for their children as we care for ours. They are human beings as we are, and if to err is human, let us not condemn a whole profession because a few have been justly or unjustly censured. Let us ask ourselves, if, subject to the same temptations of freedom of life, would we do as well."

MAYOR PROTESTS CHEAP AMUSEMENTS.

Mayor Curley appeared before the Licensing Board upon the 4th instant in protest of the granting of an application for installation of amusement appliances at Marine Park, City Point, and vicinity, and filed a petition bearing more than 1,000 signatures of residents in the South Boston district.

The Mayor said in part:

"The adoption of chapter 47 of the Acts of 1920, as approved February 20, 1920, is but another link in the chain that will one day strangle the political brokers in control of the policies of the Republican Party of late years in this Commonwealth.

"The presentation of this petition, two years after the adoption of the act which robbed the City of Boston of authority to pass judgment upon that which was for the moral benefit or injury of the community, is but a sequel to the act adopted on February 20, 1920. That act was signed by the present Governor of this Commonwealth, who has been a consistent and persistent violator of the principles of municipal home rule.

"I ask his Excellency to inform the public who the traffickers in cheap amusements were, or who the cunning lobbyist attorney was that prevailed upon him to give approval to an act which placed the responsibility for the granting of privileges for various forms of amusement that might be detrimental to public morals in the hands of a body of men over whom the duly elected authorities in Boston could exercise absolutely no control.

"There has never been a time in the history of Boston under any administration that the duly elected authorities of the city have lacked either the capacity, intelligence or courage to determine that which was vicious and injurious, and that which was beneficial and for the good of the community, and the presentation of this petition at this time is undeniable proof that the sponsors of chapter 47 of the Acts of 1920 are the same men who are behind this amusement privilege.

"It is my purpose as Mayor to present a bill at once for the repeal of chapter 47, Acts of 1920, and, in my opinion, it is the duty, regardless of the pleadings or intercession of parasitical Republican legal lobbyists to reject this petition, or at least suspend action until the Legislature has had opportunity to consider the repeal of chapter 47 of the Acts of 1920, and restore to the city government of Boston the authority to determine its own affairs."

Subsequent to Mayor Curley's vigorous opposition to the installation of cheap amusements in the vicinity of Marine Park, the petitioners withdrew their request.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

The Mayor has approved, upon the indorsement of the Acting Fire Commissioner, the following extension of contracts:

Pierce Flooring Company, for completing the floors at the quarters of Engine Company 26–35, Mason street, from March 10, 1922, to April 11, 1922. This extension is occasioned by the fact that the space allowed contractors for storing and mixing was too small to allow a sufficient force to be employed to complete the work in the specified time of two weeks. Also some of the material was delayed in shipment.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract of Gore, Inc., for block pavement in Washington street, from May 1 to July 1. The reason for the extension was because the Elevated road was in possession of the street until late in the season and delayed the work.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract of the John Kelly Company for asphalt concrete and granite block pavement in North Beacon street, Brighton, to July 1. Sewerage work in the street was not completed before inclement weather prevented further operations.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract with Martino DeMatteo for asphalt concrete pavement in Hastings street, West Roxbury, to July 1. The sewer contractor was at work when the contract for surfacing the street was let, thus preventing the paving contractor from entering the street in time to complete the work in the specified time.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract of B. E. Grant Company for asphalt concrete pavement in Centre street, West Roxbury, to July 1, the track work in the street not having been completed in time to permit the contractor to continue his work before cold weather set in.

BOSTON USHERED INTO SECOND CENTURY.

100TH ANNIVERSARY OF EXISTENCE AS CITY COMMEMORATED BY FLAG RAISINGS, ADDRESSES AND PATRIOTIC EXERCISES, WITH MAYOR CURLEY TAKING LEADING PART.

Boston started on her second century as a city on Monday when several hundred of her citizens gathered at Faneuil Hall to receive the bronze tablet from George W. Coleman, chairman of the Centennial Committee, and to share in the formal exercises planned to make the occasion memorable.

The celebration of the day, however, began at eleven o'clock, when the bells of various churches rang out their peals in announcing the event, fire gongs screeched and everywhere over the city the municipal emblem was shot to the top of poles and unfurled to the breeze.

Mayor Curley and groups of Boy Scouts featured the morning ceremony at City Hall, where the municipal banner was first officially flung to the winds. Several hundred persons were attracted to the event.

Mayor Curley pulled the string which released the flag and at the same time Superintendent of Public Buildings Fred J. Kneeland raised two flags on the posts at the fence.

Mayor Curley was escorted to the steps of the building by George W. Coleman, chairman of the committee of arrangements, and was joined later by Charles F. Read, secretary of the Bostonian Society, followed by members of the City Council and city officials.

There was a brief program by the Chinese Boy Scout Troop No. 34, Bugle and Drum Corps, and Troop 11, Boy Scouts, of the North End. Bugler Alexander Swift played the "Assembly," and when the Mayor pulled the string, "To the Colors" was sounded, followed by "The Star-Spangled Banner."

In introducing the Mayor, Mr. Coleman referred to the fact that seven years ago, when he was a member of the City Council, it fell to his lot to act as mayor on July 4, Mayor Curley then being at the San Francisco Exposition. It was a pleasure to welcome the Mayor back to City Hall.

Mayor Curley referred first to Boston's contribution of brains and idealism to the nation. The presence of the Chinese boys led him to remark that the nation had not given sufficient thought to America's position of friendliness toward China at the recent conference. The Italian and Jewish boys inspired the mayor with the thought that every effort should be made to restore the elements of democracy which the fathers had so admirably set forth in the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner, the department honored Boston's notable birthday by sounding the sirens on the fireboats for five minutes, from eleven o'clock, and gongs and bells of the fire houses were rung.

The principal exercises of the day were held at Faneuil Hall, where a bronze tablet commemorating the anniversary was unveiled after being presented to the city by George W. Coleman, chairman of the Centennial Committee, and accepted on behalf of the city by Mayor Curley. The ceremony of unveiling the tablet was performed by Miss Mary Curley, daughter of the Mayor. The tablet will be placed at the head of the stairway on the left side of the entrance opposite the Peter Faneuil tablet. It bears the following inscription:

1822—1922
In This Hall On May 1, 1822,
BOSTON WAS ORGANIZED
AS A CITY
This Tablet Commemorates
the One-Hundredth Anniversary of the Event

The exercises began with patriotic selections by an orchestra, while commissioned officers of the Boston Latin School Cadets escorted the guests to their seats. At 12.15 o'clock the Mayor and committee arrived, and a formal procession to the platform, led by two Latin School cadets bearing the national and city flags, started. One of the youths was Mayor Curley's son, James M. Curley, Jr.

The Mayor and George W. Coleman, chairman of the Centennial committee, followed the color bearers, and the remainder of the procession was made up of members of the Centennial committee, former Mayor and Mrs. Andrew J. Peters, Rev. Mgr. Arthur T. Connolly, Miss Mary Spurgeon of the Girls' High School and Paul G. Kerr of English High School, the last two being essayists chosen by the School Committee from the school children of Boston to take part in the program.

Mrs. Curley and Miss Mary Curley, who had been chosen to unveil the bronze tablet, were escorted to seats on the platform by Philip O'Connell, and received hearty greeting from the assemblage. Mrs. Curley occupied a chair at the left of Mayor Curley, and Miss Curley was given a place at the right of Mr. Coleman.

Mr. Coleman introduced Mayor Curley as the presiding officer, and the latter immediately called upon Mgr. Connolly, who repeated the words of the Lord's Prayer as an invocation. Following the singing of "America" by the audience, accompanied by the orchestra, Miss Spurgeon and Master Kerr presented essays of historical nature.

Mr. Coleman then formally offered to the city the commemorative bronze tablet.

Miss Curley raised a large American flag which covered the tablet, when Mr. Coleman had concluded his brief remarks, in which he expressed the hope that Mayor Curley's administration will start the second century of the city's existence with a full measure of prosperity.

Mr. O'Connell then presented a bouquet of red, white and blue flowers to Miss Curley, and Mayor Curley presented a similar bouquet to Mrs. Peters, as "the great-granddaughter of the first Mayor of the city and the wife of a former Mayor."

In accepting the tablet Mayor Curley made a plea for equality of opportunity and freedom from religious prejudice, declaring:

"Today being the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Boston as a city is a fitting time for counsel as to plans for the future.

"The Boston of a century ago and of a century and one half ago was the heart of America from which was radiated the thought and inspiration that paved the way for the establishment of free government in this country, through which was given to the world the American republic, and our national emblem, Old Glory.

"From the very beginning of the movement for liberty down to the present hour, Boston's contribution, either in the hour of peace or in the hour of trial, has been service and idealism. Our contribution of a material character has been limited; our contribution of those worth-while agencies that endure, that benefit mankind and that cannot be measured in terms of money exceeds the contribution of any municipality in America.

"The opportunty for leadership in the work of service is as great in our day as it has ever been in the past. The fathers and founders of our government in their wisdom gave to America and the world a Constitution whose compass has been so perfect that it has seldom been necessary to consider adjusting it in 146 years.

"The message that Boston sends forth to the world today is a plea for the preservation of the principles enunciated in the Constitution of the United States and set forth in the Declaration of Independence to the end that, through equal and exact justice to all men without regard to race, creed or color, we may be enabled to steer the Ship of State free of the shoals of industrial disputes which tend to divide men and man and free our country of the piratical flag behind which muster those who would scuttle the ship through racial and religious hatreds."

At the conclusion of the Mayor's address he exhibited the city charter, after informally announcing that as far as known this was the first time that the charter has been shown since the day when it lay on the table in Faneuil Hall at the inauguration of the first city government.

The charter was taken by the Mayor from a silver case about two and a half feet long and suitably inscribed. Because of the age of the document the mayor did not unroll it, but contented himself with allowing the gathering to see the yellowed roll of parchment.

In announcing Cardinal O'Connell's absence Mayor Curley said that he assumed that the manifold duties of the prelate prevented his presence. "We know, however," said the Mayor, "something of the message which would have come from his broad intellect and from his recent experience at that place of government where more concern is given to the future, and the present is merely incidental. The lesson which he gave this morning to the public press can well be taken to heart. It is well for us all to remember that the salvation of humanity and the preservation of free governments is dependent on the elimination of human selfishness."

The exercises were concluded with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the procession of the invited guests and cadets from the hall.

The committee in charge of events comprised George W. Coleman, chair- man; Allan Forbes, E. Fred Cullen, Thomas F. Anderson and Everett B. Mero, vice chairmen; Charles A. Coolidge, Henry V. Cunningham, Carl Dreyfus, David A. Ellis, Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, Frank Leveroni, Judge Michael J. Murray, Mrs. William L. Putnam, Charles F. Read, Mrs. Frances E. Slattery, Edward R. Warren, Addison L. Winship.

The ushers were all from the Boston Latin School Cadets. They were: Lieut. M. James Flynn, in command; Lieut. Leo O. Hearn, Lieut. B. J. Cummings, First Sergt. Edward J. Gallihew, First Sergt. John L. Keefe, First Sergt. John L. Fitzpatrick, Sergt. James F. Collins, Sergt. John Barry and Corporal James Michael Curley, Jr., the Mayor's son.

A communication from Frank P. Rock, Superintendent of Supplies, was as follows:

Boston, April 26, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,

The contract now in force for furnishing this grade of coal up to May 1, 1922, is at a price of $9.43 per ton, and the retail price today is $8.25 per ton, so that from a comparison of the prices quoted it is evident that the price of $6.67 submitted by the City Fuel Company is an extremely attractive one, and I earnestly request that the permission asked for be granted me.

SOLVING HOUSING PROBLEM.

According to statistics compiled by the Building Department for the Mayor and made public by him, dwelling accommodations for families, for construction of which application has been made in the past four months, increased almost 300 per cent over the first four months of 1921. The number of families to be cared for by construction covering this period has increased almost 500 per cent, thus showing that the housing problem of the city is rapidly adjusting itself.

For the first four months of this year there have been 199 new dwellings contemplated, application for construction of which has been applied for. These dwellings will accommodate 1,136 families when completed. During this same period in 1921 there were but 55 dwellings applied for, with accommodations for but 193 families.

In February the increase began to manifest itself with 45 dwellings applied for and caring for 397 families. In March there were 76 dwellings for 400 families under way, and in April 66 with a capacity of 292 families.

ATTENDS CONVENTION.

Prof. James O. Jordan, milk inspector of the Health Department, was designated to go to Hartford, Conn., at the expense of the City of Boston, to attend the New England Health Institute, held Friday, May 5, 1922.

MAYOR RENEWS APPEAL FOR HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE.

Mayor Curley in a supplementary communication, refuted the arguments of the Finance Commission against his plea before the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives for the right to borrow $2,000,000 outside the debt limit for the purpose of completing the high pressure system of the city. His letter to the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives reads:

Boston, April 29, 1922.

To the Honorable the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives, State House, Boston:

Gentlemen,—I beg to supplement the arguments made before your honorable committee on the 25th instant in favor of the urgent necessity for the $2,000,000 loan outside the debt limit for the purpose of completing the high pressure fire service in the City of Boston.

In 1912 and 1913 there were purchased by the city piping, valves, hydrants, etc., for the construction of approximately eleven miles of mains for this service.

If these materials had not been purchased at that time the expense to the city would have been very much greater.

I feel that the market price for such materials is much lower now than it will be in the future.

There now remains ten and one half miles to be laid, and the cost of piping, valves, hydrants, etc., for this ten and one half miles is approximately $600,000.

The best interests of the city will be served by making the purchase of all these materials now.

The work this year will furnish employment to the unemployed and will thereby relieve, to some extent, an embarrassing situation that now exists in the city.

The pipe, when received, if coated, will suffer no deterioration because of storage.

The pipe purchased in 1912 and 1913 has been laid from that time to the present and the last pipe purchased of this quantity was laid last year. The delay in constructing the system to its present condition was due to controversies arising over the locations of pumping stations. The location of these stations was finally settled in 1919.

Without annoyance or disturbance to business by excavation of street surfaces there can be laid this year two miles of pipe, the laying of which will cost at least $140,000. Each succeeding year at least two miles of pipe can be laid until the entire system is finished. This work should be done before the work on streets which are to be constructed is begun, thereby saving a large amount of money to the city, as it will be unnecessary, after the streets are laid, to have them torn up and again have them repaved.

In the written statement of the Finance Commission to your committee, supplementing their oral statement at the meeting, a schedule of streets to be done this year, which total approximately 1.3 miles, and in which list St. James avenue, Providence street, Columbus avenue, from Berkeley street to Eliot street, and Pearl street, from Milk street to Franklin street, were omitted. All of these streets must be repaved either this year or next.

St. James avenue, upon which the new John Hancock Building fronts, because of its condition, must be constructed. Work on this system should immediately be commenced on Stuart street section, which is to be constructed this year, as it is necessary to locate there feeder lines for a connection from the existing line on Berkeley street, down St. James avenue and Columbus avenue, both leading into Park square, and the paving on which street must be finished this year or next.

It is imperative that these lines should be constructed for the protection of the downtown section as well as for the Stuart street neighborhood.

Money should immediately be available to lay pipe in these streets in addition to the lines mentioned in the Finance Commission's report.

If the plans as proposed by the Finance Commission were followed, the expense for material and labor would amount to not less than $300,000 for the work that would be done this year.

The statement of the Finance Commission that there is a balance of approximately $35,000 on hand is an inaccuracy, as there is now a deficit, on account of this work, of $15,000.

Because of other activities making it necessary for the city to utilize its borrowing power for the present year, and because the laying of the two miles of pipe will cost $140,000 and the procuring of the supplies for the entire work will cost $600,000, making a total in all of $740,000 to be expended this year, and because it is extremely desirous that the money for the completion of this work shall now be provided for, and that there shall be no unnecessary delay in the future, I earnestly request the admission and passage of the proposed bill.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

BUILDING BOOM STARTS.

Boston's building boom has started. This was announced by Mayor Curley in a statement which showed that applications for new buildings and alterations for the month of April totaled $8,106,887, as against $1,089,724 for the same month last year.

Applications for new structures and alterations in the city for the entire month amount to 765, with 266 of these for entirely new operations and the remainder for alterations. For the same month last year the total construction was 707, and 583 alterations and but 124 new buildings of all classes.

The valuation of new construction for which application was made during the past month was $7,308,720 and alterations of $798,167. Last year for the same month the value of new construction was but $320,001 and alterations $769,733, showing that Boston is decidedly active in a building way this year.

In the past month applications for new apartment and tenement houses to the number of 14 were made with an estimated cost of $820,000; 50 dwellings with an estimated cost of $471,700; 122 garages at a valuation of $322,575; two hospitals, 11 mercantile buildings, 3 manufacturing structures, 7 office buildings, a public building and a schoolhouse. The 7 office structures are to be built at an estimated cost of $4,347,150.

GIVES MAYOR APPOINTING POWER.

Following the refusal of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission to approve the appointments of Mayor Curley and which included the offices of Budget Commissioner and Building Commissioner, the Mayor has caused to be introduced into the Legislature an act seeking to amend the city charter so that the Mayor of Boston shall have the appointing power in naming department municipal bureau heads, without the right of review by the Civil Service Commission and also without confirmation by the City Council. The act reads:

An Act Relative to Appointments by the Mayor of Boston.

Be it enacted, etc.:

Section 1. Chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 is hereby amended in section nine by striking out all of said section after the words "city council" in the sixth line thereof, so that said section, as amended, shall read as follows:

"Section 9. All heads of departments and members of municipal boards, including the board of street commissioners, as their present terms of office expire (but excluding the school committee and those officials by law appointed by the governor), shall be appointed by the mayor without confirmation by the city council."

Said chapter 486 is hereby further amended by striking out sections ten and eleven.

Sect. 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

MAHONY AT BUILDING CONFERENCE.

John H. Mahony, supervisor of construction in the Building Department, represented the City of Boston at the Building Conference of Commissioners of the United States at Indianapolis, the sessions beginning on the 25th ultimo. It was the eighth annual meeting of the organization and the sessions were held at the Hotel Lincoln.

New tests for brickwork with bricks built into walls and piers were discussed by William Carver, an architect of Cleveland, Ohio. The subject of Mr. Carver's talk was "The Actual Strength of Brickwork and Its Relation to Code Allowances." Brick tests have heretofore been unit tests, he said, or the testing of one brick in a lot.

A form for an ordinance regulating the manufacture and use of concrete blocks in the larger cities was recommended by A. J. R. Curtis of Chicago, manager of the cement products bureau of the Portland Cement Association. The form of a model ordinance for the construction of chimneys as recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters was discussed.

The work of the building code committee of the Department of Commerce, of which Rudolph P. Miller, president of the conference, is a member, was reviewed at the morning session. Talks were given by John W. Moore, superintendent of buildings of Queens Borough, New York; Charles McDermott, inspector of buildings of the department of public instruction of New Jersey; Mr. Miller and Sidney J. Williams.

A dinner and smoker in the Hotel Lincoln concluded the program.

LABOR REPORT.

According to the records of the Boston Public Employment Office for April, there has been no backward step in the progress noted last month, when it is considered that there were five Sundays and a holiday in April, making twenty-four working days, while in the month previous twenty-seven working days were recorded.

It has been very noticeable that there is a tightening of mechanics in the attendance. There are not so many men of the crafts calling at the office as previously and it is fair to assume that they are being called back to work by their previous employers or have secured employment at their craft elsewhere.

The number of orders recorded show an increase of 14 per cent over March, but a decrease of 11 per cent from April last year. There were 9 per cent less people wanted than in March and 3 per cent less than in April, 1921. The number of positions reported filled shows a decrease of 2 per cent from April a year ago, and also a decrease of 19 per cent from last month. The attendance of applicants for employment shows a decrease of 16 per cent from March and a decrease of 18 per cent from last April.

During the month 2,187 service men (1,602 soldiers and 585 sailors) visited the office in search of employment. Of this number 148 (101 soldiers and 47 sailors) accepted introduction cards to employers and 99 (65 soldiers and 34 sailors) were reported as hired.

In the men's skilled department there has been a firm demand for carpenters, painters, with several calls for bricklayers and plumbers in the building trades. There has been a fair demand for machinists in all lines as well as for molders, coremakers and blacksmiths in the metal trades. The printing industry has been very dull with occasional calls for compositors, pressmen and feeders. The demand in the general trades has been for reed workers, cotton ring spinners and rubber heel makers.

The demand for farmers who can milk continues to be one of the principal calls in the men's unskilled department and while a number of positions have been filled, the supply of experienced men is small. There are a number of men who were brought up on farms but have left it for years and who are now desirous of returning to that life, but they are not acceptable to the farmers. Able-bodied laborers are in good demand and easily supplied when the wages suit the applicant. There has been a fairly good demand for culinary workers in hotels and restaurants, which has been easily filled.

The demand for boys has been good with an abundant supply of applicants, but the wages offered do not seem attractive to many of the big boy element.

In the women's skilled department there has been a slight increase in the garment industry with only a meager supply of competent help available. The call in this line has been principally for finishers and pressers. The calls for attendants for state institutions have been fair with a good supply of help on hand. The summer hotel work is progressing satisfactorily and the supply of applicants for this class of help is being augmented daily.

Housework girls are in heavy demand in the women's unskilled department with a very small supply of help, either green or experienced, on hand. There has been a fair demand for kitchenwomen and dishwashers in hotels and restaurants which has been easily filled. The demand for summer hotel cleaners is beginning with a large supply of applicants waiting for positions.

The daily average demand was 57 as compared with 56 in 1921; 120 in 1920; 89 in 1919; 102 in 1918; 108 in 1917; 119 in 1916.

The average daily number of positions reported filled was 42 as compared with 41 in 1921; 70 in 1920; 50 in 1919; 65 in 1918; 64 in 1917; 7 in 1916.

REJECTED CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, states that the Law Department has disapproved four claims against the city, in two of which no amounts were specified, and the other two aggregated $14, and are classified as follows:

Against the Hospital Department, one, amounting to $10; against the Public Works Department, three, in two of which no amounts were specified, and the other one amounted to $4.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved two claims against the Sanitary Division of the Public Works Department, amounting to $18.66. These claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

Upon May 2 the Mayor approved the request of the Public Works Department to set edgestones and pave gutters on Canterbury street, in front of the Home for Destitute Jewish Children, with forces of the Paving Service, at a cost of $700. MAYOR ATTACKS ELEVATED, CHARGING FRAUD.

With the open charge that the Elevated Public Control Act had been passed by means of bribery and corruption, Mayor Curley again appeared before the House Committee on Rules of the Legislature in behalf of his order asking for an opinion from the Attorney-General as to whether the law cannot be set aside if procured by this means. The petition had been presented by Representative John W. McCormack.

Mayor Curley spoke briefly in introducing Mr. Whipple as his repesentative, saying: "The purpose of this resolution is to safeguard the interests of the taxpayers of this Commonwealth. The principle of the act of 1918 strips the individual of every possible vestige of defence from raids of unscrupulous agents who seek to enrich themselves at the expense of the public.

"We believe from the report of the special Elevated investigating committee last year that bribery and corruption attended the passage of the act of 1918. We believe that an investigation by the Attorney-General would show that there was corruption and bribery.

"We believe the public is entitled to the protection such an investigation would give, for if this law is a good and valid law there is nothing to prevent unscrupulous men, who have pillaged the treasuries intrusted to their keeping, from coming to the Legislature in the future, seeking reimbursement.

"It has been extremely difficult for me to devote the necessary time to a study of the details of this situation, and I have asked to assist me one of New England's foremost attorneys, one of America's foremost attorneys, Mr. Sherman L. Whipple."

Mr. Whipple said: "The first thing to be considered is: Is there a reason for this request for an opinion from the Attorney-General, or will it be a futile thing? Is the Elevated control bill satisfactory in its terms? Has it worked out as the Legislature and the public expected it to work out? Do the people approve it? Would the Legislature pass it in the terms in which it now stands, if it had to meet the situation again, based upon the experience of the past three or four years?

"If you answer these questions in the affirmative and decide the bill is fair and honest legislation, then there is no need to ask for an opinion of the Attorney-General. The Legislature had a long investigation last year which must have had some object, which must have represented some unrest and dissatisfaction.

"Let us consider the effects of the act of 1918. It has resulted in the increasing of fares from 5 to 10 cents. It has brought about an assessment of $4,000,000 against protesting municipalities who were required to make up the deficit in operating expenses. It has required the setting aside of $2,000,000 a year for depreciation, as contrasted with $98,000 before its passage.

"The law has disregarded the principle of charging the cost of service, and its results have been astonishingly different from what I believe were contemplated by the Legislature. The bill contains a clear and obvious joker, under which the car riders are charged not merely for the cost of transportation, a 6 per cent guaranty of dividends—but sums variously estimated at from ten to fifteen million dollars for the 'depreciation, obsolescence and rehabilitation of the road to a good operating condition.'

"The chairman of the Elevated trustees has himself given the best definition of what this rehabilitation means, for in his last report Mr. Jackson says the law provides that the trustees must restore 'property depleted and exhausted into good operating condition.' Quoting further from the report, we find that although much has already been done to restore the property, 'much remains to be done.'

"The law provides that this depleted and exhausted property, this bankrupt property, this non-divided-paying property, this failure, must be built up and its dividends guaranteed. It provides that the wage-earners, the people least able to afford it, must be taxed to restore a lost investment and pay dividends to the stockholders. Since the act became effective the value of the stock has soared. At the time the act went into effect shares were quoted at $25, while they are now bringing $85. Only yesterday the 'Boston News Bureau' was announcing that Elevated stock is now an investment for trustees."

Mr. Whipple then took up a second section of the act of 1918, which makes of the provision previously quoted a contract between the Elevated and the Commonwealth. "The cunningness of it," he exclaimed. "This is the sacred contract, which shows that the Elevated took no chances of the act's being repealed."

In referring to the legislative investigation of a year ago, Mr. Whipple asked whether the purpose was to pick out the little fellows picking up crumbs from the magnate's table and disgrace them before their families without an attempt to find out who got the big money. "No one believes that investigation got at the bottom of the question," Mr. Whipple declared. "The furtive, subtle bribery and corruption cannot be revealed outside of court. This act found its inception in legislative corruption that brought a blush of shame to the honest people of this Commonwealth. Are you going to lie down in the filth of those disclosures and say we can do nothing to combat this evil condition?

"I humbly differ with an opinion of the United States Supreme Court that a contract entered into by a state must stand regardless of the conditions which brought it about. An individual contract does not stand if an agent for a party to the contract is corrupted in executing the contract. Why should a state be held liable for a contract under similar conditions?"

Representative Shattuck and Speaker Young spoke briefly after questioning Mr. Whipple concerning some points raised by him, after which the hearing was closed and the committee went into executive session, but did not take any action previous to adjourning.

CITIES BACK BOSTON IN BANK FIGHT.

Legal and financial backing has been pledged to Mayor Curley and the City of Boston by ten other of the larger cities of the Commonwealth in this city's fight against suits brought by national banks for refunds on taxes paid since 1917 upon individual holdings of these bank shares. This aid was pledged at a meeting of the Mayor's Club at Young's Hotel.

All chief executives present agreed to confer and co-operate with Attorney John A. Sullivan, who is to wage Boston's battle for retention of $8,000,000 of such taxes collected from nine local national banks through the past five years.

There is little doubt that every other city and town over the state involved in such litigation will hasten to include itself in this formidable mobilization, since the chance of thus waging a winning fight is much enhanced.

Mayor Curley's fellow mayors assented as well to his proposal that they make common cause in the matter of drafting legislation looking to a complete readjustment of municipal and town tax burdens.

All approved his suggestion that a wheel tax, so-called, be instituted in this state, such as is being successfully levied in big western cities. A good part of such income would be devoted to highway construction and repair, which essential service now puts a heavy drain on the resources of practically every municipality and town. Mayor Curley thinks such a tax would result in putting such burden where it belongs, upon vehicular interests which use the highways.

Attorney Sullivan flatly stated that legal logic, equity and all the circumstances of these twenty-three suits instituted against Boston by nine national banks argue emphatically against any such compromise of them as Arthur Dehon Hill, city Corporation Counsel in the Peters administration, was inclined to make.

"These national banks have no moral ground for complaint. Apart from my zeal as the city's counsel in these cases, I can see clearly that their protests are based largely on a lawyer's device.

"Thirty Massachusetts cities and towns are involved with Boston in these suits. I am confident we can win all these suits, if we join in united action upon them."

Mayor Curley told the gathering that Boston has already put up $50,000 for the fight. This sum may cover all expenses, but if not, then he would feel inclined to ask financial assistance to sustain the battle from other cities and towns involved, since the sum of suits against them is in excess of $2,000,000.

Several of the Mayors attended the Copley-Plaza powwow, but let it be known they would be bound by the decisions of the meeting. The Mayors present included G. R. Beal, Waltham; John V. Kimball, Malden; Harry E. Bicknell, Northampton; Walter H. B. Remington, New Bedford; Edwin F. Leonard, Springfield; Percy W. Wheeler, Gloucester; Roger Keith, Brockton; John M. Webster, Somerville; Edward T. Simoneau, Marlboro; Michael Cashman, Newburyport; George H. Brown, Lowell; I. B. Fellows, Fitchburg.

Twenty ex-Mayors from all over the state attended, and conspicuous among them were Thomas N. Hart, dean of Boston's ex-Mayors, who listened intently throughout.

TO RAZE FIRE MENACE.

Upon April 28 the Mayor approved the razing of the building at 27 Ryan street under section 5, chapter 550, Acts of 1907, as amended, as a nuisance and fire menace. A communication from Acting Building Commissioner E. Mark Sullivan, was as follows:

BOSTON, April 27, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The department has been unable to locate the owner of 27 Ryan street, one Minnie C. Bishop. We find the City of Boston has paid the taxes for the years 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921 under tax title.

The building is in such a condition that it constitutes a nuisance and fire menace. We therefore ask your written approval to take the building down as provided for in section 5, chapter 550, Acts of 1907, as amended.

Yours very truly,

E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Acting Building Commissioner.

FISH SUPPLY TO POOR.

The O'Hara Brothers of the Fish Pier distributed some 5,000 pounds of fish upon the 5th instant to the poor who came to the fish-laden trucks and which were stationed at the following central points, most convenient for serving those it was desired to reach:

1. South Boston Municipal Building.
2. Monument square, Charlestown.
3. Vine Street Municipal Building, corner of Vine and Dudley streets, Roxbury.
4. North square.
5. The Blossom Street Gymnasium.

The distribution of the fish was made from the trucks of the company and officers were on hand to preserve order and insure as wide a benefit to the greatest number as possible.

In past months it has been customary when a surplus of ground fish over and above the needs of the local markets existed from various causes to dump it back into the sea, and the O'Hara Brothers objected to such waste of good food, and have undertaken the task of distributing it free in their own trucks where it will do the greatest good.

General Orders No. 37.

GRASS AND RUBBISH FIRES.

After conferring with the Chief of Department and the Bureau of Fire Prevention and Intelligence relative to the unprecedented number of needless grass fires which have recently occurred, it was considered essential, for the protection of lives and property in the city, to adopt the following rules and regulations which, if conscientiously followed, will minimize and possibly eliminate the fire hazard almost entirely caused by carelessness.

District chiefs and commanding officers are hereby ordered to refrain from issuing any further permits for the burning of grass, leaves, or rubbish, out of doors, and to withhold all such permits heretofore issued but not delivered, until further notice.

Hereafter, the following rules are laid down for the guidance of district chiefs and commanding officers:

a. Under no condition shall a permit be issued to other than a responsible adult person.

b. The applicant for a permit must have premises equipped with a garden or fire hose attached to a faucet, ready for immediate use. Watering pots should also be at hand.

c. Ground in the immediate vicinity of the fire must be thoroughly wet down before fire is lighted, and kept wet down while fire is burning.

d. The use of kerosene or other inflammable liquids in starting fire is strictly prohibited.

e. In the discretion of district chiefs and commanding officers, very small amounts of rubbish may be permitted to be burned in a metal receptacle or stone inclosure, on condition that sufficient buckets or pails of water are on hand to thoroughly extinguish burning embers when leaving.

f. Fires must at all times be under the personal supervision of the applicant or other adult person acting under his direction, who shall remain at the location of fire until same is thoroughly extinguished.

g. No heap of rubbish shall be lighted, the dimensions of which exceed 3 feet high by 3 feet wide at any one time.

h. No rubbish permits shall be issued for, or used on the 17th of June, 4th of July, or any other day celebrated as such.

The public is notified that the setting of fires in the open air without a permit from the Fire Commissioner is in violation of the laws of the Commonwealth and the Revised Ordinances of the City of Boston and subject to a penalty.

All permits for the burning of leaves, grass, brush, garden or other rubbish issued by the Fire Commissioner previous to the date of this order are hereby declared null and void, provided, however, that such permits shall remain in force and effect until all the conditions above enumerated are complied with.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

LATIN AMERICAN WOMEN ENTERTAINED.

Boston this week entertained several noted women representatives of Latin America who were invited to this city by the Mayor through his Commercial and Industrial Bureau.

These distinguished women came to the United States to attend the Pan-American Convention of Women in Baltimore last month, and as a means of enabling them to take back to their homes a better impression of the United States as well as for the purpose of increasing the commercial intercourse between those countries and Boston and New England the Mayor, through the Commercial and Industrial Bureau, conveyed to them an invitation to visit Boston when their sessions were concluded. The invitation was conveyed to the convention by the delegates from the Boston League of Women Voters.

The delegates arrived in Boston Thursday morning at 9.58 (daylight saving time). They were met by representatives of the Bureau, the Mayor's office and the League of Women Voters. From the South Station they were taken to the Hotel Somerset.

At the hotel they were given a chance to rest, after which they were taken to Wellesley College to attend a luncheon as the guests of President Ellen F. Pendleton. Following this they visited Sherborn Reformatory, then returned to the homes of their hostesses for dinner. At 8:30 o'clock they were tendered a reception by the City of Boston and the Boston League of Women Voters.

Automobiles for the day were furnished by the Automobile Dealers' Association.

Friday was devoted to sight-seeing and the automobiles for this day with their drivers were furnished by the American Red Cross Motor Corps. The first stop of the trip was at the home of Cardinal O'Connell at eleven o'clock. At one o'clock they were the guests of the Women's City Club and the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Club. At 6:30 o'clock they were given a dinner at the Chilton Club as guests of the Boston League of Women Voters. From there they went to a public meeting in their honor at Jacob Sleeper Hall.

On Saturday the delegates visited City Hall for a round table conference on social service problems and commercial relations. This meeting was held in the rooms of the Commercial and Industrial Bureau. A luncheon at William Filene Sons Company store followed, and the entertainment concluded with a conference in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Bond, when child welfare work was discussed.

HEARING UPON TREMONT STREET.

The Board of Street Commissioners held a hearing upon Thursday, the 4th instant, relative to the proposal that Tremont street shall be made a one-way thoroughfare.

Proprietors of large commercial houses upon Tremont street made vigorous protest regarding the proposed change, declaring that it is unnecessary and would prove a menace to business.

The petition was presented by Arthur Crossley of Chandler & Co., who said the assessed valuation of the properties on which the firms he represented do business amount to $50,000,000, and that the views of men representing such large investments ought to be respected.

Those who want the present policy unchanged advocated providing more policemen for the crossings in their section; ruling slow-moving vehicles, such as city dump carts, off Tremont street, or making them keep in a line of their own, and the establishment of a semaphore at Park street.

P. A. O'Connell for the E. T. Slattery Company said that if the city government intends, as has been rumored, to increase valuation assessments in that section of Tremont street, the merchants there should be given every opportunity to maintain business at the maximum. He favored taking another slice off the Common to improve traffic in Tremont street.

The commissioners will announce their decision within two weeks.

Boston to Harvard sq., Cambridge, while only single or double street-cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1921 for the Dorchester tunnel, $10,750,000. Total cost of all subways and tunnels, about $36,995,000, incl. loan of $825,000 for new Arlington Station, against which a sinking fund of $5,818,710 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont Street 20 years) at annual rental of 4½ to 4⅞ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at ⅜ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be 4½ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF T. J. GAVIN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, an order of your honorable body for the reinstatement of Thomas J. Gavin, dated April 17, for the reasons as set forth in the appended memorandum submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works, Joseph A. Rourke.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 21, 1922.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

The records of this department show that Thomas J. Gavin was appointed on June 26, 1914, as teamster in the Sanitary Service; that on December 3, 1915, he was transferred to the Paving Service as a paver at $2.50 per day, increased to $3 per day on September 1, 1916.

On March 19, 1917, he was granted a leave of absence for five months, to accept a position as paver in the Navy Yard, Charlestown; he returned to work September 4, 1917, worked three days and returned to the Navy Yard. On March 11, 1918, he requested that he be granted an indefinite leave until he was released by the Navy Yard officials, which was granted.

On March 15, 1922, he applied for reinstatement in this department, stating that his services ceased in the Navy Yard. A request to employ him was sent to the Commissioner of Civil Service on the same day. In reply the commissioner stated that in view of the fact that he had not been employed for the city since April 6, 1917, his reinstatement cannot be allowed. Under the civil service regulations any laborer not actually employed shall at the end of six months be held to have resigned unless his absence was unavoidable.

Mr. Gavin's absence was not unavoidable as he left the department to accept a position at higher remuneration outside the city service. If this legislation is approved it will act as a precedent for several similar requests from men who left the city service during the war period to engage in higher paid work outside. I recommend that the Law Department oppose such requests, especially at this time when we are endeavoring to alleviate the unemployment situation of the World War veterans. Gavin was employed in the department about three years.

J. A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

REPORT OF OVERSEERS OF PUBLIC WELFARE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith report of the Overseers of the Public Welfare, the same being a reply to the order of your honorable body of April 17, 1922.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Overseers of the Public Welfare,
April 24, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—Your communication of the 22d received, containing order passed by the City Council requesting the Overseers of the Public Welfare to inform, through your Honor, the City Council, if it has the information, the amount of relief, if any, that is given to the worthy poor of the City of Boston by the Family Welfare Society of Boston. After consultation with the chairman of the Board and the office committee, I have to inform you that this department has no particular information in regard to the expenditures of money by the Family Welfare Society except as published in its annual reports. I inclose their report for seven months ending April 30, 1921. However, should you require additional facts which would bring the report down to April first, I will endeavor to obtain the same from the secretary of the Family Welfare Society.

Yours respectfully,
W. H. HARDY, Secretary.

Placed on file.

VETO—EAST BOSTON SQUARE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 26, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, orders of your honorable body, dated April 24, providing for the changing of the name of Putnam square to James J. Flynn square, also the changing of Prescott square to William A. Tryder square, and the changing of the name of Monmouth square to Agnes Queenan square.

The movement for liberty in the colonies, whose fruition was only possible after eight years of sacrifice and service on the part of colonial mothers and fathers, marked the most forward movement in the painful uphill march of humanity towards liberty and equality.

There is no way in which to justify the effacement of any memorial connected with the movement for liberty, and it is not my purpose, as Mayor, to approve any order the adoption of which would lessen the respect and minimize the reverence that all free men should hold in common for events and individuals connected with the establishment of free government on this continent.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

ALARM BELL, EAST STREET.

The following was received:

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, April 25, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Referring to the order of the City Council of April 10, 1922, requesting that a warning bell be placed on the fire alarm box post at the corner of East street and Dorchester avenue, I beg to advise your Honor that I have ordered the warning bell to be installed as soon as possible.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATION ORDER

The Board took up for consideration the annual estimates and appropriation order, prepared and submitted by the Business Agent, in accordance with the rules, as follows:

BUDGET.

APPROPRIATIONS, 1922-23.

Office of the Business Agent of the School Committee, Room 51, 15 Beacon Street,
April 24, 1922.

To the School Committee:

In compliance with paragraph 2 of Section 99 of the Rules, I submit herewith the estimates and itemized appropriation order to cover the expenses of the public schools for the financial year February 1, 1922, to January 31, 1923, both included.

These estimates show the cost of maintenance of the public schools on the basis existing December 1, 1921, and the costs of any provisions for growth or expansion of any kind are set forth separately.

Under the established practice for a great many years the salaries for the month of January and the bills for the months of December and January have been paid out of the appropriation for the financial year beginning on the first day of February following. Under a recent decision of the Corporation Counsel, all liabilities contracted within the financial year must be provided for out of the revenue for the year.

Such a change in accounting methods would necessitate either the payment of the salaries for thirteen months and the bills for fourteen months out of the appropriations for one year, or the salaries for the month of January and the bills for the months of December and January must be cared for out of some special fund set up for the purpose.

The City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, has set aside a fund called the "Special Account 1921-22" to be used during the current year for taking care of the salaries for the month of January, 1922, and the bills for December, 1921, and January, 1922, and any other unpaid accounts for the financial year 1921-22, with the understanding that the School Committee shall contribute thereto all of its unexpended balances for the past financial year.

Beginning February 1, 1922, estimates will be based upon the liabilities incurred during the financial year, and each financial year thereafter the appropriations are to be made for the obligations entered into during the financial year.

The immediate effect of this change of methods on the budget for the financial year 1922-23 will be to reduce the appropriating power of the School Committee by the amount of the unexpended balance for the past financial year and the excess of income for that year over the amount estimated.

The average valuation of the city for the three years 1919, 1920 and 1921, with all abatements allowed up to December 31, 1921, as certified to his Honor the Mayor by the Board of Assessors, is $1,557,388,410.46. This is the sum upon which all appropriations by the City Council and the School Committee for the financial year 1922-23 are based.

The School Committee is authorized by law to appropriate the following sums:

(a) Six dollars and thirty cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for general school purposes. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919, chapter 249 of the Special Acts of 1919, and chapter 641 of the Acts of 1920.)

(b) One dollar and sixty-three cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the construction and furnishing of new school buildings, both temporary and permanent, including the taking of land therefor, and for school yards and the preparing of school yards for use, and for the rent of hired school accommodations. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919 and chapter 524 of the Acts of 1920.)

(c) Eighty-four cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the alteration and repair of school buildings, and for furniture, fixtures and means of escape in case of fire, and for fire protection for existing buildings, and for improving existing school yards. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919 and chapter 524 of the Acts of 1920.)

(d) Eleven cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for organizing and conducting physical training and exercises, athletics, sports, games and play, and for providing apparatus, equipment and facilities for the same in buildings, yards and playgrounds under the control of the School Committee, or upon any other land which the committee may have the right to use for this purpose, under the provisions of chapter 295 of the Acts of 1907. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919, chapter 249 of the Special Acts of 1919, and chapter 641 of the Acts of 1920.)

(e) Nine cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the employment of one supervising female nurse and so many district female nurses as, in the opinion of said committee, are necessary in accordance with the provisions of chapter 357 of the Acts of 1907, and for the employment of such number of school physicians as, in the opinion of the School Committee, may be necessary, and for the care of the teeth of school children. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919, chapter 249 of the Special Acts of 1919, and chapter 641 of the Acts of 1920.)

(f) Three cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the purpose of conducting educational and recreative activities in or upon school property under the control of the School Committee, and the use thereof by individuals and associations in accordance with the provisions of chapter 195 of the Acts of 1912 and chapter 86 of the Special Acts of 1916. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919 and chapter 641 of the Acts of 1920.)

(g) Seven cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the payment of pensions to members of the teaching or supervising staff of the public schools of the city, and to persons who were annuitants of the Boston Teachers' Retirement Fund at the time when chapter 589 of the Acts of 1908 took effect, and other teachers who had retired prior to said time, in accordance with the provisions of said chapter 589, chapter 537 of the Acts of 1909, chapter 617 of the Acts of 1910, chapter 569 of the Acts of 1912, and acts in amendment thereof, and of the provisions of chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919.)

(h) Two cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for promoting the Americanization and better training for citizenship of foreign-born persons. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919.)

(i) Two cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for vocational guidance. (Chapter 206 of the Special Acts of 1919.)

(j) The unexpended balance for the financial year 1921-22. (None available this year.)

(k) The excess of income, if any, for the financial year 1921-22 over that estimated. (None available this year.)

(l) The estimated income for the financial year 1922-23.

(m) Estimated allotment, Smith-Hughes Fund, 1922-23.

Total Money Available 1922-23.

Exclusive of the money available for new school buildings, lands, yards and furnishings, viz., one dollar and sixty-three cents on each one thousand dollars of the valuation and amounting to $2,538,543.11, the sums available for the financial year 1922-23 are as follows:

$6.30 per $1,000 for general school purposes	$9,811,546.98
.84 per $1,000 for the alteration and repair of school buildings	1,308,206.26
.11 per $1,000 for physical education	171,312.72

.02 per $1,000 for promoting Americanization	31,147.76
.02 per $1,000 for vocational guidance	31,147.77

Estimated income 1922-23, physical education	3,000.00
Estimated income 1922-23, extended use of the public schools	7,500.00
Smith-Hughes Fund (estimated allotment)	25,673.04
Total amount available	$12,049,438.32

*Unexpended balance of general appropriation, $168,962.02, and of appropriation Schoolhouse Department, $23,161.50, will not be available for appropriation this year for the reason that these sums have been diverted to the "Special Account 1921-1922," which fund is being used in making the change in the accounting methods of the city.

In compliance with the instructions of your Board, the appropriation for the alteration and repair of school buildings, etc., has been separated from the general appropriation order and has been made the subject of another communication.

The amounts as set forth in the following estimates should be appropriated, and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order which carries this intention into effect.

William T. Keough,

MAYORS OF BOSTON.

In its 99 years of existence as a city Boston has had 36 elected Mayors and five ex officio Acting Mayors. Of the 36 men who have held the office for one year or more, five were elected for other than consecutive terms and 25 were re-elected one or more times. Those born within the present limits of Boston numbered 21; in towns near Boston, 8; in neighboring New England States, 5; in Ireland, 2. The Mayor longest in office was Mayor Lincoln, who served 3 years ending 1860 and then 4 years ending 1866. Next in length of service were the first Mayor Quincy and Mayor Fitzgerald, who served 6 years each. Those who served 4 years were Mayors Prince, O'Brien, Matthews, (third) Quincy, Hart, Curley and Peters. Mayor Collins was in office nearly 4 years, his death occurring 3½ months before his second term expired. Those serving 3 years were Mayors Otis, Eliot, Chapman, (second) Quincy, Bigelow, Shurtleff and Cobb; 2 years, Mayors Wells, Lyman, Brimmer, Seaver, Smith, Rice, Wightman, Gaston, Pierce (22 months) and Hibbard; 1 year, Mayors Phillips, Armstrong, Davis, Norcross, Green, Palmer, Martin and Curtis. The five Acting Mayors were Chairmen (Board of Aldermen) Parker, Leavitt, Allen, Cutter and Whelton.

Mayor Armstrong was Lieutenant-Governor and at times Acting Governor before serving as Mayor. Mayors Rice and Gaston served 3 years and 1 year (respectively) as Governor, after their terms as Mayor. Mayors Collins, Curley, Fitzgerald, Peters, Pierce and Rice have represented Boston in the lower house of Congress, Mayor Peters having also served as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Ex-Mayor Curtis was appointed Police Commissioner in 1919 for term of five years. Ex-Mayor Quincy died in 1919, and Ex-Mayor Green in 1918. (See annual City Doc., Boston Municipal Register, for full list of Mayors from 1822 to 1921, with place and date of birth, years of service and date of death.)

The 7 cities in the first zone, i. e., adjacent to Boston, are these, viz., Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Newton, Quincy, Revere and Somerville; the 6 cities in the second zone, not adjacent, are Lynn, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Waltham and Woburn. The 6 adjacent towns are Brookline, Dedham, Milton, Needham, Watertown and Winthrop; the 20 other towns are Arlington, Belmont, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Dover, Hingham, Hull, Lexington, Nahant, Reading, Saugus, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Wellesley, Weston, Westwood, Weymouth and Winchester. North and northwest of Boston are situated 11 of the cities and 12 of the towns; south and southwest, 2 cities and 14 towns. Area of Northern Division, 150.8 sq. miles and population in 1920, 699,685, or a density of 4,619 per sq. m.; Southern Division, 214.8 sq. miles and 211,191 population, or density of only 983 per sq. m.; in the whole Metropolitan District, 4,051 per sq. m. In percentages Boston shows 10.5 p. c. of District's area and 45.09 p. c. of population; Northern Division, 36.2 of area and 42.18 of population; Southern Division, 53.3 of area and 12.73 of population. The said total exceeds the 1919 valuation by $130,698,130, a gain of 5.01 per cent. Of said total 57.57 per cent was in Boston and 42.43 per cent outside. The four organized Metropolitan Districts existing for the purpose of constructing and maintaining certain extensive systems of public works under State control are as follows: Metropolitan Park District, established by chapter 407, Acts of 1893, including all the cities and towns except Lexington, and managed by a State Board of five commissioners; Metropolitan Water District, established by chapter 488, Acts of 1895, including 10 cities and 9 towns, and covering an area of 175 square miles; Metropolitan Sewerage District, established by chapter 439, Acts of 1889, consisting of the North System and South System, including 17 cities and towns in the former system and 8 in the latter, and covering an area of 225 square miles; the last two districts managed by a single State board of three commissioners; Charles River Basin District, established by chapter 465, Acts of 1903, including all the cities and towns except Cohasset and Lexington, and in charge of the Metropolitan Park Commission. By Chap. 350, General Acts of 1919, the two Metropolitan boards were abolished and a single Metropolitan Commission of five members was established.

Another Metropolitan District, viz., the Fire Prevention District, was organized in 1914 by the enactment of chapter 795. In this district are the 14 cities of "Greater Boston," but only 10 of the towns, to which were added Reading and Rockland, a total of 26 municipalities. The District is in charge of a single commissioner, assisted by a deputy commissioner, both appointed for a term of three years. This office was also abolished by said Chap. 350, the work of same being transferred to Dept. of Public Safety.

In 1915 a revision of the harbor lines was made and the project undertaken whereby 600 acres of flats between Governor's Island and Jeffries Point, East Boston, will be filled in and used for extensive commercial development under State control.

In April, 1918, the Government decided to establish its Army Supply Base on a portion of the Commonwealth lands in South Boston. About 57.6 acres were purchased of the State, the price being $1,317,510, quickly followed by the construction of two pier sheds, each 920 feet long, a wharf shed and other buildings, including one of the largest storehouses in the world, built of reinforced concrete, eight stories high, 1,638 feet long, 126 feet wide and with floor space of over 1,650,000 square feet. The total outlay for the plant was about $26,000,000.

Total Federal expenditure for improvement of Boston Harbor from 1790 to June 30, 1918, $12,525,981; total expended and provided for by State, $18,364,947 since 1859.

HOW THE CITY DOLLAR WAS SPENT DURING THE LAST FINANCIAL YEAR.

For Public Schools, $0.23 cents (if the total amount appropriated had been expended, the correct figure would be 0.262); Public Works, 0.176; State Tax and Assessments, 0.133; Debt Requirements, 0.12; Police Dept., 0.08; Fire Dept., 0.07; Institutions and Poor Relief, 0.039; Hospitals and Health, 0.038; General Government, 0.037; County Courts, etc., 0.037; Public Recreation, 0.027; Public Library, 0.013, making a total of 100 cents. This excludes all expenditures from loans, etc., but includes Special Appropriations from Tax Levy and other General Income.

The revenue of the departments amounted to 16 per cent of their gross expenditures. The revenue of Public Service Enterprises alone (including Water Service, Markets, etc.) amounted to $3,997,166 or $234,117 more than their total expenditures. The fractions of the dollar above stated represent net expenditure, computed after deducting department revenue.

Revenue from another class of public $19,979.55 more than the interest and sinking-fund requirements of the Rapid service enterprise, i. e., Rapid Transit subways and tunnels, $1,446,516.75 or Transit debt in 1920.

Boston was incorporated as a city February 23, 1822, this being the date when the Act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature. On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz. Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. ASSESSING DEPARTMENT.

Upon May 11 the Mayor approved a contract with the M. A. Dewell Company for the preparation of poll tax bills. A communication from Chairman Edward T. Kelly of the Board of Assessors was as follows:

City of Boston,
Assessing Department,
May 10, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—We desire your permission to make a contract with M. A. Dewell, known as the Dewell Company, in the preparation of poll tax bills, including detail on the bills of veterans of the World War, permitting the inclosure of an abatement application with each bill.

The limited time between the earliest delivery of the lists from the Library Bureau and the date when the bills must be issued renders the operation within the department liable to seriously interfere with the work of property assessments. The Dewell Company have done work of a similar character in the past and their familiarity with our books and forms make it desirable to have them do the work.

From the figures submitted by other concerns competent to do the work, I am unable to find anyone who is willing to do it at a less cost.

For these reasons permission is requested to make the contract, without advertising, at a price of 1 cent per item, the total cost not to exceed $2,500.

Respectfully,

Edward T. Kelly,
Chairman.

Public Works Department (Paving Service).

Upon May 6 the Mayor approved the relaying of edgestone and the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in Warren, Soley and Winthrop streets, Charlestown, in and around St. Mary's Church, to be performed by the division force.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department, was as follows:

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
May 3, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Authority is requested to reset edgestone and construct artificial stone sidewalks in Warren street, Soley street and Winthrop street, Charlestown, around St. Mary's Church, with division forces, and without inviting proposals therefor, by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $650. This is maintenance work and can, in my opinion, be done as advantageously by day labor methods as any work now necessary.

Respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon May 6 the Mayor approved a contract with the D. M. Biggs Company for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, May 3, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to D. M. Biggs & Co., 60 Marsh street, Dorchester, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon May 9 the Mayor approved a contract with C. L. Hoffman & Son for the bulding of artificial stone sidewalks.

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to C. L. Upon May 6 the Mayor approved a contract with the Linscott Motor Company, for one and one quarter ton Reo speed wagon, with cab and speed body, for the service of the Transit Department.

A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

City of Boston,
Supply Department,
May 2, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Attached please find list of bids on proposals for furnishing a one and one half (1½) ton truck to the Transit Department, which were publicly opened and read at this office under date of April 16, 1922.

I respectfully request that these bids be rejected, and that I be given permission to enter into contract and purchase, without publicly advertising the same, a 1¼-ton Reo speed wagon with cab and stake body, to cost $1,575, from the Linscott Motor Company. The price of this truck is considerably lower than those offered for a 1½-ton truck, and I have been informed by the Transit Department that the Reo speed wagon is better adapted for their work.

I trust that the permission requested above will be granted.

Respectfully yours,

Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

The following bids, opened April 16, were all rejected:

The Noyes-Buick Company, $2,070, delivered; 30 days delivery; one Model K16, 1-ton, 3,900 pounds.

General Motors Truck Company, $3,809.60, delivered; proposal not signed; check with bid; one Model K41A, 2-ton, 4,000 pounds.

Upon May 8 the Mayor approved a contract with the Wedlake-Lamson Company for furnishing Christie parts to the Boston Fire Department.

A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department, was as follows:

Boston May 6, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without publicly advertising the same, to the Wedlake-Lamson Company for furnishing Christie parts to the Fire Department, in accordance with the attached list, the amount of the contract to be $5,779.45. I feel that no saving could be made the city by publicly advertising these parts, owing to the fact that the Wedlake-Lamson Company are the manufacturers and can sell to the city at a lower price than any other concern.

In view of the above, I trust that the permission asked for will be granted.

Respectfully yours,

STANDARD SPECIFICATIONS FOR PUBLIC WORKS.

Mayor Curley has requested the Finance Commission to file such standard specifications relative to work to be performed under the direction of the Public Works Department, and amending the present specifications, adopted in 1916, as the Commission may deem advisable.

The communication of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
May 6, 1922.

Hon. Michael H. Sullivan, Chairman Finance Commission, 413 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Upon two occasions, since I have assumed the office of Mayor, a request has been received from the Finance Commission that certain modifications be made in the specifications of work to be performed under the direction of the Public Works Department.

I find, upon inquiry, that the standard specifications adopted in 1916 have been either revised or rejected during the past four years.

The specification adopted in 1916 was the result of research and study on the part of a committee representing the Institute of Technology, the Harvard University, the Metropolitan Park and Metropolitan Highway Commissions and the engineers of the Public Works Department and the Finance Commission.

I would greatly appreciate the submission by your Commission at an early date of such standard specifications as, in the opinion of your chief engineer, would be beneficial to the city.

Sincerely yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

SAN FRANCISCO ENJOYS FISH.

San Francisco is in high praise of Boston fish. This news came to Mayor Curley in a letter from Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco.

Mayor Rolph's letter to Mayor Curley reads:

City of San Francisco,
Office of the Mayor,
May 2, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Mayor Curley,—I am sure you will be interested in knowing the verdict of those to whom I distributed the fish which you so kindly sent me on the steamer "Neponset."

Upon its arrival the shipment was placed in a local cold storage plant to be thawed out gradually, and last Thursday was disposed of—the larger part going to the San Francisco Relief Home for the poor and infirm, and the rest to various city officials. Both from the Relief Home and from the individuals participating in your generous gift the greatest praise has come for these fine fish.

Again thanking you for the compliment you have paid the people of San Francisco and myself, and with the kindest regards and best wishes, believe me,

Very sincerely yours,
James Rolph, Jr., Mayor.

THE SUCCESS OF CITY EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Director Luke E. Shields of the Municipal Employment Bureau has submitted to Mayor Curley a report of the labors of the organization for the month of April, as follows:

City of Boston,
Employment Bureau, May 9, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,- In submitting my report for the second month of the Employment Bureau's existence I am asking your consideration of the following statements:

At the time of your establishment of a Municipal Employment Bureau two months ago the number of the unemployed in the City of Boston, according to figures received from Washington, was approximately 65,000. These figures were arrived at, not by any accurate survey or by individual registration, but by applying the general law of percentage deduction, based on figures obtained from fifty industrial plants in and around Boston. Were individual registration to take place many more thousands would be found unemployed. The estimation of this Bureau figures unemployment two months ago at approximately 75,000.

The ex-service men of Boston, about 33,000 in number, suffered more than any other class, being longer without employment. So hard, indeed, was the condition of the ex-service men that many of them were forced to obtain relief from the city through the Soldiers' Relief Department. The enrollment of this Bureau has been continually amplified until there are approximately 5,600 men, including the Civil War veterans, who are receiving unemployment cash aid from the city. As Your Honor must know, if this condition were to persist, the morale of those who should receive the highest honor and who were considered by the government the best and fittest to represent it in time of emergency would be gradually broken down. Repeated efforts to obtain work during the past three years by able-bodied and ambitious men have resulted in nothing but continued failure.

On March 1, when you established this Bureau, unemployment was greater than in any other American city per population. Two months after the establishment of this Bureau, with a personnel of only five, we have placed at work 741 men out of 3,088 who have registered at this Bureau, a placement approximating 24¼ per cent. I have the honor to inform you that your plan of employment as applied by this Bureau has resulted in a percentage placement greater than any bureau in the country today.

I must also inform you that your efforts in placing the ex-service men at work under the Boston Transit Commission and in the Park Department have resulted in removing upwards of 1,400 ex-service men from the undesirable position of becoming objects of charity and has relieved the Soldiers' Relief Department of the disbursement of upwards of $20,000 a month. The impetus created by you in your general plan for the relief of the unemployed has resulted in sufficient stimulus to builders to cause them to take out permits from the city approximating $40,000,000.

The result, conservatively speaking, of your plan for employment has been the reduction of the number of unemployed to about 45,000.

It is gratifying to note that the Chamber of Commerce, even at this late hour, has displayed a disposition to reduce unemployment. I personally believe that the Employment Bureau is sufficiently organized to handle the unemployment situation of Boston today. The real service that the members of the Chamber of Commerce can do is to encourage and stimulate commerce and industry, which is their specific duty and the reason why such a body exists. Now would be the appropriate time for them to make particularly strenuous efforts to bring back better industrial conditions. Certainly with confidence restored in a great measure the Boston Chamber of Commerce should find little difficulty in approaching the heads of different concerns and in opening up commercial activities which have lain dormant for such a length of time.

Respectfully submitted,

Luke E. Shields, Secretary,
Director of Employment.

FIRE DEPARTMENT SERVICE.

Maj. William J. Casey, Acting Fire Commissioner, has presented the following report relative to Fire Department activities for the month of April, 1922:

City of Boston,
Fire Department, May 6, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with your honor's circular, No. 3, I submit herewith a report of the activities of the Fire Department for the month of April, 1922.

During the month 201 members of the department have been instructed in the care and operation of the all-service smoke masks, which have been installed in the department. Eleven men have been instructed in the care and driving of motor vehicles in the chauffeurs' school, and nine men have been instructed in the care and operation of the high pressure system.

The time for company drills has been changed from six o'clock in the morning until later hours of the day, i. e., between 10 a. m. and 12 m., and 3 p. m. and 5 p. m. In my opinion this is a more reasonable hour to drill men, and it is expected that an improvement in the efficiency of the department will be effected.

The Bureau of Fire Prevention has been reorganized and is now known as the Bureau of Fire Prevention and Intelligence. Instead of having the work of inspection directed from headquarters it now comes under the authority of the local deputy and district chiefs, who are responsible for the conditions in their respective divisions and districts.

The necessary promotions have been made to give the department its full complement of officers.

A requisition has been made on the Supply Department for ten new pieces of motor fire apparatus. This apparatus is being ordered a little earlier this year than has been the custom in the past, with the idea of getting the apparatus delivered and in service before the winter months.

The Wire Division and the Fire Alarm Branch have performed their duties in a proper manner.

Yours very respectfully,

William J. Casey,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

THE WHITE MEMORIAL.

Mayor Curley announces the Park and Art Commissioners have agreed upon the selection of Daniel C. French as sculptor of the memorial designated in the will of the late George R. White, who left the city the annual income of $5,000,000 to be expended for improvements of a special nature for the benefit of the people of Boston.

The Mayor states the memorial will take some artistic form, not a monument in the strict sense, and will be located in the Public Garden. It is to cost $50,000, which money was provided separately in the bequest.

Mayor Curley also states that, before approval he submitted the plan to Mrs Harriet J. Bradbury, sister of Mr. White, who lives on Commonwealth avenue, and that she gave hearty assent to the proposal.

MAYOR PREVENTS LABOR BREACH.

Mayor Curley, in a vigorous effort to prevent a serious breach between employers and employees in the building industry in Boston, addressed a communication to John Walsh, secretary of the Building Trades Employees, and to Albert Johnson, secretary of the Building Trades, under date of the 8th instant.

The communication of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
May 8, 1922.

Dear Sir,—The applications for permits for building and repair work during the month of April were the largest in the history of Boston since prior to the World War, and the indications are that permits for building construction and the repair of buildings will be greater during the remainder of the present year than in any one of the past eight years.

Under the circumstances it is highly desirable that amicable relations continue between employer and employee, and wherever possible strikes should be avoided.

My attention has been directed to the fact that there is a possibility of a breach between the members of the Painters' Union, and which might involve all building trades, and the master builders and employers.

It is much easier to adjust a difficulty of this character prior to the declaration of a strike than after bitterness and ill-feeling has been engendered.

I have accordingly taken the liberty to extend an invitation to both sides to attend a conference at the office of the Mayor, School street, City Hall, at 4 p. m. today, Monday, the 8th instant, and I am desirous that you, in the interests of the public, who are not affiliated with either side but who suffer most from disputes of this character, attend the same.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

Mayor Curley held a joint conference with representatives of the Building Trades Employers' Association and the United Building Trades' Council, and succeeded in preventing an immediate break in negotiations which were being conducted in an attempt to settle labor conditions in the building industry.

The Board of Councilors of the Employers' Association was ready to issue an announcement that all negotiations were off and that all construction work in this district would hereafter be done under open-shop conditions, when Mayor Curley prevailed on the employers to take no action pending a decision from the international officers of the Painters' Union on the demands of the local men for a forty-hour work week.

Following the decision the Board of Councillors ordered all members of the Building Trades Employers' Association to maintain the forty-four hour week.

The Board also ordered that any man in the trade who will not work Saturday mornings at the regular rate will be considered as striking and is not to be further employed by members of the association.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FRANKLIN FOUNDATION.

The annual meeting of the Franklin Foundation was held May 8, at the office of President Nathan Matthews, 1134 Tremont Building, Boston.

The following officers were re-elected:

President, Hon. Nathan Matthews; vice-president, Hon. John A. Sullivan; secretary, Rev. Charles E. Park, D.D.; treasurer, James J. Storrow.

The Executive Committee was appointed by President Matthews, consisting of Doctor Park and Everett Morss, to serve with the president, vice president and treasurer.

The annual report was submitted by Walter B. Russell, director:

Fourteenth Annual Report of the Director.

Boston, May 8, 1922.

The Franklin Foundation, Boston, Mass.:

Gentlemen,—In accordance with Article III. of the By-Laws, I beg leave to submit the following report:

Retraining the Physically Handicapped.

During the past three years Franklin Union day instruction has been almost entirely devoted to the rehabilitation of the physically handicapped. From all sources, fourteen hundred and eighty-five (1,485) disabled men have been in training, with assignments averaging about twelve months each. The objective has been the placement of the men in vocations equipped with sufficient skill and intelligence to earn their own living independent of further assistance.

Many Men Made Self-Supporting.

The results of this work in general are most encouraging. As time elapses, the benefits of retraining are increasingly evident in many cases of success and advancement. It may be said that the chief handicap has been caused by the industrial depression which has made it difficult for industry to provide openings as soon as the men were ready to fill them. There are naturally some men who would have been failures under any conditions and whose original lack of purpose or brains is not improved by injury in war or in industry. No possible retraining can benefit such, and fortunately they are soon discovered. There are also others where the physical handicap is too great to overcome, where mental troubles develop, or where recurring hospital treatment precludes the giving of time or strength to serious work. Here again the school is powerless. Wherever the school has had a real chance, progress has been made, often against heavy odds. Under the pressure of war conditions, education, like surgery, has permanently advanced. Among the most important of the resulting educational developments have been the highly specialized courses and methods devised to meet the present urgent and appealing calls for rehabilitation.

The Choice of a Vocation.

Experience at Franklin Union shows that the choice of vocation of a disabled man is often so limited that he is forced to retrain in that for which he has but indifferent preparation and aptitude and which under normal conditions he would never have chosen. There is also at first a lack of initiative, due to the fact that the applicant for training has not worked for a long period, because of continued sickness or inability to find work. As training proceeds initiative is revived, the mental attitude improves, and when the man at last gets to work the full return of confidence and self-reliance is most satisfactory.

Type of Instruction Required.

The educational treatment is the same as for adult students who are physically normal, except that more individual attention is necessary and more instructors are required than in trade and technical schools. It is not feasible to place these students in classes with children, as adults require a different method of instruction. In arithmetic an adult group will cover equal ground in one quarter the time required by children in primary grades. A spirit of optimism and hearty enthusiasm on the part of instructors is essential. Instructors must not express too much sympathy or allow sentiment to unduly influence their attitude toward trainees. The handicapped desire to be treated as though normal. The instructor should help them to forget and overcome limitations. The presence of the school physician for part of the day has a reassuring effect, particularly on the mental attitude, and reduces the number of hospital visits in cases still under medical care. In general, the day work at Franklin Union has clearly demonstrated that disabled adults can be successfully retrained to gainful occupations and can become self-supporting in competition with the able-bodied in industry. Moreover, the experience gained forms the basis for far-reaching possibilities for retraining those disabled in industrial accidents.

New Evening Courses.

The evening work for the year has been marked by the introduction of several new courses. One in acoustics for architects and builders was conducted by Dr. Hawley O. Taylor, recently of the Bureau of Standards, which for the first time makes available reliable information on this subject. A course in metallography in charge of Victor O. Homerberg was arranged in co-operation with the Boston Chapter of the American Society for Steel Treating. The new class in electric wiring has done most thorough and exacting work, and has been limited to adults, with preference given to electricians' helpers. A class was also inaugurated in January in building construction superintendence for men with the necessary practical experience as builders, carpenters or masons who intend to qualify for the various building licenses. These classes will be continued in September, with the addition of a laboratory course in wireless installation for office and home.

Registration.

Evening registration has followed somewhat closely the industrial depression and is below the average. A total of fifteen hundred and twenty-eight (1,528) different individuals have enrolled, with an average age of 26.9 years. A day registration of eight hundred and eighty (880) different individuals makes the total for the season twenty-four hundred and eight (2,408), made up of twenty-three hundred and ninety-five (2,395) men and thirteen (13) women. Since the opening of the building in 1908, over eighteen thousand and six hundred (18,600) different students have received training.

A Safe Investment.

Notwithstanding the good work done by public evening schools, the progressive correspondence and class instruction maintained by the Department of University Extension and the work of the various private and endowed schools, there remains in Boston a demand for specialized evening training along technical lines which is not met except by a school such as Franklin Union, provided with expensive laboratory equipment, properly qualified experts, and classes small enough in size to insure careful and intensive training. Such laboratory instruction means more to students than lectures. It costs money. Franklin Union is making a return for each dollar invested consistent with careful and exact teaching. The charge for evening instruction is limited to a nominal registration fee. The school is not spreading itself all over the educational field, yet there is training needed in Boston which falls within its special zone which Franklin Union can not undertake because of lack of funds. Its day trade courses, which also meet an adult need, are without endowment, and consequently require tuition fees much too high. The Franklin Foundation, in sole charge of Franklin Union, is incorporated to receive and administer bequests for the benefit of the school.

The Foundation, constituted as it is of the ministers of the oldest Episcopalian, Congregational and Presbyterian churches, the Mayor of the city, and eight "virtuous and benevolent citizens" appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court, forms a conservative and stable group which should inspire the confidence of donors who, like Franklin, wish to see their gifts useful "in forming and advancing other young men that may be serviceable to their country."

Respectfully submitted,

Walter B. Russell,
Director.

SERVICE OF LAW DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Curley has addressed the following congratulatory letter to Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, on the record of service that has recently attended the effort of the City Law Department:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
May 10, 1922.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan,
Corporation Counsel:

Dear Mr. Sullivan,—I beg to congratulate your department on the success it has had before the courts on various cases against the City of Boston that have recently come up for trial and disposition.

The decrease in the number of awards against the City of Boston is most gratifying.

The City of Boston has too long been a fruitful source of revenue for many who have never had a legal status in action brought against the City of Boston.

It is apparent that the policy originated a month ago of contesting in court every case against the city, with a view to ending the custom of allowing every individual who trips in his own home or elsewhere to bring a damage suit against the city by alleging that the accident occurred on a public highway or public property, is resulting most satisfactorily.

With best wishes for future success, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor

The following are a few of the cases that were successfully cared for with a great saving to the city for the month of April:

Two Superior Court cases were tried and verdicts were rendered for the city.

Five Superior Court cases were settled before trial for amounts aggregating $900, in one case an agreement for neither party was entered.

One Municipal Court case was tried and a finding was made for the city.

Five Land Court matters were adjusted.

In the claim division, fifty-seven claims were disposed of; seven were approved for sums aggregating $671.01; fifty were disapproved, including one riot claim.

In the Workmen's Compensation cases, compensation was paid in nine cases, aggregating $757.42. In twenty cases, the employee was not entitled to compensation. Three conferences were held before the Industrial Accident Board.

Trees or structures standing upon or affixed to the aforesaid described land shall be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said land for the purpose of constructing said improvement.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on the northeasterly side of Zamora street within a maximum depth of one hundred and ten feet, and on the southwesterly side of said street within a maximum depth of one hundred feet, will receive benefit or advantage, other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement herein ordered, each of the particular lots within said limits to the amount respectively set against it herein.

MEDICAL ADVISORY BOARD.

The first meeting of the Medical Advisory Board, appointed by his Honor, James M. Curley, met in the office of the Health Commissioner upon the 9th instant.

Those present at the meeting were Dr. F. X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner; Dr. John A. Ceconi, Epidemiologist, and Stephen L. Maloney, Department Secretary; Dr. Timothy Leary, Dr. F. P. Denney and Dr. Harry Linenthal, representing the Norfolk District Medical Society; Dr. Robert B. Osgood, Dr. Martin J. English and Dr. George C. Shattuck, representing the Suffolk District Medical Society; Dr. William H. Watters and Dr. Wesley T. Lee, representing the Massachusetts Homœopathic Hospital. Dr. Henry M. Pollack of the Massachusetts Homœopathic Hospital was out of town and unable to attend the meeting.

The Board was organized with the choice of Dr. F. X. Mahoney as chairman, and Stephen L. Maloney as secretary.

The meeting of the Board was opened by Chairman Mahoney with words of welcome. He stated that the Advisory Board was officially appointed by his Honor James M. Curley, to advise and co-operate with the Health Commissioner on request and in cases of emergency in medical matters, particularly in preventive medicine.

Doctor Mahoney prefaced the discussion by a request that the Medical Board bring to their respective societies the desire that all physicians co-operate with the Health Department in the prevention of disease. He stated that he had confidence in the phyysicians of the city and their ability to intelligently diagnose and combat any unusual outbreak of communicable disease.

Dr. John A. Ceconi, Epidemiologist in the Health Department, explained in detail the methods used in the Schick and toxin-antitoxin method for the control of diphtheria.

The Board then took up the advisability of indorsing the inauguration by the Health Department of this Schick and toxin-antitoxin method for the control of diphtheria, and after a lengthy discussion went on record as unanimously favoring the promotion of the tests in the City of Boston. It was agreed that the physicians in the city should be informed in detail, by means of descriptive and illustrative circulars and instructions as to the administration, reaction and efficiency of the test, especially in view of the successful results that have been shown in several of the large cities where the work is being carried on, particularly in New York City, where Dr. Zingher, alone, has already tested more than 160,000 children.

It was decided that clinics for demonstration of the application of this test and treatment will be conducted under the auspices of the Health Department at which physicians will be allowed to participate. It was the sense of opinion of the members of the Board that physicians in charge of baby clinics and at hospitals should take especial interest in this work, and that parents of children of pre-school age should be encouraged and urged by pediatricians to have the babies tested.

EMPLOYMENT FOR VETERANS.

Mayor Curley received from Henry C. McKenna, Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, upon the 6th instant, the following communication relative to the excellent results achieved by providing employment for veterans of the World War upon public works:

CITY OF BOSTON,
SOLDIERS' RELIEF DEPARTMENT,
May 6, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—East Boston tunnel work is aiding in molding self-reliant American citizenship through day labor work in place of contract basis as here set forth and in nearly every case veterans are receiving preference.

Complying with the direction contained in Circular Letter No. 3, March 13, 1922, there has been a further decrease in the number of original applications for relief, as indicated in the following table:

Month.	Number of Working Days.	Number of Original Applications.
February	23	452
March	27	411
April	24	316

Approximately 730 men on the rolls of the department have been dropped since March 1, for the reason that they have obtained employment, and the effect of this is shown by the fact that the draft for the regular April pay roll was $14,675 less than the draft for the March payments.

Pursuant to your direction, in compliance with the request of the City Council, the department is preparing to inaugurate a system of payments to the beneficiaries twice a month, instead of monthly, and it is expected that this system will be in operation this month.

The department has been in close cooperation with the Municipal Employment Office, and in this connection all able-bodied men drawing soldiers' relief are receiving requests from this department to place themselves upon the civil service list for appointment to positions in the municipal employ. Where it is found that the men are not on the civil service list, they are directed to come to the department here and file a civil service application.

Respectfully,

HENRY C. MCKENNA,
Soldiers' Relief Commissioner.

SALE OF BONDS.

City Treasurer John J. Curley has awarded $4,223,000 City of Boston 4 per cent bonds to R. L. Day & Co., Merrill, Oldham & Co., Estabrook & Co. and Harris, Forbes & Co., jointly, at 100.71 and interest.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 16.

It has been brought to my attention that two officers connected with the Traffic Division of this department have performed specially meritorious acts in stopping runaway horses in congested parts of the city, namely:

Patrolman Patrick F. Concannon, who stopped and subdued a fractious horse near the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets, and Patrolman Michael J. Kilgallon, who performed a similar service at the corner of Hanover and Washington streets, where he stopped a runaway horse attached to a loaded wagon.

In recognition of this service I hereby grant each one day's leave of absence from duty with pay, these days off to be arranged by their division commander.

I do this in the hope that such recognition may be a means of stimulating efficient and effective service on the part of all members of the department

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 24.

There has been brought to my attention by the commanding officer of Division 4, the following excellent and meritorious piece of police work:

Patrolman William J. O'Connell of Division 4, while patrolling his route early in the morning of May 5, had his suspicions aroused by the actions of a man who came out of the doorway of a building in Albany street with a large bundle on his shoulder, and placed the man under arrest, thereby preventing the theft of some eighteen thousand dollars' worth of silk which had been taken from the building.

As Patrolman O'Connell has not yet been in the police force two months, having been appointed March 21, 1922, his grasp of the situation and quick action exhibit exceptional ability and unusual understanding of his duty as a police officer which are highly commendable, and I take pleasure in showing my appreciation of his good work by granting him a day's leave of absence, to be added to the week's vacation, to which, as a new man, he is entitled by the rules of the department.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR BLIND AND CRIPPLED.

The Boston Blind and Crippled Union will hold a meeting in Myers Hall, Tremont Temple, Saturday, May 13, from 7 to 10 p. m., when they will entertain their members, friends and patrons.

The Mayor trusts that the good citizens of Boston will remember these afflicted persons on this occasion and by their attendance and sympathetic aid help to make conditions more tolerant for them, for certainly those "who live in darkness," cut off from the sunlight and beauty of the world, should not be forgotten by those blessed with more fortunate conditions. The Mayor appeals to Boston, always generous, to help to alleviate their conditions.

A PLEA TO PHYSICIANS TO CONTROL DIPHTHERIA.

By Francis X. Mahoney, Commissioner of Health.

Diphtheria is curable if treated with antitoxin and to some extent is controllable with proper isolation of the patient who is ill with the disease; the disinfection of the patient at the bedside, and the destruction by fire of all catarrhal discharges from the frank cases.

These are well understood factors in the cure and attempted control of the disease, but the teachings of preventive medicine aspire to more than this, namely, its complete eradication. It is only recently that any concerted effort to eradicate diphtheria has been made, and without the help and aid of physicians it will not be possible to obtain the sympathy and interest of the public necessary to insure success, because no medical or epidemiological measures in the prevention of disease will receive universal public support unless the attitude of medical men is favorable to their adoption.

The control of diphtheria is now an almost certainty and the methods in the control of this disease are rapidly becoming universal.

Since the seriousness of diphtheria has been recognized by the public, there is a growing interest in the malady, and in the efforts to suppress it. All great movements proceed slowly, and methods and measures change frequently before complete success is achieved, and if the recent history of the morbidity of diphtheria and of the ordinary means now in vogue to control the disease have taught us anything, it is that the disease cannot be eradicated so long as these methods alone prevail, neither can it be suppressed until better substitutes can be found; and so long as the public cannot maintain households suitable for the proper isolation of cases, and so long as adequate hospitalization cannot be provided for all such cases, just so long will diphtheria flourish.

The Boston Health Department, realizing this and also realizing that the problem is medical, and that the physician's scope is not only in the treatment of the disease, but also in its control and eradication, asks the medical profession to work hand in hand with the department to help blot out from our municipality the lurking enemy that has been with us so long—diphtheria.

The eradication and control of diphtheria is in the adoption of the Schick test and the subsequent immunizations with toxin-antitoxin. These constitute the implements that promise to stamp out diphtheria, as vaccination has smallpox.

It is the intention of the epidemiologist of the Boston Health Department, under whose direction the Schick and toxin-antitoxin immunizations will come, to conduct a municipal crusade by means of lectures, pamphlets, newspaper publicity and other forms of educational propaganda, and it is the opinion of the Health Commissioner that the great mass of people will be influenced to a greater degree by the opinions of their family physicians, and he requests your aid and assistance, knowing full well that just as individuals follow a successful leader, so do patients follow the lead of their physician, especially when the incentive is something for the benefit of themselves and their kin.

The control of diphtheria in other municipalities of our country by means of the Schick and toxin-antitoxin immunizations gives evidence of ultimate success, and it is safe to say that if a co-operative plan be established by the physicians of Boston and the Boston Health Department, diphtheria will become a scourge of the past.

Immunizing does give protection for a very brief period only. To be effectual for protection over a prolonged period, injections of antitoxin would have to be repeated every two weeks. This is utterly impractical, as a general method of immunizing children of any large municipality.

Antitoxin is of value when children of are known to be susceptible or who have not been tested as to susceptibility are in contact with a case of diphtheria, and immediate protection, even though of short duration, is desired.

This is a test for separating the susceptibles from the immunes in diphtheria. The technique of the Schick reaction, although very simple, must be carried out with the greatest accuracy or the results will be misleading. To carry out the test it is essential to have a good syringe with a sharp but short-pointed fine needle. The Vim outfit made by McGregor has been adopted by the Boston Health Department.

Outfits for Schick tests and toxin-antitoxin are prepared at the laboratory of the State Department of Health at Forest Hills, Mass. Full directions are contained in each outfit, together with minute directions for making the test and the differential reactions.

Recommendations.

(a.) Family physicians to Schick and immunize their patients.

(b.) The Health Department will Schick and immunize all children of preschool age that are referred by the family physician or parents.

(c.) Others may be immunized in school by application to Doctor Devine (in charge of medical inspection of schools).

(d.) There are at present three clinics for public testing and immunizations. Applications can be made to Doctor Place, South Department, Boston City Hospital; Doctor Sanborn, Vaccine Laboratory, Boston City Hospital; Doctor Hooker, Homœopathic Hospital, Harrison avenue.

(e.) All applications for Schick and immunizations to be performed by the Health Department should be made to Dr. John A. Ceconi, Epidemiologist, Health Department, City Hall Annex, Boston, Mass.

TRANSIT MEASURE OPPOSED.

Mayor Curley opposed the establishment of the Metropolitan Transit District and the appointment of a Metropolitan Transit Commission at the State House upon the 11th instant, when the Legislative Committee on Street Railways gave a hearing on the bill of Representative George L. Richards of Malden, calling for the unification of electrical transportation lines of Metropolitan Boston.

Mayor Curley said in part:

"This bill is important to the cities and towns outside of Boston, but is not vitally important to Boston. I oppose the bill because I believe it is founded upon a principle which is wrong, and which would work great injustice to the people of the City of Boston.

"The bill provides for the creation of a commission with extraordinary powers, in the exercise of which much harm may be done, but without giving the people of the district any voice in the constitution of the commission.

"There is no referendum to the people of the district, and in my opinion this omission is fatal. A bill containing such vast possibilities should not be rushed through in the closing days of the legislative session without at least giving the people of the different cities and towns opportunity to vote upon the acceptance of the measure.

"Before a transit district is created a Greater Boston should be created, vesting the power to deal with all questions of municipal government and with transportation as well in a single governing body elected by the people.

"I believe that the proper bill should include provision for the tearing down of the existing Elevated structures wherever they are located in the public streets of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge and Everett and the substitution of subways and tunnels therefor.

"To give to the Mayor of Boston power to appoint only one commissioner is consistent only wth the theory that the state holds the City of Boston in contempt, that the city has no rights which the state is bound to respect, and that the people of Boston should be treated, not as citizens, but as subjects having no capacity for government.

"I call the attention of the committee to the fact that the provisions for public control of the operation of the Boston Elevated Railway through trustees, which is provided by chapter 159 of the Special Acts of 1918, will be exercised with respect to new lines authorized by the District Transit Commission. This is provided by section 13 of the pending bill.

"The purpose is to extend control by these trustees over all the lines operated by the Elevated. This means that no relief in the way of lower fares can be expected, either on existing lines or on the new lines. In my opinion a district transit bill which gives such great opportunity to the Elevated Railway should be coupled with a provision for the modification of the contract which was created by the passage of the act of 1918, and its acceptance by the Elevated Company.

"If this is not done, I feel that the Boston Elevated Railway Company will acquire the right to have dividends guaranteed for all future time and will be entitled to a rate of fare to make the guaranty of such dividends effective."

MAYOR PLEADS FOR RETENTION OF NAVAL RESERVE OFFICERS.

The Mayor has addressed a letter to the Massachusetts Senators and sixteen Congressmen from this state in the National House asking for the retention in service of the United States Naval Reserve Officers. The letter is as follows:

Boston, May 11, 1922.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Senate, Washington, D. C.:

Dear Senator Lodge,—I have been waited on by representatives of the United States Naval Reserve officers, now in active service, and have been asked to present, for your earnest consideration, the circumstances which relate to the Naval Appropriation Bill for the coming fiscal year and whose terms are stated to result in serious prejudice to the welfare of the United States Naval Reserve Force, Navy Department.

The gist of the present situation, according to my advices, is as follows: These men, indvidually and collectively, have given most excellent service and no criticism has been offered as to their devotion to the cause of our navy.

I desire to call your especial attention to the fact that the auxiliary ships of the navy are noncombatant, engaged in carrying fuel, cargoes, stores and provisions for the maintenance of the fleet and between stations of the navy, and that these vessels have been officered by members of the Reserve whose training and activities have been, more or less, in harmony with the service provided by Merchant Marine steamships, and who are particularly adapted, by extended experience, to perform this kind of duty.

The Naval Appropriation Bill for the coming fiscal year will provide, as now presented for the consideration of the Federal Congress, insufficient appropriations to provide for the maintenance of the United States Naval Reserve Force who are upon active duty, and it has been stated that it is the intention of the Navy Department to assign to these auxiliary vessels officers who are graduates of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The purpose of this legislation is exceedingly unfair and highly prejudicial to the United States Naval Reserve Force officers, many of whom have given the best years of their lives to the welfare of the naval service, and further, I call to your particular attention that this radical amendment to naval procedure incurs a waste of highly trained personnel.

A graduate of the Naval Academy is essentially, by training and habit, a military officer, and the placing of such men upon noncombatant cargo ships would naturally put them out of touch with those duties of military character for which they have received a special training and would be highly detrimental to their careers.

I desire to call to your particular attention the fact that the auxiliary ships of the United States Navy have always been manned, in the years that are past, by noncombatant officers.

I sincerely trust that after careful review and consideration you may feel constrained to support the amendment to the Naval Appropriation bill now pending, which will provide for the retention in the active service of the United States Navy of approximately 160 Naval Reserve officers now upon active duty.

In behalf of these men I desire to further call your especial attention to the fact that during the World War these men gave splendid efforts and are entitled to promotion in the navy rather than to be penalized by the proposed removal from service which they have splendidly honored.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR TO HONOR MOTHERS' DAY.

Mayor Curley has directed that Mother's Day may have an extended observance in Boston upon the 14th instant by the appropriate placing of potted plants and flowers from the city conservatories in the hospitals where are confined disabled veterans of the World War and also at the hospital and quarters at Long Island.

The Mayor addressed a communication to Chairman James B. Shea of the Park Department which was as follows:

Mr. James B. Shea, Chairman, Park Department, 33 Beacon street, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—The observance of Mothers' Day is listed for Sunday, May 14, 1922, and the recognition of this memorable event is becoming wider with each passing year.

I will be grateful if you will kindly make immediate arrangement that an appropriate display of potted plants and such flowers as are available from the conservatories of the city be made at the hospitals where soldiers, sailors and marines are patients, and which were carefully listed upon the observance of Easter.

Will you also kindly see that there is an appropriate display made at Long Island, and especially in the rooms occupied as living quarters and hospitals by those who have been mothers?

Very truly yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

Trusting you will find it possible to accept of this invitation, which carries with it the hospitality and good wishes of the entire people of Boston, I beg to remain,

SAFETY FOR CHILDREN.

The first of a series of educational motion picture exhibitions, designed to protect, from accident and death, the children of Boston, were furnished at the Dorchester High School and at the Sarah Greenwood School in Dorchester, Saturday, May 13, at 9.30 a. m.

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson detailed two traffic officers to give five-minute talks upon traffic signals to the children.

Through the Censor Bureau of the Mayor's office, arrangements were made to provide a humorous film, and through the courtesy of one of the local insurance companies, arrangements were made to provide two safety films.

These meetings will be continued during the remainder of the school season on Saturdays and it is hoped that before vacation time arrives every pupil below the high school grades will have opportunity to attend and receive instruction as to how to avoid accidents.

BIDS FOR PRINTING.

Mayor Curley instructed Superintendent William J. Casey of the Printing Department to arrange a conference with Governor Cox, upon the 6th instant, in so far that the City of Boston may have opportunity to bid for the state printing.

The communication of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
May 6, 1922.

Maj. William J. Casey, Superintendent, Printing Plant, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Mr. Casey,—The Commonwealth having terminated its contract with Wright & Potter Company are now or will shortly be in the market for a long-term contract for state printing. The City Boston being the only municipality in the entire state which conducts its own printing plant should, in view of the fact that Boston pays a very large percentage of the state costs of administration, be afforded an opportunity to compete on suih printing as may be required by the Commonwealth.

You are accordingly directed to communicate with his Excellency the Governor and request the privilege of submitting bids hereafter on such work as the Commonwealth may from time require.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

EXCHANGE IN RIGHTS OF LAND, MARINE PARK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 8, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I transmit, for the second time, an order which authorizes an exchange of rights in flats and lands adjacent to Marine Park, South Boston district, and owned partially by the Commonwealth and partially by the City of Boston, which lands and flats are fully described in said order.

The Commonwealth has filled a portion of this land for commercial use and, in the event of favorable action by the Boston City Council on this order, the Public Works Department of the Commonwealth will be enabled to further develop the Port of Boston in addition to adding a considerable amount of taxable realty.

The Public Works Department of the Commonwealth has agreed, in the event of the city government approving this request, to dredge Pleasure bay to a depth satisfactory to the Park Commission.

The submission of this order today marks the third presentation of the same to your honorable body, once under my predecessor in 1921 and a more recent submission by myself.

I beg to state that, while it is desirable that every facility be afforded for recreation by the public, the most contributory factor to participation in pleasure or health-giving recreation is employment, and without employment it is exceedingly difficult to indulge in or enjoy recreation of any character.

The adoption of this order entails no expense to the City of Boston and may result in the establishment here of new industries that are necessary to the public welfare.

Under the circumstances I trust your honorable body will act favorably upon this proposition.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Whereas, The City of Boston by deeds from the executor of and trustee under the will of Benjamin Adams, dated April 30, 1883, recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Lib. 1595, pages 395 and 396, acquired titles to certain lands, beach and flats on Q street, now Farragut road, in the South Boston district, extending easterly and northerly to low water mark, "to be used for the purpose of a public park," and the said city by a taking recorded with said deeds, Lib. 1597, page 591, took the said land, beach and flats "as and for a public park," and

Whereas, The Board of Park Commissioners of the City of Boston by the three following acts was authorized to make such excavations and filling and erect and maintain such structures in and over the area of tide water at or near Dorchester Point as the Board may deem necessary or desirable for the purposes of a public park: Chapter 360 of the Acts of 1885, covering the area which lies southerly of the northerly line of East First street extended easterly to Castle Island and east of the westerly line of Q street, extending southerly into Old Harbor; chapter 427, section 1, of the Acts of 1887, covering the area which lies south of a line drawn parallel to and three hundred (300) feet northerly from the northerly line of East First street extended easterly to Castle Island and easterly of the westerly line of Q street, extended northerly to an intersection with said parallel line and southerly into Old Harbor; and chapter 438 of the Acts of 1889, covering the area which lies east of the westerly line of Q street and extending southerly into Old Harbor and northerly to the southerly line of the Reserve channel as established by the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners under chapter 46 of the Resolves of 1886, and south of said southerly line of the said Reserve channel; section 2 of said chapter 438 provides that "all lands of the Commonwealth which are occupied or enclosed under the provisions of this act shall be appropriated to and used solely for the purposes of a public park", and

Whereas, The location of the Reserve channel as established under chapter 46 of the Resolves of 1886 was changed under the authority of chapter 90, Resolves of 1911, leaving a large area of land belonging to the Commonwealth lying between the two locations of the southerly line of the channel adjacent to the said land, beach and flats owned by the City of Boston for a public park, and whereas in order to furnish approaches to, and properly develop this area it is necessary to use a portion of the said land, beach and flats which the city owns and was authorized to occupy for a public park; and

Whereas, By agreement between the Department of Public Works of the said Commonwealth and the Mayor and Park and Recreation Commissioners of the City of Boston, the Commonwealth in connection with the filling of the area lying between the old and new locations of the southerly line of the Reserve channel has in addition filled a portion of the flats adjacent to the land of the City of Boston used for a public park with the understanding that a portion of such area should be transferred to the Commonwealth in order to provide proper facilities for reaching and developing the land of the Commonwealth which has been filled; and, further, that the Commonwealth release any interest it may have in and to all land, beach and flats lying between Marine Park and Castle Island and extending southerly from the northerly side of the existing bridge that connects City Point with the said island; and that the Commonwealth agree to perform certain acts in regard to the filling of those flats and making a beach running into Pleasure bay, and in regard tp the location and construction of a street one hundred feet wide, and to restrict a certain area.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 748 of the Acts of 1911, to convey to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts all the rights, title and interest which the City of Boston has in and to the land and flats on the easterly side of Farragut road in the South Boston district, containing approximately forty-nine thousand and eight hundred (49,800) square feet of solid land, and three hundred eighty-seven thousand and one hundred eighty-three (387,183) square feet of flats to be devoted to commercial purposes, and forty-one thousand (41,000) square feet of solid land and one hundred and forty-eight thousand eight hundred seventy (148,870) square feet of flats over which the Commonwealth is to construct a street or way to be used in part for commercial purposes, all as shown on a plan made by Henry C. Mildram, real estate engineer, dated February 14, 1921, in exchange for conveyance by the said Commonwealth of all its rights, title and interest in and to the lands and flats lying between Marine Park, as now filled, and Castle Island, and extending from the southerly line of the said land and flats to be released to the Commonwealth southerly into Old Harbor, and the agreement by the Commonwealth that it will complete the filling of the flats from the southerly line of the flats to be released to it to the southerly side of the existing bridge that connects City Point with said island, the material dredged from the harbor making a beach sloping from the southerly side of the said bridge southerly into Pleasure bay, the beach being made at such slope as the material will naturally assume when placed by a hydraulic dredge; the said Commonwealth further agrees never to erect any building or buildings on the land or flats owned by it lying between Castle Island and the red line shown on said plan and marked "Restriction line, beyond which on the east side no buildings are to be erected," and within a reasonable time to locate and construct a street or way one hundred feet wide within the premises to be released to it and along the southerly line thereof extending from East First street easterly to a line riparian ownership, using a strip twenty-three (23) feet wide for the location of two standard gauged railroad tracks to be used for commercial purposes, with branches leading into the areas on the northerly side of said street, the Commonwealth to pave and regulate the portion of said street northerly of the said twenty-three foot strip, and agree that the city reserve the right to develop that portion of said street south of the said strip for park purposes.

Both conveyances and agreements referred to in this order are to be in form satisfactory to the Law Department.

COST OF VIADUCT ACROSS BOSTON & ALBANY RAILROAD.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a statement from the Commissioner of Public Works which is a reply to your request of March 27 relative to the cost of building a viaduct from Huntington avenue, corner of Exeter street, across the yard of the Boston & Albany Railroad to either the corner of Fairfield street or of Gloucester street.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
May 2, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Attached herewith is the order of the City Council requesting an estimate of the cost of building a viaduct from Huntington avenue, at the corner of Exeter street, across the yard of the Boston & Albany Railroad, to either the corner of Fairfield street or of Gloucester street.

The estimates assume that the land damages and the damages to the railroad company are equal to one half the assessed value of the area over which the viaduct goes.

The estimated cost of the viaduct to the corner of Fairfield street is $900,000. This will require either a very sharp grade up from Boylston street to avoid excessive land damages on that street, which would appear to be prohibitive, or else changing the grade of Boylston street, or making a less sharp inclination, providing a less steep grade of about 5 per cent in order to give 18-foot headroom over the tracks, which is absolutely required. The railroad officials desire a 22-foot clearance. This is practically out of the question for this viaduct, as a great many of the tracks will either be wiped out or relocated.

The estimated cost of the viaduct to Gloucester street is $1,350,000. This would not require such a long gradient, and fewer of the tracks of the railroad would be destroyed on this account.

For either viaduct, in order to make room for the supporting posts, many of the tracks would have to be taken out and the tracks of practically the whole yard relocated, which expense might also be charged against the city in addition to the damages accruing to the railroad for the location of a viaduct over its property.

Yours respectfully,
J. A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Arrangements having been made for the observance of Memorial Sunday on May 21 and May 28, I sincerely trust that your Council, in its wisdom, will consider favorably the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City of Boston extend, through Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, First Corps Area, an invitation to have the 5th Regular Infantry, U. S. A., participate in the Memorial Sunday services Sunday, May 21, and Sunday, May 28, 1922, at Boston, as the guests of the City of Boston.

Passed under a suspension of the rule, yeas 8, nays 0.

BLEACHER SEATS, SULLIVAN SQUARE PLAYGROUND.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That the Park and Recreation Department, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to furnish additional bleacher seats on the Sullivan Square Playground.

Coun. FORD.—Mr. President, I ask for a suspension of the rule on that order. I want to make it an official record, as the chairman of the Park Commissioners has promised to put additional seats on the Sullivan Square Playground. He has promised he would spend the necessary money for that purpose.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

PRICE OF ANTHRACITE COAL.

Coun. FORD offered the following:

Whereas, There has existed in the City of Boston for a number of years among the coal dealers of the City of Boston a fixed price per ton for anthracite coal, now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Boston City Council requests that the Fuel Commissioner for our Commonwealth investigate the causes and reasons for the existence of this situation.

The question came on the passage of the preamble and resolution.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, a long time ago, probably three or four years ago, when the Federal Fuel Commission was appointed and we had local fuel commissioners, I said that there was in the City of Boston a combination to control the price of anthracite coal. I pointed out at that time that there was a fixed price based upon $9.50 per ton, which was the price before the war and which was taken by the Fuel Commission as the basis, the minimum, which was added to during the war, the first increase being 25 cents, and from that point the price of coal being increased step by step until it reached $16 per ton. The price now stays at $15.50 per ton for anthracite coal. At no time was there any increase that was not uniform among all the dealers. In other words, when the price was increased by the Metropolitan Coal Company, it was increased by every other dealer, large or small, in the City of Boston, the same amount. It is because of a similar situation that the people of the city of Boston realize that the gasolene trust is in existence. In other words, when the price of gasolene is raised, whether by the Texaco Company, the Jenney Company, or the Standard Oil Company, the so-called Socony Company, there is a uniform increase made all along the line by all the subsidiary companies at the same time and for the same amount. A child, Mr. President, would know that when that condition exists, there is an understanding or agreement to control the price. Gentlemen, anything that affects the price of coal affects the price of an important necessity of life here in this community. Some time ago, when the Fuel Commission in this Commonwealth was about to go out of existence, I sat down and wondered whether or not that Fuel Commission was doing good work for the people of the Commonwealth. I wondered, Mr. President, whether or not the present Commission on the Necessaries of Life was trying to do something that would help the people. Why should we not wonder, Mr. President, when we realize that in Washington at the present time no effort is ever made to find out why there is a combination of anthracite coal operators in the state of Pennsylvania. As you know, all our anthracite coal comes from Pennsylvania, and when there is an increase of price per ton at the mines, the increase is uniform, showing that there is a combination, a trust, if you will, of coal dealers in Pennsylvania, who control the price of coal per ton. It is an odd statement to make, and one to be marveled at, that the United States government never has found out the basis for these costs. A long time ago, back in 1918, when I was in this body, I asked the Federal Fuel Commissioner to submit to the City Council of the City of Boston the overhead cost of the coal dealers—that is, their operating costs—in order to find out whether the price per ton they were charging was justified. Of course, as you know, Mr. President, they did not dare to submit those figures to the City Council. I offered at that time to go to the expense of putting a public accountant or accountants upon their books to find out why it was that a uniform price was charged. Of course, I did not get the information. All I found out was that the smaller dealers did not dare to give me any information because if they did their supply would be shut off. The Metropolitan Coal Company control a large portion of the coal coming into the City of Boston. In Washington at the present time, where they are making such a bungle of all national affairs, including about everything, they admit that there has never been in existence a commission that would find out absolutely what were the operating costs of the operators in Pennsylvania; and now, in order to appease the public if they can, with the strike on, the committee reports back a bill that has taken its name from one of the Congressmen, the bill now known as the Bland bill, which the papers are beginning to discuss, and in a news item I find a quotation verbatim from the report of the committee, as follows:

"It is a startling statement, but true, nevertheless, that today there is no agency in the federal government which has ascertained or can ascertain the correct production costs of a ton of coal in a well operated, efficient mine. Operators have ostensibly refused to give the committee their cost of production, and it is fair to presume that such reports as were made voluntarily to existing government agencies who did not have the right to examine books were padded and unreliable."

That is an exact quotation from the report of the committee reporting the Bland bill, which, of course, may or may not be virile legislation. There is some question as to whether or not there will be difficulty in Congress passing an act to compel these operators to disclose their operating costs. This commission is going to find out the facts, if it can, but I understand that it will take at least two years for the commission to make any kind of intelligent report, and the strike is now on. Whether or not these men give the miners their full due and pay them their proper wages, we are going to find any increase in cost reflected more than 100 per cent—and probably more than 100 per cent—in the price of coal at the mine. As you well know, we cannot do very much here to find out what the cost per ton at the mine is. Washington is bungling that situation; there is no question of doubt about that. Washington does not even want us to find out that there is a coal combine in Pennsylvania, any more than it wants us to find out that the inflated and swollen interests control the terms of the present Fordney tariff act, that disgraceful bill that they are now trying at Washington to force upon the public. But locally we are going to get this information, if this commission up here at the State House will do the work cut out for it. I have suggested in the past four years to every investigating body I could think of—the United States District Attorney, the Attorney General, and the District Attorney of Suffolk County,—the investigation of the coal combination in the City of Boston, without success, Mr. President. When they investigated the fish trust it was a most momentous undertaking, because its affairs were so interwoven but it did not take them long to find out that there was a combination there. And here we find that prices of coal have been fixed for the last dozen years, within our experience, and yet there has been no investigation to find out whether or not there exists in Boston a combination. Mr. President, this means something. I had this very matter in mind when I asked that this Commission on Necessaries of Life be continued, so that it might do the work that I am going to ask it to do now. They put some teeth into the act creating that commission—which is chapter 325 of the Acts of 1921. I am going to quote from section 3 of that act:

"The commission shall have authority to give hearings, to administer oaths, to require the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books and documents and other papers, and to employ counsel. Witness summonses may be issued by any member of the commission and shall be served in the same manner as summonses for witnesses in criminal cases issued on behalf of the Commonwealth, and all provisions of law relative to summonses issued in such cases shall apply to summonses issued under this act so far as they are applicable. Any justice of the Supreme Judicial Court or of the Superior Court may, upon application of the commission, compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of testimony before the commission in the same manner and to the same extent as before the said courts."

Mr. President, that section of the act under which the commission was created has teeth in it. This commission can bring these people up there and make them disclose their figures and show their books, and it will not take long for that commission, if it does the work and does it properly, to find out that in the City of Boston a coal combine prevails. It must be so, with this fixed price for so many years, and it will not take long for the commission to show the facts to the satisfaction of the people. This agitation at the present time is timely, Mr. President, because, as surely as the sun will set tonight, unless we do something there will be nothing done. Washington is not doing it. The strike is on, and nothing is being done to prevent it. There is no investigation having in view the ending of the strike at all. No light is coming from the federal government to aid the people. It is here in Massachusetts and in New York that we are chiefly interested, and we are not going to be gouged any longer, if we can help it, by the coal operators in Pennsylvania, and then, when the coal gets here to the City of Boston, being gouged by this combination of coal dealers that exists in the City of Boston. Let this commission go to work. It has here a good job confronting it. Instead of issuing statements about their activities in various directions which do not interest the people to a great degree, let the commission spend the next month or two months, if necessary, in finding out what the people want to know—whether or not there is this combine, because every householder in the City of Boston protests against the price charged for coal in recent years, when in 1907, 1910, and thereabouts, all we paid for coal was $7.50 per ton. If it is necessary to suspend the rule, I ask for a suspension in order that the preambles and resolutions may be placed upon their passage now. If there is any objection I am perfectly willing that the matter should be referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am in hearty sympathy with the suggestions made by the gentleman who has just taken his seat concerning some action looking to an investigation of what I consider to be deliberate extortion on the part of the coal dealers not only of Boston but of the whole country. I believe, as he believes, that a combination exists. But I cannot help remarking at this time, when I think back a week or two, that it is rather strange that the gentleman put in an order to continue in office the present gentleman, Mr. Hultman, as Commissioner of Necessaries of Life, especially when he reads from the act passed by the Legislature in 1921, showing that there were some teeth put into the act at that time. A whole year has passed, a year and four months, and yet this man Hultman has apparently never made a move to bring about a reduction in the price of coal, if possible, or to find out if such a combination exists. I did not know that such an act was in effect and that it had such teeth in it or, if it was in effect, that it had been in effect since January, 1921. For the past sixteen months this man Hultman has been Commissioner of Necessaries of Life.

Coun. FORD—May I interrupt the gentleman?

Coun. WATSON—Yes, sir.

Coun. FORD—I did not know it myself, not having seen the act in the Acts and Resolves until the report of the Special Commission on Necessaries of Life was printed, about a month ago.

Coun. WATSON—Well, then, some of us have not been on the job. I think Hultman certainly has not been on the job. If there is an act on the statute books that gives him the power that I judge he has under this act, then I say there must be something to my suspicions that he is not unkindly toward the coal magnates of Boston. What is the reason for it? That act has teeth in it. I am no lawyer, but even I can understand common English. He apparently has all the power necessary. Now the question is, is he the proper person to do what that act calls for? I assume that he has the power under the act. Perhaps Coun. Ford can answer that question for me

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, it says here that the commission shall have authority to give hearings and to employ counsel. So I suppose, if he has the power to employ counsel, that means that he can hire the necessary legal help.

Coun. WATSON—Well, my guess is that he has spent the appropriation. That is another one of the things that the Legislature does—passes legislation full of loopholes, legislation with jokers in it, something to confuse the public mind, so that they will think that they are getting something when they are getting nothing. I have been affected by the coal prices in Boston as much as any other member of the body, and I am not here speaking in opposition to a resolution offered by the gentleman opposite. But let us go further. There must be some legislation on the books that prohibits conspiracy, such as we think exists but cannot prove. The person to investigate this is the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, and if he is as keen on getting rich crooks as smaller ones, he ought to stir himself in the matter. I should like to ask the gentleman to agree to submit this, instead of to the Commissioner on the Necessaries of Life, to the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth. I would suggest that the resolution be remolded so that it will mean something, because if Hultman has gone a year and four months without attempting to change conditions, in spite of the fact that he has this power, he is unfit to continue in the office; and if he has not had the power to do anything, his office ought to be abolished, because it is worthless. To be frank with you, I am suspicious in this matter. Therefore, Mr. President, in order that we may do something here today, following out the wishes of the member opposite, and doing something that will benefit the public, instead of merely passing an empty resolution, I trust that we will amend the resolution as I suggest. Let us not pass a resolution that will mean nothing. If the man at the helm is not desirous of doing something, then we ought to go to work and pass a resolution with teeth in it. Therefore, I would like to have this go to the Executive Committee for consideration.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I would simply say in reply to Coun. Watson that I don't think we ought to substitute "Attorney-General" for "Fuel Commissioner," for several reasons. I do not know, and the councilor opposite does not know, whether this commission will do the work, but I am going to find out. I don't know whether that commission has been appointed to bluff the public or not, but I am going to find out. As far as Mr. Hultman is concerned, I don't know the gentleman's past history. I understand that the gentleman opposite (Coun. Watson) does know something of his past history. But I am going to find out whether that Commission on Necessaries of Life can and will do something in this matter. I am not going to say that it was appointed in order to simply appease the people, but when they see the conditions obtaining at Washington in the matter of the coal trust the people are beginning to wonder whether or not the tentacles of that trust, like those of an octopus, are wrapped around us here in the City of Boston, winding around the necks of all of us. We will find out, first, whether the commission has power to furnish the facts. Let us first ascertain that, and then, if we feel it necessary later to call upon the Attorney-General to move in the matter we can do that. If I find out that the Commission on Necessaries of Life will not do the work, I will then put it up to somebody else pretty cold. But I want to find out, have it made clear, whether the Commission on Necessaries of Life is subject to the will of the public, whether it is on the level, and whether it will give us the facts we desire. I admit that that is my express purpose in introducing the resolution, and I wish to have it stand in the exact form in which I have introduced it.

Coun. WATSON—I would like to ask the gentleman opposite his opinion of the Commissioner he refers to, when he knows that this act has been on the statute books since January, 1921, sixteen months ago, and not a move has been made? What is his opinion of the commissioner, having that in mind?

Coun. FORD—I don't want to give that opinion. But if this commissioner, when the matter has been brought to his attention, under this act which has been in existence for sixteen months, will not act, I want to find that out. That is just what I am doing now. Let us find out whether he will act; let us find out whether Hultman is a servant of the people or a servant of the Republican interests and wound up with the financial interests. There is no question of doubt today that Washington is held in the vice-like grip of special financial interests. Let us find out promptly whether we are in such a grip, too, and if that is so we have tremendous problems to solve.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, as long as we have both made our campaign speeches, I am perfectly willing to have it go to the Executive Committee and to have it threshed out there.

The preamble and resolution were referred to the Executive Committee.

EQUIPMENT OF BUILDINGS FOR VETERANS.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the trustees of the George R. White Fund be requested to consider the advisability of providing sufficient money from said fund to properly equip for occupancy such public buildings as are now occupied publicly by patriotic bodies of Boston.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, what does that order mean?

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I am entirely willing to have the order referred to the Executive Committee.

(The order was read, at the request of Coun. Moriarty.)

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, who is going to give the definition of "patriotic bodies?"

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I am entirely willing to have a substitute order considered before the Executive Committee. The import of the order I have offered is this, that we here in Boston have been patriotic in the past and will always continue to be patriotic. Following along that line, we have allowed to be occupied in various parts of the city certain buildings by various veterans' organizations. But they merely have the shell of the buildings, and the purpose of this order is to see if we could not get some money to enable the veterans to fit up the buildings they have secured. I thought possibly that order might be considered as suggesting a purpose that would properly come within the intention of the George R. White Fund. I feel certain that sufficient money for the purpose is not available from our ordinary sources of income at the present time. It seems to me that the purposes that this man White had in mind might well be carried out by something along this line. For that reason I have introduced the order. If agreeable to the members, I am entirely willing to discuss it in Executive Committee.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I have no objection if the words "veterans' organizations" are put in, but I read a bill that was passed in the Legislature the other day providing that armories in the state might be opened to certain organizations such as, naming one, the Chamber of Commerce. On the question of whether that is a patriotic organization I may disagree with somebody. There may be some members of this body with whom I would disagree in regard to the Chamber of Commerce. But if the words "veterans' organizations" are put in the order I would be satisfied to vote for it.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I am entirely satisfied to substitute those words "veteran organizations" for the words "patriotic bodies."

The order was amended by striking out the words "patriotic bodies" and inserting in place thereof the words "veteran organizations," and as amended was referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.05 p. m., on motion of Coun. WALSH, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 5.30 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. FORD, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred today) for sale, after due advertisement, of old materials—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) that the Commissioner of Public Works be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $5.000 for ice for drinking fountains during the summer season—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

3. Report on order (referred today) that the trustees of the George R. White Fund be requested to equip for occupancy such public buildings now occupied by veteran organizations—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

4. Report on preamble and resolution (referred today) as to the cause of the fixed price for anthracite coal among the coal dealers of Boston—that the preamble and order ought to pass.

Coun. WATSON offered the following as an amendment to the order reported by the committee.

Ordered, that the District Attorney of Suffolk County be requested to ascertain whether or not the coal dealers of Boston are in a conspiracy to fix the prices relating to anthracite coal.

The question came on the adoption of the amendment.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I want to say that I, being the author of the original order, am going to vote "no" on this amendment, but I do not want to be understood by doing so as indicating that I don't want the District Attorney to investigate the coal situation. He knows all about it, and can investigate the matter. But I want the commissioner dealing with the fuel situation for the state to examine into the matter. If Coun. Watson introduces a separate order along the line of his amendment, I will, of course, vote for that. But I don't want to have the teeth taken out of my order by a substitute. If the suggested amendment is introduced as a separate proposition, I will vote for it, but I don't want to have my order mutilated. The gentleman can himself introduce it as a separate order. I said in committee meeting that I did not care if he wished to introduce a separate order to have the District Attorney look into this matter. But I do not want my order passed as I have introduced it. I think the people should know whether the State Commissioner is for the people or against them.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to have both orders passed at the same time.

Coun. FORD—Well, Mr. President, I am not rowing the gentleman's boat. I say, as a matter of record, that I am not against the District Attorney looking into the situation, but I am against having my order amended so that the Commissioner on Necessaries of Life will not look into the situation.

Coun. WATSON—Well, Mr. President, I want my substitute motion acted upon at this time. If it fails of passage as an amendment, I will introduce it again independently, immediately afterwards.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I will say that I am in favor of both motions and will vote for both if I am given an opportunity to do so.

Coun. Watson's motion to substitute his order for the order reported by the committee was lost, yeas 4, nays 5:

Yeas—Coun. Donoghue, Hagan, Lane, Watson—4.

Nays—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Gilbody, Moriarty, Walsh—5.

The order as reported by the committee was passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the District Attorney of Suffolk County be requested to ascertain whether or not the coal dealers of Boston are in a conspiracy to fix prices relating to anthracite coal.

The order was passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

5. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for invitation to have the 5th Regular Infantry, U. S. A., participate in the Memorial Sunday services, May 21 and May 28—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

6. Report on petition of James H. Brennan et al. (referred April 24) for disapproval of granting gasolene permit at Beach street, Charlestown—recommending the passage of the following, viz.:

Ordered, That the granting of a permit to the Charlestown Storage and Warehouse Company for keeping of oil and gasolene at 55 and 56 Beach street, Charlestown, be and the same is hereby disapproved.

Report accepted; order passed.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business, Nos. 1 and 2, viz.:

1. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor May 1, 1922, of the following-named persons to be Constables: Leo Carroll, Abraham Greenside, Alfred Ray Mitchell and John P. Shepard.

2. Action on appointment submitted by the Mayor May 1, 1922, of Patrick J. Kellard to be a Weigher of Goods.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Moriarty and Donoghue. Whole number of ballots cast 9, yeas 9, and the appointments were confirmed.

RELEASE OF CITY LAND.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business, No. 3, viz.:

3. Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city and for a nominal consideration to release and quit-claim unto the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston, a corporation sole, all the right, title and interest of the city, if any it has, in and to the fee and soil of a private way called Gately street, leading easterly from Samoset street in the Dorchester district of said city, and in and to the sewer in said Gately street, which sewer was built in or about the year 1900 by and at the expense of Edward Gately and was released by him to the city by an unrecorded instrument dated and acknowledged August 15, 1900, and on file in the office of the Commissioner of Public Works of said city.

On April 24, 1922, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The order was given its final reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

ACTION ON CONSTABLES' APPOINTMENTS.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business, No. 4, viz.:

4. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor April 17, of the following-named persons to be Constables: Powhatan Bagnall, Carleton N. Baker, Thomas Cannizarro, Frank I. Cohen, James B. Cushing, Achille Forte, Rosario H. Gagnon, Lionel De Jersey Greene, Harry Jaffe, Joseph F. Meroth, Michael W. Ober, John S. H. Petit, George Ramacorti, Julius Rosenblum, Warren F. Russell, Frank Shaw, Thomas Spinelli, Harry Van Dam.

The question came on confirmation of the Mayor's appointments.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I move that we postpone action for one week on the name of Harry Van Dam, in order to give me an opportunity to present evidence that I have that he sent out a communication assessing for a special notice an additional $2 for the collection of a poll tax. I don't know what alibi he will offer when I show him the evidence, but I have it and I will produce it.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I would also like to have postponed action on the names of Mr. Powhatan Bagnall, Mr. Frank I. Cohen, Mr. James B. Cushing, and Mr. Frank Shaw. If I have forgotten anybody who is in the employ of detective agencies, I hope some of the rest of the members will hold them up.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I think we ought to vote on this proposition today, with the exception of the name specified by Coun. Donoghue. We can vote "Yes" or "No," but I think we ought to take some action. We cannot get any more information than we already have, and I think we ought to vote today.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I don't think it is fair to pick out a name that one member of the Council wishes to have action postponed on and not give any other member the same opportunity. Coun. Watson does not know what is in my mind, if he does know what is in Coun. Donoghue's mind. He has not talked to me in regard to the matter. If he has talked to Coun. Donoghue and knows what his thought is, he certainly has not talked to me and does not know what my thought is. I feel that I should have an opportunity to have these names go over for a week, in order to look further into the cases that I have asked to have held up. Of course, if that courtesy is not to be granted me, that is up to the Council.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have no desire to be discourteous to the member opposite. I realize his position in regard to the constables. He will not vote favorably for a single constable, whether there is merit in the particular case or otherwise. I realize that, and he has said so. That is why I think we might just as well vote today. I believe he will vote "No" anyway, and that is the reason why I think the action I suggest is proper. But if the Council thinks right to give further time on the names Coun. Moriarty has suggested, until next Monday, I have no objection. He will, however, vote 'No," of course, next Monday. He has told us that.

Coun. MORIARTY—I have not said, Mr. President, that I will not vote for any that have merit, but I haven't found one coming before us that has any merit, not one single one. Why, Shaw has lied here today, and he lied here a week ago today. Bagnall lied a week ago today and lied today. I think it is a disgrace for any member of the Council to vote for the likes of them, either one of them. As for Cohen, why, he is so crooked that he could lie on a corkscrew. He told you that he had been a copper all his life, that he had always done work of that kind. If that is the kind of people who are going to be appointed to go out to our citizens in this way, and we are going to vote to confirm them, then they ought to send some of us back to private life. Shaw said he was only joking in his statements here. I am serious. If he cannot be serious he ought to be sent to private life and not be given the privilege of wearing a constable's badge, carrying a gun and a club, because he has not the right temperament to carry them. I think if some little boy ran up to him coming from the dances where he said he carried a gun he might shoot him. Everybody believes that this man Bagnall paid for part of the office of Harry Van Dam. He said so here last week, as Coun. Watson and every other member of the Council know, and then Van Dam comes in here and says he does not pay anything, and Bagnall then says that he was paying for the work in City Hall. There were no words used in regard to City Hall in the conference before the Executive Committee last week. I feel that those men should be held up, and I request that they be held up.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am perfectly willing that they should be held up until doomsday, but I feel sure that our action on these constables will be just the same a week from today as it will be today. I don't defend the constables. I am going to vote against some of them here today. But there are men of merit among them. I don't believe in voting against a man because he tells the truth and voting to confirm others who are lying. We all know that there is not a constable in Boston, whether he is paid by the county or not, who isn't a detective from the moment he gets his commission. What is the use of bluffing ourselves? They have to be detectives, more or less, in that line of business, and I agree with Coun. Moriarty that it is a pretty cheap line of business to be in. I wouldn't be in it for all the money they get out of it. I say that, in my opinion, it is a mighty cheap job. I feel the same about policemen, but they are necessary evils. What is the use of talking—we have to have them. I am not defending them. Other members feel as I do, but they are keeping their feelings down here and I am speaking out. Coun. Moriarty has frankly told us that he intends to vote against confirmation of practically everybody on the list. He will not give them another chance, putting them on trial. Well, he undoubtedly means what he says, and I mean what I say, but what is the use of talking? They are a poor lot, at best. When a man comes out and says frankly, "Yes, I have done detective work and I will do it no more," that man ought to meet with our approval, in a way, rather than the man who is not frank about the matter. Coun. Ford is a lawyer and has occasion to employ constables, and I believe he will bear out what I say, that the moment a man becomes a constable he becomes a detective.

Coun. FORD—No, I don't know about the detective business.

Coun. WATSON—Oh, come out and be frank about it.

Coun. FORD—I am.

Coun. WATSON—No, there is nothing frank about you except your name, and that is an accident. I know, and you know, that, of course, every single constable is a detective, and some lawyers are. But I am perfectly willing to let this matter go over for another week. But they are all detectives, Coun. Moriarty.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I disagree with the councilor on the other side when he says that they are a necessary evil. It is not necessary to have one constable in the City of Boston, Coun. Watson. When Shaw stood up there and told you that he carried a lot of money, why, a constable is not allowed by law to serve a writ for over $300. So far as any money that he has collected through the use of his commission was concerned, he would only have $300, anyway, if he made one collection. Now, we have a sheriff's office, with men there who are paid by the county. They are under the control of the county, and let us have those men do the serving of summonses, the serving of writs and the serving of tax levies, if the city so desires. If that is not desired, let some of the people who have been talking unemployment put men into the collector's office, over whom we will have absolute control, to help bring in the taxes. I am not against the collection of taxes but against the methods. This is a crowd of skunks, in my estimation, and there is nothing, I believe, too strong to call the whole of them. When we are told that these constables are a necessary evil, they absolutely are not a necessary evil. If Van Dam didn't want to collect some of this money, and did not want to scare unfortunates, he would not want a constable's commission. I realize that politically I am driving 100 or 150 men in the city absolutely against me, but I am satisfied to take that position. When you said that I was prepared to vote against the whole of them, yes, I am prepared to vote against every individual who has come here asking to be appointed a constable to serve civil process. I am willing to vote for all those appointed by the city to do the work for the city. But as for those working for lawyers, the lawyers wouldn't hire them except that they can get them a little cheaper than they would be able to have men sent out from the sheriff's office. It would cost them a little bit more if they had men sent out from there. So far as saving money is concerned, we are saving money for the attorneys of Boston, whereas the sheriff's office would serve the papers just as well, and better in most instances, and we would thereby stop this carrying of a three-pound club or a one-pound club, such as Shaw carried, or a gun, by irresponsible people like Shaw.

The Council voted to postpone for one week action on the names of Powhatan Bagnall, Frank I. Cohen, James B. Cushing, Frank Shaw and Harry Van Dam.

The question came on confirmation of the remaining names. Committee—Coun. Moriarty and Walsh. Whole number of ballots cast, 8, yeas 7, nays 1, and the appointments were confirmed.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

INCORPORATION OF BOSTON.

Boston was incorporated as a city February 23, 1822, this being the date when the Act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature. On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz. Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. Charter again revised in 1885 and amended in 1909.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

Public Works Department (Sewer Service).

Upon May 15 the Mayor approved a contract with Joseph P. McCabe for sewerage works in B and Seventh streets, overflow extension, South Boston. Bids for the work, opened May 10, were as follows:

Joseph P. McCabe, $27,052; C. & R. Construction Company, $28,051; William Barrett & Co., $29,635; M. H. Loonie, $30,980; James J. Coughlin, $33,223; Primo Balboni, $41,775; J. F. McCarthy, $34,907; V. Barletta, $34,131.

Public Works Department (Sewerage Works).

Upon May 17 the Mayor approved a contract with the William Barrett Company for sewerage works in Farragut road extension, South Boston. Bids for the work, opened May 11, were as follows:

William Barrett Company, $23,925; V. Barletta, $27,425; S. J. Tomasello, $29,175; C. and R. Construction Company, $29,615; P. Balboni, $34,065; James J. Coughlin, $34,575; James J. Conway, $34,775.

Incident to awarding this contract, Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department, made the following statement:

"The low bidder, William Barrett Company, omitted to fill in the item calling for the minimum wage per hour to be paid laborers. The second bidder was not a citizen when his proposal was made. The third bid was $29,175—$5,250 above the lowest bidder.

On two contracts recently awarded the Barrett Company—one on Hyde Park avenue for sewer and the other on Beacon street for water pipe—their bid on labor was 50 cents per hour, and it seems as though the omission of this item on the above bid should not prevent the award of the contract, particularly as it is $3,500 less than the bid of the non-citizen and $5,250 less than the first bid complying entirely with our proposal requirements.

It is therefore recommended that this contract be given to William Barrett Company, the low bidder."

Upon May 19 the Mayor approved a contract with Timothy Coughlin for sewerage works in Beverly street, from Causeway street about 339 feet northwesterly, city proper. Bids for the work, opened May 15, were as follows:

Timothy Coughlin, $5,688.60; Michael H. Loonie, $6,431.97; C. & R. Construction Company, $6,744.40; James J. Conway, $7,649.

Public Works Department (Water Service).

Upon May 19 the Mayor approved a contract with the C. & R. Construction Company for laying high pressure fire pipes in Pearl street, city proper, from Milk street to Franklin street. Bids for the work, opened May 15, were as follows:

L. DeSisto & Co., $3,393; A. Cefalo, $3,504; C. & R. Construction Company, $4,649.90; Primo Balboni, $5,660.50; DeStefano Brothers, Inc., $6,039.25.

A communication of Division Engineer McInnes was as follows:

Boston, May 16, 1922.

To the Commissioner of Public Works:

I return herewith canvass of bids for laying high pressure fire pipe in Pearl street, and respectfully recommend the award be made to C. & R. Construction Company; the bid of this company is $1,236.90 above that of L. DeSisto & Co., the lowest bidder, the bid of A. Cefalo ($3,504) being informal on account of the omission in his bid of one item.

The reason for above recommendation is that the C. & R. Construction Company is better equipped to push the work, in a proper manner, through to completion in the thirty days called for in the contract. Mr. T. R. Russo of this firm has laid (or has been closely connected with the laying) approximately 90 per cent of the 11.6 miles of the high pressure fire pipe now in use and the company have at their command the equipment and the experienced men necessary to lay the pipe, test it and complete the work with a minimum inconvenience to the public in the short time called for.

They finished last year a contract, for which they were the lowest bidder, for laying 10,000 linear feet high pressure fire pipe in different streets; applying the prices on the 1920 contract to their present bid would give a total of $4,745 or approximately $100 more than their present bid; it must be remembered that the work to be done consists of 350 feet of pipe only, with a difficult and expensive crossing at Franklin street, while their previous contract was for 10,000 linear feet.

The other two low bidders have had no previous experience in laying high pressure fire pipe and it would not appear to be the part of wisdom to afford them their first experience in this short and pressing piece of work.

Engineer's estimate for this work is $4,500.

Very respectfully,

F. A. McInnes,
Division Engineer.

May 15, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I respectfully ask permission to enter into a contract for repairs to Eastern Avenue Wharf, without advertising, on account of the dangerous condition of the planking.

Recently an automobile broke through and we were obliged to order the big gate closed and to advise the teamsters to carry supplies to the boat through the small gate.

W. H. Ellis & Son Company, approximately $2,630; John P. Cavanaugh Company (without chafing pieces), $2,820; Lawler Brothers, approximately, $2,950; W. S. Rendle Company, approximately, $4,754.

I would recommend that the contract be awarded to W. H. Ellis & Son Company, the lowest bidder, who is about to complete repairs to wharf at Deer Island and could undertake the work at once.

Very truly yours,
David J. Johnson,
Commissioner.

Upon May 15 the Mayor approved a contract with the Lombard Granite Corporation for the delivery of 16,000 lineal feet of granite edgestone. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

City of Boston,
Supply Department, May 10, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Under date of July 12, 1920, an award of a contract was made to the Lombard Granite Corporation, covering 30,000 lineal feet of granite edgestone for the Public Works Department, Paving Service, at $1.90 per lineal foot. This was the lowest bid received at that time.

The contractor commenced deliveries immediately upon receipt of an order from this department dated July 14, 1920, and ceased delivery on September 2, 1920, in accordance with a request made by this office.

Up to the time of the request to cease deliveries 14,000 lineal feet of edgestone had been delivered. The Lombard Granite Corporation made a claim against the city covering the 16,000 lineal feet undelivered under the contract, and the matter has been in conference since July 25, 1921, with the result that the Lombard Granite Corporation agrees to deliver 16,000 lineal feet of edgestone on the street for $1.50 per foot as against the bid price of $1.90 per lineal foot delivered on the Public Works Department Wharf. The Law Department was consulted in this matter and it was suggested that the best course would be to terminate and cancel all previous contracts and enter into a new contract with the Lombard Granite Corporation for 16,000 lineal feet of granite edgestone at a price of $1.50 per lineal foot delivered on the street and I therefore request authority to enter into contract and purchase, without advertising, the edgestone mentioned above.

Respectfully yours,

Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

Upon May 17 the Mayor approved a contract with the American-LaFrance Fire Engine Company for supplying motor apparatus to the Boston Fire Department. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

City of Boston,

Above apparatus is to be built in accordance with Boston Fire Department specifications. I make this recommendation in harmony with the policy of the Fire Department and the Supply Department to standardize, as far as possible, all supplies and equipment used by the City of Boston. The American-LaFrance Fire Engine Company, Inc., apparatus has been thoroughly tried out and tested by the Fire Department, and have stood their test better than any other make of fire apparatus.

Trusting that the permission requested will be granted, I am,

Yours respectfully,

Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

The Mayor has approved the request of Commissioner Rourke of the Public Works Department for construction of a sanitary sewer of 1-foot 6-inch by 1-foot 6-inch concrete and one catch basin, in Beverly street (southwesterly side), between Causeway street and a point 339 feet northwesterly, in the city proper district, and at an estimated cost of $7,846.

MAYOR PROTESTS RULING.

Mayor Curley issued a ringing statement, under date of Thursday, 18th instant, in answer to an opinion presented by Attorney General J. Weston Allen to the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives, and in which the Attorney General held that the Public Control Act cannot be repealed or amended by the State, and that neither the Legislature nor the courts has the right to inquire into the motives of the men who put the Boston Elevated Railway act upon the statute books.

"I cannot believe that the opinion of the Attorney General will be accepted as the last word on the question of the validity of the Public Control Act of 1918. I am not a lawyer and therefore cannot say with any authority that the Attorney General's opinion is not law, but I am certain it is not justice.

"The people of Massachusetts must feel great anxiety concerning the institutions under which they live if it is true that a statute secured by fraud and corruption cannot successfully be attacked. It is quite as important to society that laws be passed by honest methods as that the laws themselves be sound. An uncorrupted Legislature is as important as a sound code of laws. If the Legislature by corrupt methods can make laws which are good in their practical effect, so also can they by corrupt methods make laws which are bad in their practical effect.

"Compare the law with a stream flowing through a defiled channel. The stream will be defiled by the channel. Can a law pass through a defiled legislative channel without becoming itself defiled? To my legally untutored mind, it cannot.

"If the law is as the Attorney General states then the law should be changed at once. Provision should be made so that the court could set the law aside when passed by methods so corrupt as to shock the public conscience. A contract may be set aside for fraud. A conveyance of property can be set aside for fraud. Why should a legislative act be permitted to stand when it is procured by fraud? Public acts of the Legislature are at least as important as private contracts and conveyances. Why not protect the public against fraudulent legislative acts?

"No question is settled until it is settled right. The Act of Union was procured by fraud. The act stood, but the consequences were more than one hundred years of bloodshed and violence due to corruption and fraud which procured the passage of the act.

"The Dred Scott decision which held, as the late Senator Hoar said, that the black man had no rights which a white man was bound to respect, did not settle the slavery question. The people felt the decision violated the fundamental principles of right and justice, and the Civil War and the 13th Amendment to the Federal Constitution settled the slavery question right.

"Mr. Sheman L. Whipple is in New York. When he returns I shall confer with him respecting the opinion of the Attorney General.

"I trust that some way will be found to test the validity of the Public Control Act; that is, to determine whether an act tainted by fraud is as good as one not so tainted, but if no way can be found then the Legislature should act so as to provide a remedy against legislation which has been procured by fraud and corruption, and act before the present session prorogues."

The opinion of Attorney General J. Weston Allen was as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
BOSTON, May 15, 1922.

Committee on Rules, House of Representatives.

GENTLEMEN,—You request my opinion upon the following question:

> If a contract be made by a statute which is within the constitutional power of the Legislature, is there any tribunal which has power to hear and determine whether such contract was procured by fraud, bribery or undue influence and to set such contract aside if such fraud, bribery or undue influence be established?

I am informed that this question, though general in form, relates to the so-called Boston Elevated Act, Spec. St. 1918, c. 159. It divides naturally into two parts: First, as to the power to investigate; second, as to the power to set an act aside for the reasons named.

1. There can be no question that the Legislature has power to investigate the conduct of its own members in respect to legislation. In re Chapman, 166 U. S. 661. The Legislature conducted such an investigation last year to ascertain the circumstances under which Spec. St. 1918, c. 159, was passed. The record of that investigation was referred by the Legislature to the then District Attorney for the Suffolk District. I assume that that record is still in the office of the District Attorney and that it is available to the Legislature. If in any respect the Legislature should deem that investigation to be incomplete, I perceive no obstacle either to reopening it or to instituting a new one.

2. In Boston v. Treasurer and Receiver General, 237 Mass. 403, the Supreme Judicial Court held that Spec. St. 1918, c. 159, created a contract and that said act was constitutional. Where a contract is made by an act which is within the constitutional power of the Legislature the question whether such contract can be set aside upon the ground of legislative corruption has been several times considered by the Supreme Court of the United States. By reason of Article I, section 10, of the Federal Constitution, which forbids any state to impair the obligation of contracts, the decisions of that court constitute the ultimate and binding authority upon the second branch of your inquiry.

In Fletcher v. Peck, 6 Cranch, 87 (1810), the Legislature of Georgia, by an act within its constitutional authority, contracted to sell certain public lands, which were sold and granted pursuant to said act. Subsequently the Legislature of Georgia repealed said act upon the ground that it was procured by legislative fraud and corruption. In holding that the repealing act impaired the obligation of the contract previously made, and therefore was unconstitutional, the Supreme Court said, by Chief Justice Marshall, at p. 132:

> That corruption should find its way into the governments of our infant republics, and contaminate the very source of legislation, or that impure motives should contribute to the passage of a law, or the formation of a legislative contract, are circumstances most deeply to be deplored. How far a court of justice would, in any case, be competent, on proceedings instituted by the State itself, to vacate a contract thus formed, and to annul rights acquired, under that contract, by third persons having no notice of the improper means by which it was obtained, is a question which the court would approach with much circumspection. It may well be doubted how far the validity of a law depends upon the motives of its framers, and how far the particular inducements, operating on members of the supreme sovereign power of a State, to the formation of a contract by that power, are examinable in a court of justice. If the principle be conceded, that an act of the supreme sovereign power might be declared null by a court, in consequence of the means which procured it, still would there be much difficulty in saying to what extent those means must be applied to produce this effect. Must it be direct corruption, or would it interest or undue influence of any kind be sufficient? Must the vitiating cause operate on a majority, or on what number of the members? Would the act be null, whatever might be the wish of the nation, or would its obligation or nullity depend upon the public sentiment?
> If the majority of the legislature be corrupted, it may well be doubted, whether it be within the province of the judiciary to control their conduct, and, if less than a majority act from impure motives, the principle by which judicial interference would be regulated, is not clearly discerned.

The circumstances under which both the original and the repealing acts were passed by the Georgia Legislature, as described in Beveridge's Life of Marshall, Vol. III, c. X, set in high relief the decision in Fletcher v. Peck. That description is too long to quote and must be briefly summarized. A previous bill, in which a majority of Georgia's lawmaking body was financially interested, which was passed, to use Beveridge's own words, amid "a saturnalia of corruption," had been vetoed by the governor. (pp. 546–549) A new bill, which disposed of more than thirty million acres of fertile, well-watered and well-wooded land to four corporations, at less than one and a half cents an acre, was introduced as a supplement to a law just enacted to pay the state troops. Again every possible influence was brought to bear to pass this bill with the utmost despatch. Some members who would not support it were induced to leave the capital; others who were recalcitrant were browbeaten and bullied. One senator actually menaced, with a loaded riding whip, members who objected to the scheme. In little more than a week the bill was rushed through both houses, and this time received the reluctant approval of the governor on January 7, 1795. (pp. 549, 550) It later came out "that every member of the legislature who had voted for the measure except one had shares of stock in the prchasing companies." (p. 561)

The tidings of the corruption which attended the sale were swiftly carried over the state. Indignation meetings were held in every hamlet. Crowds marched on the capital determined to lynch their legislative betrayers, whose lives were saved either by the pleadings of those who had voted against the bill or by flight. (pp. 559–560) Nearly every man elected to the new legislature was pledged to vote for the undoing of the fraud in any manner that might seem the most effective. (p. 561) The repealing act declared the former statute null and void and "annulled" all claims directly or indirectly arising therefrom. (p. 563) The Legislature further enacted that all records, documents and deeds connected with the fraud be expunged, and that the "usurped act" be publicly burnt. (p. 564) This was done, with elaborate ceremonies, in front of the State House and in the presence of both branches of the Legislature. (p. 565)

It is perhaps not without interest that the decision in Fletcher v. Peck was anticipated by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts by some eleven years.

In Derby v. Blake, decided in 1799, which was a case involving a subsequent sale of some of the Georgia lands, and of which a fragmentary report is reprinted in 226 Mass. 618, that court, in holding unconstitutional the Repealing Act of Georgia, said, in substance:

> It was also decidedly the opinion of the Court, that the bargain with J. and Williamson, had not been legally affected by the Repealing Act of Georgia—That Act they considered a mere nullity —as a flagrant, outrageous violation of the first and fundamental principles of social compacts. The idea of a Legislature reclaiming property they had once sold, and had been paid for, was said by the Court to be not less preposterous, than for an individual to repeal his own note of hand, or to render void by his own act and determination, any contract, however sacred or solemn. The vociferations of the Georgia Legislature, who were the very granters of the property in question, about fraud and circumvention, could not be admitted in a Judiciary of Massachusetts, as evidence of the real existence of such facts—Whether the original grant of the Georgia Legislature were valid or not, was considered by the Court a cause of judicial, and not of legislative cognizance. The Repealing Act of Georgia was moreover declared void, because it was considered directly repugnant to Article 1st, Sec. 10, of the United States Constitution, which provides that "no State shall pass any ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the obligation of contracts."—On this ground, the Court expressed a clear and decided opinion, that the title of the State of Georgia, at the time of their grant, held to the territory in dispute, had been fairly and legally conveyed to the purchasers under J. and Williamson.

Although the question as to the effect of legislative corruption arose in Fletcher v. Peck, in a suit between private individuals, the broad rule laid down in that case has been affirmed and reaffirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States without any qualification as to the manner in which the question is presented. Ex parte McArdle, 7 Wall. 506, 514; Doyle v. Continental Ins. Co., 94 U. S. 535, 541; Soon Hing v. Crowley, 113 U. S. 703, 710; Amy v. Watertown, 130 U. S. 301, 319; United States v. Des Moines, 142 U. S. 510, 545; United States v. Old Settlers, 148 U. S. 427, 463; Angle v. Chicago, St. Paul, &c., Ry., 151 U. S. 1, 17–19; New Orleans v. Warner, 175 U. S. 120, 145; Calder v. Michigan, 218 U. S. 591, 598. In Soon Hing v. Crowley, 113 U. S. 703, 710, the court said:

> And the rule is general with reference to the enactments of all legislative bodies that the courts cannot inquire into the motives of the legislators in passing them, except as they may be disclosed on the face of the acts, or inferrible from their operation, considered with reference to the condition of the country and existing legislation. The motives of the legislators, considered as the purposes they had in view, will always be presumed to be to accomplish that which follows as the natural and reasonable effect of their enactments. Their motives, considered as the moral inducements for their votes, will vary with the different members of the legislative body. The diverse character of such motives, and the impossibility of penetrating into the hearts of men and ascertaining the truth, precludes all such inquiries as impracticable and futile.

In Angle v. Chicago, St. Paul, &c., Ry., 151 U. S. 1, 18, the court, after quoting from Fletcher v. Peck, said:

> The rule upon which this decision rests has been followed in many cases and has become a settled rule of our jurisprudence. The rule, briefly stated, is that whenever an act of the legislature is challenged in court the inquiry is limited to the question of power, and does not extend to the matter of expediency, the motives of the legislators, or the reasons which were spread before them to induce the passage of the act. This principle rests upon the independence of the legislature as one of the co-ordinate departments of the government. It would not be seemly for either of the three departments to be instituting an inquiry as to whether another acted wisely, intelligently, or corruptly.

In New Orleans v. Warner, 175 U. S. 120, 145, the court said, before proceeding to quote from Fletcher v. Peck:

> It may be that the city made a bad bargain. It may be that it paid far more than the fair value of the property and claims purchased. It may be that the action of the common council was dictated by improper considerations, though this is rather hinted at than asserted; but from the case of Fletcher v. Peck, 6 Cranch, 87, 130, to the present time we have uniformly refused to inquire into the motives of legislative bodies.

In Calder v. Michigan, supra, the state was a party to the proceeding, but the rule was reaffirmed none the less. The same is true of Lynn v. Polk, 8 Lea (Tenn.), 121, and State v. Terra Haute, etc., R.R., 166 Ind. 580, in each of which the court declined to investigate whether the action of the Legislature was procured by corrupt means.

The question in the last analysis turns upon the scope of the judicial power. As to that, the ultimate authority is the courts of this Commonwealth (see Bill of Rights, art. XXX; Boston v. Chelsea, 212 Mass. 127; Dinan v. Swig, 223 Mass. 516), subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States as to any question arising under the Federal Constitution. The decisions of the latter court, to which your attention has been directed, seem to be conclusive as to the power of the court to set aside a statute upon the ground of corruption practised by or upon a Legislature. If, in the face of these decisions, any person desires to put that question to the test of judicial determination again, the courts are always open.

Yours very truly,

J. Weston Allen,
Attorney General.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT REPORT.

A report has been submitted of activities of the Institutions Department for the period from March 31, 1922, to and including May 6, 1922.

Dr. David J. Johnson, Commissioner of Institutions, City Hall Annex, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—Upon my arrival at the Suffolk County House of Correction at Deer Island on March 21, 1922, to take up my duties as master I was introduced to the officials of the institution by Deputy Commissioner Driscoll and the then acting commissioner, Dr. John F. O'Brien. Mr. Driscoll spoke to the officers and gave them a good heart to heart talk after which I was introduced. I spoke to the officials and told them what I expected mostly and what I intended to receive, "co-operation." Without this, I told them, nothing could be done, but with it a great deal could be accomplished for the officials as well as for the inmates, which would bring commendation from the commissioners, the Mayor and the public.

My inspection, which lasted for a few days, brought to my mind many things. The institution is ideally located and in a spot where there should be no excuse for not having the best penal institution in the country. The population, which I understand, had originally been around 1,200 or 1,500, was at the time of my coming here down to 356. The so-called "Men's Old Prison" was being used and the fine up-to-date sanitary so-called "Women's Prison" in disuse. I noticed that most of the men received at this institution were poor unfortunates, lacking self-control and certainly pitiable sights. I was obliged, when I looked at the inmates, to look back at my own experiences as a prisoner of war during the Great Boer War and it tells me continually that although I must handle the institution on a strictly business basis, with the thought always in mind of discipline, that I must never forget the humanitarian side of the problem.

The receiving house at the wharf which is used by visitors on Thursdays of each week was in very poor shape and I have had this room repainted to make it not only cheerful but sanitary and lightsome. This room has been painted a light yellow color with dark trimmings, all windows were washed, brass was polished, notices and pictures were framed and frames stained and floor oiled and I am proud to say that our visiting room is second to none in any institution in the country.

The cells and the walls in the prison now occupied had never been put in proper shape before it had been occupied and it was necessary to scrape the old whitewash from the cells and walls in this building and repaint them. A great deal of this work has been done and more is being done to make the cell block more cheery, much more sanitary and much lighter. About sixty cells have been treated in this manner in addition to the walls of the cell block. As the work progresses the prison is gradually acquiring a much better appearance. The scrapings from these walls have been thrown on our farm land and make very good fertilizer.

A good many windows in the building throughout the island were broken and in very poor shape. I have had about five hundred lights of glass set in the different buildings, but there is much yet to be done which will take time and labor.

The room which leads from the pool and recreation room has been painted and made to look decently. Rev. Mr. Stokes' room has been painted two coats and now makes a very nice room for him. The inmates' kitchen has been painted two coats and the floor oiled. The effect of this work on our kitchen is surprising. It has tended to give it a brighter and more sanitary appearance. In the inmates' mess hall the flooring which has been in a very poor state has been repainted and oiled. The receiving room office at the wharf has been painted two coats, the windows have been washed, the brass polished and the floor and railings oiled and varnished. The two light "Gut" boats which have been used for the summer months have been scraped, calked and painted two coats. The same has been done for the two lifeboats for the steamer "Monitor." One flower box and two telephone stands for the Boston office have been painted and refinished.

I found that the cemetery here at the island was in a deplorable condition. The gate was broken down and the cattle had trampled all over the graves and had broken down all the crosses. I have had the graves reloamed, the gate and fences repaired and thirty new crosses made. The crosses have been painted white and lettered in black with the deceased's name and the date of death. The fence has been whitewashed, the use of whitewash I believe just as serviceable and less expensive. This was done also because of the enormous amount of paint that would be needed for this work. These improvements have put an entirely different aspect on the cemetery and have made those who should be interested assume a more serious and respectful attitude toward this resting place of the poor unfortunates.

The wooden fence around the cow barn yard was in a dilapidated condition. This has been torn down and I now have under construction a two-rail iron pipe fence which when painted will not only make a good appearance but will add to the safety of the cows who were in constant danger of stepping off the wall which was at least three and a half feet above the level of the street.

The old school buildings, which were in a terrible condition and very unsightly, have been razed, the material sorted, cleaned, bricks scraped and saved for future use as building material or repairs. The lumber has been carted to a point at the lower end of the island and is being sawed up and piled. The cow barn yard fence is to be extended around to the front of this building, affording a larger space for our herd of cattle to roam in the outdoors.

The lighting facilities I found to be inadequate especially on the water front, globes were broken, equipment torn down and not replaced. The Gut and the wharf were very poorly lighted. I have had the wharf relighted and additional lights installed and at the Gut I have had installed several flare lights which throw a gleam all over the stream. The lights around the island have been put into proper shape and increased.

I found junk strewn carelessly all over the island. Hundreds of rusty iron beds left here by the Immigration authorities were laying near the so-called "Men's Prison Barracks B," junk of all varieties thrown here and there, hundreds of bags in the house at the wharf causing an easy fire trap. I have had all the junk collected and piled in one central point, the bags have been destroyed, the beds piled up and the island given a thorough policing. I have established one central point for the discarding of junk.

The roads which were covered and packed with cinders have been scraped, redrained and resurfaced with stone and gravel secured from the water front and from the government side. There is still much room for improvement on the roads but I believe that in a very short time I will have these roads so that they will remain in good condition in inclement weather as well as fair weather.

The roofs of all buildings have been examined and repaired and new flues and chimneys installed where needed. The bath house and summer house have been repaired and painted.

The cesspools throughout the island, which from appearances have not been cleaned for years, are now being cleaned and will keep our drainage in proper state, rather than having stagnant rain water remain for weeks around the island until the warm weather eliminates it.

A new guard house outside the inmates' recreation yard is now under construction and is the type of the one at use in the Army Base in South Boston. I am having this placed in a position where the yard officer is obliged to see everybody who enters or leaves the yard. The foundation for this guard house is now complete. Whitewash lines have been painted in the yard for formation of the inmates.

Our wharf which is being built by W. H. Ellis Company, outside contractors, is rapidly nearing completion and I feel that it will be finished within two weeks.

An old house in disuse on the government side has been moved to the Gut point, rebuilt, repainted, a new flue installed and windows set.

The extractors in our laundry are electric driven and have been in use for the last twelve years. These have been continually going out of commission and have been a constant source of worry and unnecessary expense. I have had one of the extractors which was out of commission converted into a shaft-driven pulley angle shaft extractor. The machine was converted by an outside firm but the installation was performed by our own force. The installation was so arranged as to take care of anticipated conversion of the other two extractors in the same way, when they run out of order. This system of converting these extractors will save considerable trouble, waste of labor, unnecessary expense and continual cause of worry. We will have then when all three extractors are converted an efficient operating laundry which will not be costing $90 to $100 per month on repairs of worn-out machinery.

I have changed the system of formation for meals. The inmates line up in the yard and are sent to the tables in single file which not only relieve congestion but terminates mob policies. In inclement weather the line is formed in the inmates' recreation hall.

A system of certification of prisoners has been installed at this institution. Every detail of men is now accounted for and men receipted for both on leaving the yard and returning to the yard, by the officers in charge of the detail and the yard officer to whom the details of men are returned.

These signed slips are turned over to the Master's office every night.

A recreation period of one full hour is given to the inmates of this institution every day after dinner in order that they may have one full hour in the good fresh air. This is very much appreciated by the inmate body as heretofore they were only receiving in the neighborhood of fifteen minutes' outdoor air after dinner.

The tobacco ration for inmates engaged in laborious work has been re-established. This eliminates the lunch question and I believe it is not only more suitable to the inmate body but it stimulates them to greater effort. I find by this it is much cheaper and also saves labor time in consuming lunches. In addition to this ration, one five-cent package of stud tobacco and one penny box of matches is given to each inmate of the institution once a week.

Movies have been held every Thursday of each week. The show is started about 6.30 p. m. and lasts approximately two hours. Between pictures vaudeville entertainment is provided for the inmates by their own brother inmates. On the night of April 20 a talented party of about 20 entertained the inmates of this Institution. The entertainment was of the highest order and was certainly appreciated by all. We were honored that evening with the presence of Dr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Driscoll and friends.

On the night of April 27 at the moving picture show we had an explosion of five reels of film of which you have received a special report. Through the extreme kindness of Mr. James F. Burke of the Moving Picture Operators Union and Mr. Everett Ryan, of the Department of Public Safety the machine and the booth were fixed and we were again able to have our show on the night of May 4. The night of the accident and fire to the booth absolute system prevailed. The inmates were filed to their cells and through loyal co-operation much serious trouble was averted.

Ball games for inmates are held every Saturday afternoon. Baseball bats, baseballs and gloves have been purchased for this purpose. On Wednesday April 19 the inmates played ball in the morning and afternoon and had a most enjoyable day. On Sunday the yard privilege is given both in the morning and afternoon. The men are filed in orderly formaton to and from the ball field.

Prisoners are obliged to bathe once a week and a traveling barber system is used. The barber visiting the different departments on different days of each week. The inmates are watched carefully not only for cleanliness of quarters, but for the special care of themselves.

A night school under the supervision of Mr. Ernest Anderson, a teacher of the Boston Public Schools, assisted by the higher educated prisoners, is held four nights a week, Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 6 p. m. to 7.30 p. m. Illiterates are taught the English language and how to read and write. The advancement of the illiterates is alarming. Other higher classes are held and the work is encouraging. The attendance of the school when I came to the institution was about fifty-five per night. The attendance has now increased to an attendance per night of an average of 115 per night. This is very encouraging, but I believe there should be even more take advantage of this school and this shall be my aim to impress its importance on the inmates. A day school for illiterates under the supervision of a very intelligent inmate was started April 17, 1922. This school is held from 8.30 a. m. to 11 a. m. every day each week with the exception of Saturday and Sunday. This school is proving very successful and is attended by an average of seventeen illiterates a day. An officer of the institution is on duty at this school to keep order. The day acquired a more or less unimpressive beginning. The inmates were very reluctant to go to school rather working if possible, but when it was explained properly to them that it was for their own betterment and advancement and after the attendance of a few days the inmates became interested and are very happy to attend and better themselves. It is indeed gratifying to see the poor illiterate-grasping what little knowledge we are able to supply them. Tardiness or absence at this school is a breach of discipline. Inmates who go to day school are given from 10 o'clock to after dinner call for work, recreation in the yard after the all-morning confinement. This, I believe brightens their minds and also encourages their work in the school.

Our shoe department is turning out good work. All the shoes, both working and liberty, are made for this institution as well as Long Island. I have interviewed the acting superintendent of the Farm and Trades School at Thompson's Island and after I had submitted our samples to him he promised his business to us.

I have reopened the stone shed and am finishing the cutting of stone left when the shed was closed. Through the kindness of the foreman in charge of the wharf work I made arrangements with him to move this stone from an inconvenient place to a spot right handy for our work. Without this favor the use of the lighter would have to be procured at a large expense to the city.

Our clothing industry is working splendidly and is making every bit of clothing for our institution with the exception of undershirts and socks and in addition to this are making khaki and coats for Long Island. We are also cutting and finishing Brownie overalls for the J. B. Pearson Company of Boston.

Each day we are sending to Long Island under charge of an officer twelve inmates who are doing different chores at that institution in addition to filling in ditches left open by contractors. These men leave on the 7 a. m. boat and return on the boat about 4.45 p. m.

No empoyee of this institution is allowed to leave the island before the night count, unless by special permission and a pass signed by the deputies or myself. Each officer has a day off once a week, leaving after count the day before his day off and returning the night of his day off. Officers who wish to leave the island on so-called snap trips are allowed to go on special permission after count An index is kept in this office so that at all times it can be seen who is avaiable for duty. There are a few officers who are married who leave the island every night after count, and these men I am listing as follows: Patrick J. Donelon, Patrick J. Donovan, Michael J. Cunningham, Lester Whitehead.

There are no officers on the island, except in occasional circumstances, with the exception of the above-named men who are away from the island more than one day off, and one snap trip a week.

This report covers my activities since coming to this instituton. The things I have accomplished are small, but I trust as I go on that with the co-operaton of the officials of this institution and the co-operation of yourself and the deputy commissoner that I will be able to perform a considerable amount of constructive work for the instituton, that I may be able to help the inmates by schooling, discipline and entertainment, and I trust that within a short time that through our efforts we will have reached a peak envied by all other institutions not only in this state but in the country.

Respectfully sumbitted,

JAMES L. MOLLOY,
Master.

QUARTERS FOR WOMEN JURORS.

Mayor Curley has directed Hon. E. Mark Sullivan to confer with Chief Justice Rugg relative to quarters for women jurors. The communication of Mayor Curley was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR, May 15, 1922.

HON. E. MARK SULLIVAN, Corporation Counsel, 730 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR,—A communication has been received from the Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court informing me that accommodations for women performing jury service at Suffolk County Court House are inadequate and I have this day notified him that you have been assigned to confer with him and determine the requirements in connection with the extension of jury service to women.

Kindly report to me the result of your conference and oblige,

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The Mayor thinks that the cost of the necessary changes will be about $1,000,000 and he is hopeful that the Legislature will see fit to shoulder a part of the burden instead of leaving it all to Suffolk County.

The Mayor could not say how long it will be before the changes will be completed. Plans must be drawn and the work should be ready to be actually undertaken about a year hence.

CONGRATULATES CITY OF DETROIT.

Mayor Curley sent the following telegram to the Mayor of Detroit, which city, upon the 15th instant, assumed full municipal ownership of its street railway system.

HON. JAMES COUZENS,
Mayor of Detroit,
Detroit, Mich.:

Please accept congratulations of citizens of Boston on Detroit's big experiment in municipal ownership of your street railway system. I sincerely trust that complete success may follow your efforts.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR AIDS HOSPITAL.

Two new motor ambulances for the Carney Hospital have been promised by Mayor Curley. The Mayor also requested the trustees of the hospital to renew the lease of the land and the building, so that Supt. of Public Buildings Kneeland can complete the work of making extensive repairs for the accommodation of physicians and surgeons and also for the parking of the new machines.

He further requested the trustees of the City Hospital to allow the Carney Hospital the use of two of their motor ambulances while the newly ordered ambulances are being built.

MAYOR DECLARES FOR AMENDMENT OF ACT.

An act relative to garages in the City of Boston has been approved by Mayor Curley, who, however, has declared that an amendment is imperative and should be made the subject of legislation at the next session of the Massachusetts Legislature.

The statement of Mayor Curley is as follows:

"I have approved the order of the City Council, as unanimously adopted, on May 1, 1922, providing for acceptance of chapter 316 of the Acts of 1922, being legislation entitled "An Act relative to garages in the City of Boston." The enactment of this law introduced for the purpose of preventing the erection and operation of a garage by the General Baking Company at Charlestown marks one of the concluding chapters, if not the concluding chapter, in the struggle between this corporation and the people of Charlestown with reference to this particular project.

"The drastic character of the act itself, however, is such as to require amendment at the next session of the Legislature. Section 2 of the act renders impossible enlargement or alteration to existing buildings maintained as garages, while section 1 is equally faulty in its provision that no garage for more than four cars be permitted on the same street as and within 500 feet of any building occupied in whole or in part as a public or private school, having more than fifty pupils, or as a public or private hospital, having more than twenty-five beds, or as a church. In New York City the provision against garages is limited to 20 feet from the nearest wall of a building occupied as a school, theatre or other place of amusement or assembly, while in Illinois it is 50 feet and in Detroit 50 feet. I have, nevertheless, in conformity with a pledge made during the last municipal campaign approved the act, but do so in the belief that public necessity and public convenience will compel either the rewriting of the entire act or the adoption of perfecting amendments at the next session of the Legislature."

MAYOR ORDERS FLOWER PLANTING.

Mayor Curley has directed the Park Commission to plant that portion of Riverway avenue to Huntington avenue along the banks of the Muddy river so that this delightful spot would be improved and over three thousand rhododendrons, Kalmias and azaleas have been planted. At present the azaleas, in flower, are clouds of bloom-soft pink, a pink between the shades of peach blossoms and apple blossoms.

The azealas kaempferi, a salmon merging on red, will bloom in the not distant future, the planters say. After that shower is over the azaleas arborescens will follow, another pink family that doesn't blush puite so hard.

Later on the rhododendron will be in flower and may be seen from the main driveway, also the kalmias, later on.

These new plantings are expected to make the section one of the most delightful drives and walks in the park system.

STREET ACCEPTANCE.

The location, direction, width and grade of the private way, in Roxbury, designated as Allerton street extension, leadng northwesterly from Magazine street for a distance of about two hundred and fifty feet, has been accepted.

PROCLAMATION BY MAYOR.

The Mayor issued the following proclamation for Mother's Day:

To the Citizens of Boston:

In accordance with an honorable custom the second Sunday in May has come to be observed as Mother's Day; it is marked by the wearing of pinks that our thought and utterance of her whose care and tenderness, solicitude and sacrifice we owe all we are may be expressed in flowers.

Mother's Day is not an official holiday; it represents spontaneous tribute to the mothers of the race, to them who, in safeguarding the homes of the world and guiding the footsteps of childhood have fostered the things that make life worth living and preserve civilizaton.

Motherhood is the first and highest duty of womanhood; and on Mother's Day we should seriously take counsel with ourselves to learn if we are living in accordance with the duties and responsibilities, the conduct and character the sacred name of mother connotes.

In the simple years that are the foundation of this Republic, the home was held to be the ark of the covenant of civilization, and the government set up here was regarded as an expansion of the family unit of America in which morality, fidelity and authority were the sustaining principles, the lessening or weakening of which constituted a threat to the integrity and endurance of national life.

America has expanded amazingly in things material; but she has not held fast to the spiritual things that are the safeguards of national health and strength. There has been a distinct lowering of our ideals character and conduct. Liberty has degenerated into license in many directions the standards of family life have grown lax; divorce is assuming the character of a national menace, making a mockery of motherhood, a jest of marital fidelity, and the home and its sanctities mere traditions.

Therefore, on this day sacred to mothers and motherhood we should highly resolve to return to the simpler standards and truer value of a simple age; to honor motherhood and its temple, the home as the most vital and valuable thing in our civilization; and to combat the evils that by depreciating our spiritual values are destroying religion, morals and civilization of the world. When the home goes, when family life ceases, when motherhood is evaded and derided the end is not far away.

In this spirit, I ask my fellow citizens to observe the Mother's Day of Sunday May 14, 1922

James M. Curley, Mayor.

General Order No. 27.

It has been brought to my attention by the commanding officer of Division 7 that Patrolmen James J. Driscoll, Bartholomew D. Winn, and Joseph Maraghy of that division recently performed a most meritorious piece of police work by capturing at Wilmington, Mass., two exceedingly dangerous criminals, thereby recovering a large quantity of valuable property stolen by these men and their companions in and near Boston.

In recognition of their excellent service I hereby grant them each one day's leave of absence from duty with pay, these days off to be arranged by their division commander.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

Herbert A. Wilson,
Commissioner.

MAYOR ORDERS SUIT.

Mayor Curley has instructed the Commercial and Industrial Bureau to bring a test case before the United States Court upon the constitutionality of the freight differentials established by the Interstate Commerce Commission and which work an injury to the Port of Boston.

The particular paragraph in the Constitution upon which the case of the city will rest, is in section 1, Article 9, and reads as follows: "No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce . . . to the ports of one State over those of another."

In a brief, submitted by Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan, to the Mayor upon this question, it is set forth that no case has yet been decided, directly bearing on the question as it now effects the Port of Boston. The brief also states that freight regulations were certainly regulations of commerce and that the preference given to Baltimore and other ports were clearly established by the facts.

Mayor Curley made the following statement on the proposed litigation.

"If Boston, as a port, has rights under the Federal Constitution that have been transgressed by the rate regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission resulting in the iniquitous differentials on freight from the West, then it is time that we took advantage of those rights. The City of Boston will soon determine whether we are to continue as mere supplicants in Washington, waiting on the Interstate Commerce Commission or sovereign citizens of the Republic demanding our fundamental rights before the Supreme Court of the United States.

"It seems reasonable and logical to add that Congress could not delegate a power to the Interstate Commerce Commission which was specifically denied to Congress itself by the Constitution."

BAND CONCERT ON COMMON.

Mayor Curley arranged a musical treat for Boston citizens in the form of a band concert given on Wednesday evening, May 17, at the Parkman Bandstand, on Boston Common, by the band of the Famous Fifth United States Regulars. This band, with its regiment, was the last of the United States troops to leave foreign soil since the World War and they have just arrived home, landing at Portland.

The regiment, fresh from German soil, is now in Boston, having marched over the road. The band is here as the guests of the citizens of Boston and the concert on Wednesday evening gave the citizens an opportunity to turn out and give them a real home-coming reception.

The band rendered a number of the airs which made it so popular in Europe. The organization is here to participate in the memorial exercises of May 21 at the Charlestown Navy Yard, also, and at the Memorial Mass to be celebrated on May 28 at Braves Field.

Services of the band for the concert Wednesday evening was secured by the Mayor through the courtesy of Col. W. C. Sweeney, intelligence officer of the First Corps Area.

GRADE E EXAMINATION.

An examination for Grade E of the library service will be held on Saturday, May 27, 1922, at ten o'clock a. m., at the Special Libraries floor, Central Library. Open only to graduates of grammar school.

THE FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, May 12, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—The Finance Commission submits herewith copy of a report by its consulting engineer regarding a material called "Soilamies," now being used as part of a new pavement on North Beacon street in the Brighton district.

It also appears that a small section of Heath street, Roxbury, was paved with this material during the administration of your predecessor. This fact was unknown to the Finance Commission until the work on North Beacon street was called to its attention.

The Finance Commission adopts the recommendations of its consulting engineer contained in the last two paragraphs of the report.

Respectfully submitted,

Michael H. Sullivan,
Chairman,
Courtenay Guild,
John F. Moors,
James M. Morrison,
J. Waldo Pond,
The Finance Commission.

Boston, May 12, 1922.

To the Finance Commission:

Gentlemen,—Your attention is called to matters connected with the construction of streets with material designated as "Soilamies." This is a proprietary material, the use of which is being urged upon officials of the Public Works Department for the entire structure of street pavements and also for foundations for the wearing surface of bituminous pavements, being substituted for the usual base course of Portland cement concrete.

It is claimed for the material that it can be mixed with any earthy material constituting the surface of old streets, such as loam, clay, sand or gravel, and produce a suitable material for the surface of new streets, thereby saving the cost of crushed stone and screened sand usually used for such purposes. The formula as printed on the bags containing the cement used is as follows:

DIRECTIONS
must be read carefully before using this cement.
READ CAREFULLY.

Place small bag of Soilamies marked No. 1 in mixer with water then after a few revolutions of the mixer add three cubic feet of sieved or water moistened soil to each bag of Soilamies No. 2.

One small paper bag marked Soilamies No. 1 is used with each bag of Soilamies No. 2.

Example, if you are making a three bag batch you must add 3 bags Soilamies No. 1 with the water before adding the three bags of Soilamies No. 2 and the dirt.

Always use the Cement No. 1 and Cement No. 2; a bag of the No. 1 must be used with each bag of No. 2.

A section of this pavement was laid under the previous administration at City Hall on Heath street, between Parker and Bromley streets. A recent examination showed a pavement closely resembling a Portland cement concrete pavement and apparently with about the same mixture of stone and cement. The pavement is in bad condition, considering its short service. This condition may be due either to improper workmanship when laid, or to the effect of traffic since. It is apparently inferior to the average Portland cement concrete street surface.

At the present time approximately 400 feet of the new street surface on North Beacon street in the Brighton district, between Larkin avenue and Vineland street, has been laid with "Soilamies" as a foundation or base course for the proposed bituminous concrete surface. The contractors are about to begin the laying of the bituminous concrete surface.

Several examinations of the "Soilamies" base show that it is of improper quality for the purpose. In some parts of the area, where the material was mixed with a considerable proportion of crushed stone, it has hardened somewhat, being similar to Portland cement concrete that had been in place for a short time. The "Soilamies" has been in place more than one month. Where it has been mixed with the street surface containing loam and mud little hardening is apparent, the material having the appearance of dried mud with stones in it.

Over a large part of the area the surface is so loose and soft that there will be no effective bond between the base and the bituminous surface. The proportions of cement and earth said to have been used in the mixture are approximately the same by volume as for Portland cement concrete for street pavements, that is, 1 cement and 5 mineral aggregate. As used for standard Portland cement concrete for street surfaces a mixture much used is 1 cement, 2 sand and 3 crushed stone.

The mixing of the loam and earth has apparently acted exactly as it does on a Portland cement concrete, that is, it has destroyed the binding and hardening properties of the cement. Whether the addition of the "Soilamies Cement No. 1" has been beneficial or harmful cannot be definitely determined at the present time. The probability is that it has little effect on the base mixture. It may, however, have a disintegrating effect on the bituminous surface to be laid over it, on account of the excess of strong alkali. It is my opinion that in its present condition it would be a waste of money to lay bituminous surfacing over the present base.

There will be about 1,800 square yards of area and to lay the surface of this area and take it up again after the base had failed would cost at least $3,500, an amount worth saving, even though the amount already invested in the base course should be a total loss.

North Beacon street carries a very heavy traffic, and will be when improvements are completed the main highway from Boston to Watertown, Waltham and the surrounding towns. As indicative of the character of the traffic, a large proportion of the bituminous pavement laid on the street between Union square and Market street, that has been in service for about three years, has recently been removed by the original contractor and replaced with new material. The same character of traffic will of necessity pass over the new part now being constructed between North Market street and Brooks street.

As regards the North Beacon street work, arrangement was made with the general contractor for the street to substitute the "Soilamies" material for Portland cement base, required by his contract. The contractor was relieved of his guaranty provision for that part of the street in which "Soilamies" was used, both as regards the foundation and the bituminous surface. No guaranty was exacted of the Soilamies Products Company, either for the street surface or for the base laid with their material, although since it became known at City Hall that the Finance Commission was investigating the matter, such guaranty has been demanded, and telegrams have been received indicating that the Soilamies Products Company would furnish a bond covering the city on the "Soilamies" foundation. Whether this bond is to cover the bituminous surfacing is not at present clear.

In case of the early disintegration of this pavement it would probably be impossible, on account of the many possible contingencies, to determine whether the trouble was due to imperfect workmanship in the surface or to the failure of the base course.

Other bituminous pavements laid by the city at the present time carry a five-year guaranty, supported by a suitable bond for the maintaining of all parts of the street structure. Notwithstanding the existence of these bonds, the city does not intentionally allow the contractor to build a street of improper materials. In this case the foundation is in all parts much inferior in strength to standard Portland cement concrete foundation. For the greater part it is inferior to water-bound macadam foundations as frequently used for light traffic.

Not only should a guaranty protecting the city against failure in any part of the street structure be exacted, but defective portions of the present base should be removed, even though such operations required the removal of all the material now in place, and suitable material substituted before the bituminous surface is laid.

No bituminous surface should be laid until a thorough chemical and mechanical examination has been made to determine the probable effect of the chemicals used on the cohesion and durability of the base mixture and also as regards its probable effect on the bituminous surface, as regards its durability under traffic, and as affecting its adhesion to the base.

Respectfully submitted,
Guy C. Emerson,
Consulting Engineer.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACT.

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that a great deal of very hard rock was encountered in the building of the basins in Washington street, Roxbury, which had the effect of retarding the progress of the work.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston held upon the 12th instant, the Rev. Alexander Mann, D.D., was elected president, Mr. Samuel Carr, vice-president, and Miss D. J. Deery, clerk, for the ensuing year.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved four claims against the city, in three of which no amount were specified, and the other one amounted to $35; and are classified as follows:

Against the Fire Department, two, in which no amounts were specified; against the Hospital Department, one, amounting to $35; against the Public Works Department, one, in which no amount was specified.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

Also the Law Department has disapproved five claims against the city, in three of which no amounts were specified, and the other two amounted to $12.66, and are classified as follows:

Against the Institutions Department, two, amounting to $12.66; against the Public Works Department, three, in which no amounts were specified.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, RELATIVE TO THE NECESSITY OF THE RESTORATION OF A FIVE CENT CARFARE IN BOSTON.

DELIVERED BEFORE THE COMMITTEE ON RULES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, STATE HOUSE BOSTON, THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1922.

The question which the Legislature is called upon to determine is not so much whether a 5 or a 10 cent fare is equitable as it is whether adequate street railroad tansportation is necessary to the developement of the territory served by it and, if necessary the determination of the means whereby it shall be made to serve the community.

The stock phrases used in the consideration of the street car fare question, namely, car rider, service at cost, and public control, are capable of varied construction as to meaning and, in a measure, have contributed to the confusion of thought which has rendered extremely difficult that degree of clarity, essential to an equitable solution of a real problem.

The term "service at cost," upon which such great stress has been laid, is unquestionably subject to varied interpretations. The provisions of the act of 1918 require, not only, the reconstruction of what, in 1918, was practically a bankrupt railroad but the payment of dividends at par upon stock that, at the time of the 1918 so-called Public Control Act became operative, was selling at or about one-fourth of par so that instead of the payment of 5, 5½ and 6 per cent interest, the actual amount derived by both financiers and promoters of the act of 1918 would approximat nearer to 20 per cent annually, backed by a state guarantee covering a period of ten years, during which time a return of approximately 200 per cent is enjoyed by the stock jobbing fraternity who engineered the Public Control Act of 1918.

To require that the car rider bear the entire burden, variously estimated from ten to fifteen million dollars for reconstruction, and the additional burdens due, either to mismanagement, corruption or to the conditions affecting the cost of material and labor, resulting from the World War is not only unjust but indefensible.

The development of low-priced motor vehicles has been a contributing factor to the problem of transporting people on street cars at a reasonably low cost and, in the event of further large reductions of low-priced motor vehicles, due to new inventions or other causes, it is not unreasonable to anticipate a further considerable reduction in the number of street car riders.

To insist that, because of the reduction in the patrons of our transportation system who, because of necessity, are compelled to ride upon the street cars, should bear the entire burden which ultimately may be two or three times as great as the present street car fare, thereby making a luxury of what is essentially a necessity, is outrageous.

The evils resulting from a perpetuation of the policy established as a result of the act of 1918 are so far-reaching as to make imperative the granting of immediate relief.

From the standpoint of public health consideration must be accorded the injurious effect on the mothers and children resulting from the inability of the working man to provide health-giving recreation in the form of outings upon Sunday in our public park system, thereby not only proving an injury to public health, but lessening the value of the great investment represented in public parks and playgrounds and beach resorts within the metropolitan district.

When you consider the burden imposed by the failure to adopt a courageously constructed program with reference to street car transportation that is borne by a working man with, for example, a family of five children and who today desires a pleasant Sunday's or a holiday's outing to the Blue Hill Reservation, if he resides in Boston, the round trip for the family of seven is equivalent to one fourth of the entire amount earned by the worker in an entire week, or $4.90, due in part to the abandonment of one street car system and the substitution of a system of busses in place thereof, and the 100 per cent increase in street car fares, the other instance.

In Boston 42 per cent of the entire revenue for the conduct of the city's activities is levied upon Ward 5, which is 42 per cent of the entire valuation of the city, and embracing a territory of approximately 500 acres of the taxable area of the city.

It is imperative that values be maintained in this great business area and it is only possible to maintain those values through an adequate street car transportation system, the cost of which will not only not be burdensome but, because of its low price, will be inviting to the street car traveling public.

In Massachusetts today there are registered 259,088 automobiles. Of this large number fully one third daily pass to and fro over the streets of Boston. Allowing four passengers to each automobile this represents a total of approximately 320,000 persons who seldom ride in the street cars, but who, in all probability, would find it impossible to earn sufficient money to operate an automobile without adequate street car transportation, which daily loads and unloads the public at the places of business conducted by the owners of motor vehicles.

I appreciate that the bill as presented represents a radical departure from the system which has obtained in the past, but, nevertheless, in my opinion, based on personal investigation and study of reports of the Public Control Trustees and conditions as affecting both the people and the city, I am absolutely convinced that the only solution of reasonable cost for street car transportation and the maintenance of an adequate street car transportation system lies in the distribution of the burden to the entire public rather than the centering of the burden upon the element of the community less able to bear it, those persons with insufficient funds to own a motor car.

It may be contended that the increase in tax rates will be reflected by an increase in rentals and, assuming that such increase does occur, it can in no case represent 25 per cent of the burden imposed under the present system on the family with five or more children.

To sum up briefly, a continuance of the present system is the perpetuation of special legislation most vicious in character because it imposes the heaviest burdens on those least able to assume them. It is a menace because of the prohibition to healthful out-door recreation, resulting for the families of the workers, because of the burdensome character of special tax represented in the 10-cent fare.

It is destructive to business for the reason that it prevents development in the most valuable section of the city through lack of proper service. Followed to its logical conclusion, the present system by which the burden is borne by those least able to assume it, it constitutes an absolute menace.

In the interests of business, for the convenience of the public and for the development of the cities and towns served by the Boston Elevated street car system, I ask that the Committee on Rules and the Legislature of Massachusetts consider the question of street railroad transportation in the same category as public water system, public sewerage system, public education system and public street lighting system; in other words, consider adequate street railroad transportation from the standpoint of what it really is, an absolute essential to both urban and suburban life.

PROPOSALS ADVERTISED.

A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
SUPPLY DEPARTMENT,
May 16, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—On April 24, 1922, this department opened bids after public advertisement for 1,000 tons, more or less, of refined tar for construction; 500 tons, more or less, of road asphalt for construction NA-1; 500 tons, more or less, of OA-2 road asphalt for construction. The price secured on OA-2 road asphalt was $19.38 per ton; on NA-1 road asphalt, $48.09, and on refined tar for construction, $23.48 per ton.

After conference with the Commissioner of Public Works, it was decided that it would be for the best interests of the city to accept the low bid secured on OA-2 asphalt, and to use this material instead of refined tar and NA-1 asphalt. The original bid called for 500 tons of OA-2, and I respectfully request permission to enter into contract with Mace Moulton, Jr., the low bidder on OA-2, for 2,000 tons of OA-2 asphalt in place of the 500 tons requested in our original advertisement.

I have consulted the Corporation Counsel, and he has rendered me an opinion that it would be perfectly legal to make such a contract and to increase the amount from 500 tons to 2,000 tons.

In recommending that this amount be increased, I do so because if the City of Boston asked for new bids on the extra 1,500 tons, we would be obliged to pay from $2 to $4 per ton more than the price quoted on the original advertisement of 500 tons.

This is the first time in the history of the City of Boston that asphalt has been quoted at a lower price than tar.

Trusting that I may be granted the permission requested, I am,

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

Upon May 23 the Mayor approved a contract with J. C. Coleman & Sons Company for building a cement tank in the building known as the elephant house, at Franklin Park, for the accommodation of a hippopotamus. A communication from Chairman James B. Shea of the Park Department was as follows:

Boston, May 22, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Board of Park Commissioners asks your approval to award, without competition, a contract in excess of $1,000 to J. C. Coleman & Sons Company, to build a cement tank in the building known as the elephant house at Franklin Park, for the accommodation of the hippopotamus, and to connect said tank by a drain with the sewer at Glen lane.

The reason for this request is that there is not sufficient time to publicly advertise for bids, as the Boston Post expects to present the hippopotamus about the first of June and all arrangements for its accommodation must be made in advance.

Very respectfully yours,
James B. Shea, Chairman.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION FOR VETERANS.

To the Citizens of Boston:

The President of the United States has asked the people of America to make the week beginning May 28, 1922, a Disabled Veterans' Week, during which meetings and conferences may be held devoted to an appreciation of the service and sacrifice of these pathetic victims of the great struggle, and the formulation of plans for their present and future care.

Thousands of men who went to serve the country are sleeping today under the grass and stars in the fields of France and Flanders; the bones of hundreds are bleaching in the ocean deeps; and a great army of veterans, disabled by shot and shell and shattered by disease and gas, are scattered throughout the republic, living in helplessness and pain, in many cases neglected and forgotten, waiting that final tattoo that will release them from suffering and ingratitude.

In the heroic hour when they went forth to serve they were acclaimed with applause and emotion; government, people and press united in fervent declarations that their service and sacrifice should never be forgotten, and that the care and protection of them and their dependents should be the first duty and obligation of the republic.

The tremendous struggle is over; the emotions of those stirring days are done; the national enthusiasm has waned; America has gone cold; but the human wrecks of war are here; we hesitate to redeem our promises and pay the price of victory; and rightly the veteran asks us, "Have you forgotten?"

In compliance with the request of the honored Chief Magistrate of the United States I call on the citizens of Boston, ever generous, never ungrateful, always patriotic, to rally to these helpless wards of a victorious nation, to the end that our promises be redeemed, our duty done, our honor sustained. That the war might be carried to a success we gave until it hurt. The cry today of the disabled veterans is as imperative as the call of the bond then. Honor and duty unite to urge us to make the slender remainder of the veteran's days of anguish and dependence as free as sympathy and aid can make them from the cares and difficulties his physical disabilities thrust upon him.

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
  That mark our place and in the sky
  The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

"To you with failing hands we throw
  The torch; be yours to hold it high.
  If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
  In Flanders fields."

JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

RINGING DENUNCIATION BY MR. WHIPPLE.

Hon. Sherman L. Whipple, who is associated with Mayor Curley as advisory counsel in the effort to secure the restoration of a 5-cent fare upon the cars of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, within the limits of the City of Boston, has scathingly denounced the opinion of Hon. J. Weston Allen, Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, rendered to the Rules Committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, declining to order an investigation as to the ways and means by which the Public Control Act was enacted as legislation.

Mr. Whipple's letter to Mayor Curley was as follows:

Boston, May 19, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—I have read with interest the opinion of the learned Attorney-General of the Commonwealth recently rendered to the Rules Committee.

While he does not so state in explicit terms, his opinion seems to have been generally accepted as saying in substance that even if it be a fact that a band of promoters get a legislative contract with the Commonwealth as a direct result of bribery and corruption of the Legislature, yet such promoters can hold the Commonwealth to the contract, no matter how gross the corruption or how unconscionable the obligation.

This is certainly a startling proposition. Few have believed, I think, that the law throws such protecting care over legislative corruption. The realization that such is the law will come as a shock to the honest, law-abiding citizens of our community. Everyone is familiar with the rule that if a party secures a contract from another by corrupting that other's agents, the contract is not binding; but this rule of common honesty, it seems (so the Attorney-General says), does not apply to a sovereign state.

I think we may rest in confidence that the Legislature or the people of the Commonwealth will not long permit to exist such an incentive to corruption and wrongdoing.

So far as affects what you are attempting to achieve, the opinion of the Attorney-General, whether right or wrong, is final. It makes an appeal to the courts to set aside this contract impossible; for proceedings for that purpose would have to have the Attorney-General's indorsement, and such indorsement is foreclosed by his opinion.

The object you are attempting to achieve is one of great public benefit. I believe your efforts have, as indeed they merit, cordial public approval. The people who can ill afford to bear this burden are now restive under an unjust and, as we believe, unlawful exaction. It is most unfortunate that you could not have had the hearty co-operation of the state officials, which could not have resulted otherwise than in a great public benefit due to your combined efforts.

But it is now evident that you cannot look for aid to the state officials. It is clear none of those in authority at the State House propose to take any action whatever in this important matter. While admitting the serious public necessity, they have offered no constructive suggestion. The Governor, although his aid was requested, declined to render aid. The Attorney-General finds himself helpless. The speaker and a majority of the members of the Legislature, while they admit in part, at least, that the act is not wholly satisfactory, have thus far shown no inclination to aid you in the correction of its more vicious features.

But this refusal of co-operation affects only collaterally what you have undertaken. Your main object is and has been for a 5-cent fare. The setting aside of this fraudulent contract was chiefly important merely as a step toward bringing about a 5-cent fare. There are, however, other ways in which this result may be achieved, and to these it will now be necessary to turn your attention.

I do not doubt that much can be accomplished by conferences with the Public Control Trustees, for in the performance of their duty they have always shown an earnest desire to reduce the fare to a minimum consistent with carrying out the requirement of the act. Furthermore, public opinion on the matter is thoroughly aroused. Whatever the lawyers may say, people will not tolerate the existence of fraud and corruption, and will not be patient with the fact that those who have promoted it are reaping the fruits of their wrongdoing.

I believe that at no time since you began your high-minded and unselfish efforts have the prospects been brighter for achievement.

Will you permit me to add that there are a few features in the situation which are distinctly puzzling? It is easy to see why an opinion like that of the Attorney-General is welcomed with relief by those who in past years have gained legislative favors by the bribery of Legislatures, and with satisfaction by those who intend to do it again in the future. But it is not so easy to understand why legislators and journalists who had no participation in the corruption, who ought really to view the matter solely in the public interest, should be so enthusiastic in their expressions of a similar relief and satisfaction.

It is possible that their friendly association with men who have benefited by this legislation has disturbed, in a measure at least, their usual fair and judicial attitude. For I do not believe it possible that these gentlemen of high character and standing can in their hearts feel a real satisfaction in an opinion that states that, under the law, there is no remedy for a fraud perpetrated on the Commonwealth by bribery of its lawmakers, and that the courts are powerless to prevent the promoters of such a scheme from getting away with the fruits of their misconduct. Such a feeling is inconsistent with their character and standing in the community.

Nor is it easy to comprehend why these same gentlemen seemed called upon to lecture you, the chief magistrate of this city, for no greater offence than a straightforward effort to correct a scandalous wrong and relieve the people of this city from an unjust burden.

There is still another feature of this situation to which perhaps I may properly call your attention. Comments of the press expressing satisfaction with the Attorney-General's opinion have entirely ignored in their consideration the real criticism of the Public Control Act, the real wickedness of it. They refer to the fairness of car riders paying the cost of their transportation; to the injustice of expecting the Elevated road to furnish rides at less than what the transportation costs.

But this is not the point at all. If the Public Control Bill provided only that car riders should pay the cost of transportation, then there would be comparatively little to criticise. The bill means much more than that. The reason why it is necessary for the trustees now to exact a 10-cent fare is not because the transportation amounts to that, but in order to enable the trustees (in the words of Chairman Jackson) "To put the property, which came to them depleted and exhausted, into good operating condition." That is what the car riders on the Elevated road are being taxed for; not merely the cost of transportation, but to furnish a sum, variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, to build up and restore "a depleted and exhausted property."

The trustees have no option in the matter. They are bound by this vicious provision of the act to exact a fare which will cover not merely the cost of transportation, but a surplus of $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, which is nothing more or less than a legislative grant from the pockets of the people of Boston to the Elevated road.

If the Legislature is warranted in granting this amount as a gift to the Elevated road, why should they not grant it to any other owners of a "depleted and exhausted" property?—and there are plenty of them in the railroad business within this commonwealth.

I am surprised that neither Speaker Young in his address to the Legislature, nor the editorial writers who have discussed the matter, have commented upon this provision of the bill in which is concentrated the essential unfairness of the Legislature.

Sincerely yours,

Sherman L. Whipple.

CAPTAIN BRICKLEY HONORED.

Mayor Curley visited the City Council chamber, upon the 23d instant, to pin upon the lapel of the president, Capt. David J. Brickley, the pin of the Army and Navy League of Valor, for distinguished service in the World War.

In the little ceremony Mayor Curley read the citation of Gen. P. C. March, chief of staff, given Capt. Brickley by Congressional direction with the Distinguished Service Cross:

"For extraordinary heroism in action, near Verdun, France, October, 1918. Stubbornly resisting three strong enemy counter attacks, Lieutenant Brickley, without aid, went forward, and by effective machine-gun fire drove the enemy from and captured a strong pill box which had been raising havoc in our ranks."

Patrick J. Kyle, of Charlestown, the organization's National commander, then handed Captain Brickley the framed certificate of honor accompanying the pin. The recipient was given a round of applause.

MAYOR'S ELEVATED BILL.

The bill of Mayor Curley drafted by Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan, Hon. Sherman L. Whipple and Hon. John A. Sullivan, introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature provides for a 5-cent fare and proposes by amendments to the present laws to direct that the trustees of the Boston Elevated "shall establish a fare of 5 cents for a single continuous passage in the same general direction upon the roads owned, leased or operated by said company," and provides for regulation of transfers and charges therefor.

The Mayor's bill provides that the company shall receive from the Commonwealth a sum which together with the fares shall meet the cost of the service. January 1, 1923, is set as the date for application of the 5-cent fare. Provision is made for assessing any deficit in the cities and towns served, in proportion to population according to the latest census.

The bill orders a referendum at the State election in Arlington, Belmont, Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Newton, Somerville and Watertown, on the question of acceptance of the act including the making up of any deficit by taxation on those cities and towns.

The full text of Mayor Curley's bill is as follows:

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in General Court Assembled.

The undersigned, Mayor of the City of Boston, respectfully petitions for legislation to provide for a unit five cent fare on all street railway lines in Boston and for a five cent fare on all the lines operated by the Boston Elevated Railway Company and for the making up of any deficit in operation by the levying of taxes upon the cities and towns in which said lines are located.

James M. Curley, Mayor.

An Act: To Amend Chapter One Hundred and Fifty-nine of the Special Acts of Nineteen Hundred and Eighteen and to Provide for a Five Cent Fare.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. Section two of chapter one hundred and fifty-nine of the special acts of nineteen hundred and eighteen is hereby amended by striking out in the sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth lines the following,—"They shall have the right to regulate and fix fares, including the issue, granting and withdrawal of transfers, and the imposition of charges therefor," and substituting in place thereof the following: They shall establish a fare of five cents for a single continuous passage in the same general direction upon the roads owned, leased or operated by said company and shall regulate the issue, granting and withdrawal of transfers and the imposition of charges therefor,—so that said section as amended shall read as follows:—Section 2. Said board of trustees, hereinafter called the trustees, shall manage and operate the Boston Elevated Railway Company, hereinafter call the company, and the properties owned, leased or operated by it, for a period of ten years, commencing on the first day of the month next after their appointment and qualification, and, subject to the provisions of this act, shall take and have possession of said properties in behalf of the commonwealth during the period of public operation, and, for the purposes of this act, shall, except as is otherwise provided in this act, have and may exercise all the rights and powers of said company and its directors, and, upon behalf of said company, shall receive and disburse its income and funds. They shall have the right to appoint and remove in their discretion the president, treasurer and clerk of the corporation, and all officers of the company other than the board of directors. They shall establish a fare of five cents for a single continuous passage in the same general direction upon the roads owned, leased or operated by said company and shall regulate the issue, granting and withdrawal of transfers and the imposition of charges therefor, and shall determine the character and extent of the service and facilities to be furnished, and in these respects their authority shall be exclusive and shall not be subject to the approval, control or direction of any other state board or commission.

In the management and operation of the said company and of the properties owned, leased or operated by it, as authorized by this act, the trustees and their agents, servants and employees shall be deemed to be acting as agents of the company and not of the commonwealth, and the company shall be liable for their acts and negligence in such management and operation to the same extent as if they were in the immediate employ of the company, but said trustees shall not be personally liable. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the action of a majority of those present at any meeting shall be deemed the action of the trustees.

Nothing herein contained shall be held to affect the right of the commonwealth or any subdivision thereof to tax the company or its stockholders in the same manner and to the same extent as if the company had continued to manage and operate its own property.

Sect. 2. Section six of said act is hereby amended by striking out in lines one to four, inclusive, the following,—"The trustees shall from time to time, in the manner hereinafter provided, fix such rates of fare as will reasonably insure sufficient income to meet the cost of the service," and substituting therefor the following:—The trustees shall fix a five cent fare as hereinbefore provided and shall receive from the commonwealth in the manner hereinafter provided a sum, which together with the total of said fares shall insure sufficient income to meet the cost of the service,—so that said section as amended shall read as follows:—Section 6. The trustees shall fix a five cent fare as hereinbefore provided and shall receive from the commonwealth in the manner hereinafter provided a sum, which together with the total of said fares shall insure sufficient income to meet the cost of the service, which shall include operating expenses, taxes, rentals, interest on all indebtedness, such allowances as they may deem necessary or advisable, for depreciation of property and for obsolescence and losses in respect to property sold, destroyed, or abandoned, all other expenditures and charges which under the laws of the commonwealth now or hereafter in effect may be properly chargeable against income or surplus, fixed dividends on all preferred stock of the company from time to time outstanding, and dividends on the common stock of the company from time to time outstanding at the rate of five per cent per annum on the par value thereof during the first two years, five and one half per cent per annum on the par value thereof during the next two years and six per cent per annum on the par value thereof during the balance of the period of public control. Dividends upon the common shares shall be payable quarterly, but no dividends shall be paid upon such common shares in excess of the rates herein specified. The first payment shall be made at the expiration of six months from the commencement of public operation, and the total of the first three quarterly dividend payments shall be five per cent on the par value of the common stock.

Section 3. Section seven of said act is hereby amended by striking out the same and substituting therefor the following:—Section 7. The trustees shall on January 1, 1923, fix and put in operation the five cent fare as hereinbefore provided, which shall be applicable thereafter until the date when public management and operation shall terminate.

Sect. 4. Section fourteen of said act is hereby amended by striking out all after the word "proportion" in line seven thereof and substituting therefor the following:—to the population of the cities and towns in which said company is operating at the time of said payment, the population to be determined according to the latest state census,—so that said section as amended shall read as follows:—Section 14. In case the commonwealth shall be called upon to pay to the trustees or the company any amount under the provisions of sections eleven and thirteen, such amount with interest or other charges incurred in borrowing money for the purpose shall be assessed upon the cities and towns in which the company operates by an addition to the state tax next thereafter assessed in proportion to the population of the cities and towns in which said company is operating at the time of said payment, the population to be determined according to the latest state census.

Sect. 5. At the state election in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-two there shall be placed upon the ballot in the following cities and towns,—Arlington, Belmont, Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Newton, Somerville and Watertown,—the following question: Shall chapter —— of the acts of nineteen hundred and twenty-two, providing for a five cent fare upon the lines of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and for the making up of any deficit by general taxation, be accepted?

Sect. 6. If this act shall be accepted be a majority of all the voters voting thereon, it shall then be submitted to the Boston Elevated Railway Company and if accepted by said company, shall be in full force and effect on January first, nineteen hundred and twenty-three.

IMPROVEMENTS AT ARBORETUM.

Establishment of an extensive rose garden in the Arnold Arboretum, the construction of more walks and better roads and a greater use of the Parkman Fund in maintaining this notable portion of the Boston park system, have been the subject of conference between Mayor Curley and Professor Charles S. Sargent, the director on the part of Harvard University.

A rose garden such as Professor Sargent has in mind would require the expenditure of some $300,000. It would be modelled after that in Paris, and perhaps be carried out along lines much more extensive and interesting to flower lovers. Harvard University is in no position to finance so extensive a plan, and the City of Boston would not undertake it, except possibly by piecemeal, but Mayor Curley remarked, there is a fine opportunity for men of wealth to make even more notable the unrivalled beauty of this institution.

Mayor Curley has always believed that the Arnold Arboretum is not appreciated as it should be by the public of Boston, yet when he learned from Professor Sargent that in the past two weeks more than 70,000 persons had gone there to view the lilac display, one of the most varied in the world, he could not help expressing his surprise. He was also surprised to learn that Harvard is spending $60,000 a year for upkeep of the grounds, though the city, according to an arrangement entered into years ago, provides for the policing of the area and the maintenance of the roads and walks.

This arrangement, of which few persons are informed, puts the Arboretum, in many ways, in a position of unique independence. The Arboretum is a link in the park system, while remaining under the scientific control of the university. To secure this condition permanently the city took the required land, some 225 acres, the larger part of which was owned by the Bussey Institution, by right of eminent domain, immediately leasing back the whole of it to the university, with the exception of the land necessary for the public drives and walks, for the consideration of $1 and the term of 999 years, under an agreement that the city would build and maintain the roads and police the grounds and the university should continue the Arboretum as an open space for the development of trees and shrubs until the expiration of the lease.

The City of Boston has spent about $4,000 a year for the roads and walks, but the mayor will seek an appropriation of $6,000 this year from the Parkman Fund. In view of his interest in the Arboretum, stimulated by conferences with Professor Sargent, it is probable that a larger outlay from the city will be forthcoming as an aid in making the Arboretum of still greater attractiveness to the public.

FEES FOR ARCHITECTS.

The Mayor has approved the following agreements:

With O'Connell & Shaw, for architect's services in connection with field house at Christopher J. Lee Playground, South Boston. Fee, 6 per cent upon cost of all work.

With Harrison H. Atwood, for architect's services in connection with new bath house at Strandway, South Boston. Fee, 6 per cent upon cost of all work.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACT.

The Mayor has approved an extension of contract with the East Boston Coal Company, the Roxbury Coal Company and the Standard Coal Company for supplying anthracite coal to the public buildings and departments of the City of Boston. A communication from Superintendent Francis P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

City of Boston,
Supply Department.
May 10, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Under date of April 25, 1921, contracts were entered into between the City of Boston and the East Boston Coal Company, Roxbury Coal Company and the Standard Coal Company for supplying anthracite coal to the public buildings and departments of the City of Boston. Said contracts remained in force until May 1, 1922.

Permission is respectfully requested at this time to extend these contracts until July 1, 1922, as the retail price now prevailing for stove coal is $15 per ton and for egg and furnace $14.75 per ton, plus labor for delivering into bins, while the average prices of the contract expiring May 1, 1922, were as follows:

Furnace and egg coal, $14.01 per ton; stove coal, $14.28 per ton—delivered in the bins.

In addition to the saving shown in the price per ton we also have the advantage in this contract of the penalty and premium clause, which compels the contractor to meet specifications of the City of Boston, whereas if we bought in the open market at the present time the city would be unprotected in this particular.

In view of the advantages outlined above in the extension of these contracts, I respectfully request that the extension be made.

Respectfully yours,

Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved six claims against the city, in four of which no amounts were specified, and the other two aggregated $176 and are classified as follows:

Against the Fire Department, one, amounting to $125; against the Hospital Department, one, amounting to $51; against the Park and Recreation Department, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Police Department, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Public Works Department, two, in which no amounts were specified.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

EMPLOYMENT EXTENDED.

The Mayor has extended the time limit of the temporary employment of 59 teamsters in the Sanitary Service, Public Works Department, and 13 in the Street Cleaning Service, for a period of 30 days.

WILL SELL BOSTON FISH IN WEST.

The Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau has completed arrangements, through W. H. McMasters, to open a fish-selling campaign in the Middle West. O'Hara Brothers will initiate the shipments, with a car load of fresh haddock, to be delivered into the Chicago market on Thursdays of each week. Other cities will be added weekly, until the entire section is supplied with regular shipments. Commenting on this activity, Mayor Curley said:

"The reason for organizing the Commercial and Industrial Bureau was to get business for the City of Boston. One of our leading industries is the fish industry. On his recent trip to Chicago and the lake cities Mr. McMasters looked into the fish situation and found that Boston was not sending any fish into those big cities of the Middle West.

"They are depending entirely on the Great Lakes for fish and on Pacific Coast fish. By getting into touch with O'Hara Brothers, large operators in the Fish Pier, he found that fresh fish could be sent into Chicago for arrival on the fourth day without further ice or refrigeration, except that in its original packing at the pier. On price the Boston product will be able to compete with the lake fish and in quality there isn't any comparison. No fish can equal the product of the North Atlantic waters in quality.

"We will do everything possible to advertise the fish and see that the introduction into this new market is properly made through publicity. I hope in a short time to see a train load of fish leaving the Fish Pier every Monday for the Middle West. All that was needed to start this movement was the assurance from dealers that the fish would be sold, and now that we have this assurance the rest becomes a mere matter of business routine."

VANDALS IN PARKS.

Mayor Curley has communicated with Chairman Scannell of the School Committee requesting that lectures be given in the Boston public schools to stimulate greater interest among the children in trees, shrubs and grass plots upon public property.

The Park Department reports that much destruction is going on, perhaps from carelessness. In one section of the park system twenty-five pine trees were recently girdled by boys who had some use for the material. In other sections flowering shrubs have been denuded and grass plots so trampled upon that the grass will not grow.

OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL MASS.

For some years a reverent, religious custom has been developing in Boston, high in aspiration and beneficial in moral results, in the annual religious ceremonies observed in Fenway Park, under alternately Catholic and Protestant auspices and the occasions have always been marked by a large attendance and a deeply religious spirit.

This is the Catholic year in this annual ceremony and great preparations are being made to give the services in Fenway Park next Sunday the impressiveness such an occasion calls for. A beautiful altar has been specially constructed by Nardini, where the sacrifice of the Mass will be celebrated by Monsignor McGlinchey, the master of ceremonies being Angus J. MacNeil. His Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop will be present at the Mass which will be celebrated at 10.30 a. m.

Outside of its reverent and religious character, this annual ceremony has striven with marked success to give a memorial and military aspect to the celebration; and next Sunday in addition to the usual naval and military veteran bodies that have made this annual affair their very own, the Fifth United States Infantry, just home from service on the Rhine will attend, marching from their temporary quarters at the Army Base in South Boston to Fenway Park. The band of this historic regiment will furnish the necessary appropriate music for the solemn service. No regiment in the regular establishment has a more honorable and heroic history than the Fifth Infantry; it was commanded at one time by General Miles in the seventies; today Col. Harry E. Knight commands the regiment; and it would be difficult to find a more soldierly body of men in any army under the sun.

The services will be preceded by a parade of the various organizations participating in the ceremony. The headquarters of the chief marshal will be established in Dartmouth street at Commonwealth avenue and the organizations will report to Chief of Staff Thomas A. Kelley at that point.

Following is the program for the organization and formation of the parade at 9 o'clock as arranged by Capt. Vincent Breen, the chief marshal.

The First Division, consisting of Regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps, will form its base on Dartmouth street, right resting on Commonwealth avenue.

The Fifth United States Infantry will form on Dartmouth street, right resting on Commonwealth avenue no later than 9.15 a. m.

The Coast Artillery Corps, U. S. A., will form on Dartmouth street, right resting on left of Fifth United States Infantry, not later than 9.15 a. m.

Detail from the Navy Yard will form on Dartmouth street, right resting on Boylston street, not later than 9.15 a. m.

The Second Division, consisting of the Massachusetts National Guard will form on St. James avenue, right resting on Copley square, not later than 9.15 a. m., reporting their arrival to chief of staff.

The Third Division, consisting of the United Spanish War veterans will form on Dartmouth street, right resting on Huntington avenue, not later than 9.15 a. m. Camp commanders will report their arrival with colors to department chief of staff.

The Fourth Division, consisting of the American Legion, will form on Dartmouth street, right resting on left of Spanish War veterans. Post commanders will report their arrival with colors to Department Adjutant Leo A. Spillane.

The Fifth Division, consisting of Veterans of Foreign Wars, will form on Stuart street, right resting on Dartmouth street. Post commanders will report their arrival with colors to department chief of staff, not later than 9.15 a. m.

Organizations will be in column of squads at the station assigned ready to start at 9.25 a. m. The parade will start at 9.30 a. m. sharp.

The route of the parade is as follows: Commonwealth avenue to Brookline avenue, thence to Jersey street to Fenway Park, through large gate at first base entrance, thence to stations around the platform.

At close of the services the organizations in column of platoons will pass in front of the platform, where they will be reviewed by the chief marshal and staff, after which they will be automatically dismissed.

THE ONE-WAY STREET PROPOSAL.

The newspapers have recently given considerable attention to proposed new traffic regulations for Tremont street, and have called attention to the possibility of a thirty-day trial of a one-way rule on that street. This is the result of a public hearing given by the Board of Street Commissioners on the question of making Tremont street a one-way thoroughfare, at which time the larger firms doing business on that street, through their representatives, expressed opposition to the scheme.

The application of a one-way rule on Tremont street is not a new suggestion; it has been discussed, pro and con, for a long time and the fact that it is opposed by the Tremont street merchants should not be considered as conclusive on the question of its feasibility or advisability. The business men on the street are, naturally, most concerned about the effect of such a regulation on their own business, and there seems to be a general feeling that restricting traffic to one direction on the street would seriously interfere with them and take from their firms patronage which they now enjoy. They argue that many of their auto customers from the south and west would be discommoded by being forced to take a circuitous route to their stores—Boylston, Washington to Tremont, or Beacon, Park to Tremont—and they feel that trade intended for them would be diverted from their stores on this account. Tremont street, it is claimed, is free from traffic congestion, or, rather that there is not such congestion as to interfere with the movement of traffic. But it is interesting to note that suggestions have been made, some of which come from business men on the street, for the elimination of the parking privilege and for further widening of the street out of the Common land. It has also been objected that Washington street is overtaxed with vehicles now and could not care for the additional traffic which a one-way rule on the street would throw into it.

The same objections made against such a regulation for Tremont street — the same fears as to the injurious effect on the business of the firms located on the street —were urged against the adoption of the one-way rule for Washington street, and yet it is now generally conceded that the arrangement there has worked out admirably and it is very doubtful if anyone would suggest a return to the old order of things. Washington street very well illustrates the history of attempts to establish one-way regulations for important streets in all the larger cities. Invariably the attempt meets with opposition and just as often the experience proves the unreasonableness of the protest.

In the case of Tremont street a one-way rule would undoubtedly provide for an easier flow of traffic. The street, during certain hours on each week day, is crowded with vehicles of all descriptions. In addition to facilitating the movement of traffic it would largely reduce the chances of accidents to pedestrians, which is more or less of a menace under present conditions. The direction of travel is to be reversed on Pemberton square, so that vehicles may proceed over Beacon street, Somerset street and Pemberton square, thence by way of Cornhill to Adams square. Vehicles bound for the Tremont street stores, between Park and Boylston streets, could go by way of Beacon and Park streets, and this would allow of through traffic south or west bound going straight through on Tremont street. The one-way rule on the latter street would also eliminate right turns into that street from streets between Washington and Tremont streets, which now cause more or less confusion.

Tremont street today is responsible for practically all of the congestion in the shopping district at the present time. At Boylston and Tremont streets the traffic now goes in seven different directions, and a one-way Tremont street will eliminate a very dangerous crossing at this point. Traffic now going westerly from Washington to Tremont street, between School and Boylston streets, crosses all north-bound traffic when it goes south on Tremont street, and all traffic going east to Washington street from Tremont street, between School and Boylston streets, crosses all north-bound traffic also. This, in the opinion of the board, is responsible for the congestion now existing in that section of the city.

Devonshire street will also be a through one-way street for southbound traffic, connecting with Otis, Kingston and Albany streets. This would provide a continuous southbound street from Dock square to Broadway.

The final arrangement will provide for one-way traffic on the three streets, Tremont, Washington and Devonshire, in alternating directions, and, in the light of the experience on Washington street, the city is certainly justified in giving the proposed regulation for Tremont street a trial.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

BRAZILIAN TRADE ASSURED.

Business houses in Bahia, Brazil, through Mayor Curley, are pleading with Boston and New England merchants to do business with them direct rather than through New York agencies. The plea for direct business transactions came to the Mayor from the American consul, Thomas H. Bevan, who has given to Mayor Curley, in answer to the business survey sent out from the Commercial and Industrial Bureau, a resume of conditions for trade with Boston in that section of South America.

Consul Bevan has also supplied the Mayor with a list of the merchants in Bahia doing an export business as well as importers and the list of commodities which New England and Boston can best furnish to that country.

Among the commodities which find a ready sale in Bahia and surrounding territory are: Apples, beverages, baking powder, barley, breakfast foods, candy, chewing gum, breath perfumers, cold cream, cotton cloth, cream tartar, cornstarch, celluloid goods, canned goods, dry goods, dental goods, electrical supplies, flour, hosiery, leather and leather manufactures, lubricating oils, mirrors, milk, medical supplies, paint, paper, photo supplies, razors, safety razors and stroppers, seeds and plants, spices, smoking articles, talcum powder, toys and games. Consul Bevan has supplied the Mayor with from three to a dozen firms handling each of the articles enumerated.

In his letter telling of conditions in Bahia, Consul Bevan says:

"Cocoa and hides and skins are the principal commodities that are shipped from this port to the United States. It has been estimated that fully 50 per cent of these commodities, which are always shipped to New York, are subsequently sold to the chocolate manufacturers and tanneries of Boston.

"If the Boston merchants would buy direct from Bahia, they could save the commission paid the New York broker and the freight from New York to Boston, which runs into a considerable sum."

VETO.—REINSTATEMENT OF MICHAEL N. O'MEARA.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 12, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am returning herewith, without my approval, the resolution adopted by your honorable body on May 1 favoring legislation for the reinstatement of Michael N. O'Meara in the Fire Department.

The accompanying report of the Acting Fire Commissioner contains sufficient facts to justify the action here taken.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, May 8, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In response to your memorandum of May 3, 1922, in reference to the following resolve of the City Council,

"Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the reinstatement of Michael N. O'Meara in the Fire Department."

I would respectfully advise your Honor in this case, the same as in the others that have come before me, that in my opinion legislation of this character would be detrimental to the best interests of the City of Boston and the Fire Department.

Michael N. O'Meara was appointed to the Fire Department June 21, 1918, and resigned, "to accept another position," October 4, 1918, after serving in the department less than four months. I cannot find anything in his record of service to warrant special legislation in his behalf.

Since February, 1917, there have been approximately 130 other men, many of whom are veterans of the World War, who resigned from the Fire Department to better their conditions, and I am informed, because of the great number of applications for reinstatement, that it was necessary, in October, 1919, to adopt the policy that all future resignations would be accepted on the condition that the men would not be reinstated. It seems hardly fair that special legislation should be enacted in favor of men like O'Meara who left the department during the war to accept more lucrative positions, while veterans, now on the civil service list, were serving their country at one dollar per day.

If your Honor approves of special legislation for O'Meara you may be asked to do the same for any or all the many who resigned under the same conditions. In addition to this it would be a great injustice to men who are now on the eligible list for appointment to the Boston Fire Department. Many of these men are World War veterans, and have been waiting to be called into the fire service.

An order of this character, if approved, would establish a dangerous precedent which might cause much trouble to the Fire Department and result in considerable harsh criticism.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM J. CASEY,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF JOSEPH W. MURRAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 8, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, an order of your honorable body for the reinstatement of Joseph W. Murray, for the reasons as set forth in the appended communication from the Acting Fire Commissioner, William J. Casey.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, May 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In response to your memorandum of April 25, 1922, in reference to the following resolve of the City Council,

"Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the reinstatement of Joseph W. Murray as a member of the Fire Department of the City of Boston."

I would respectfully advise your Honor that in my opinion legislation of this character would be detrimental to the best interests of the City of Boston and the Fire Department.

A similar resolve was passed by the City Council February 21, 1921, in the interest of Murray and was not approved by Mayor Peters.

Joseph W. Murray was appointed to the Fire Department on July 20, 1914, and resigned February 25, 1917, to go to the Police Department. He left the Police Department September 9, 1919, during the policemen's strike. He is now thirty-seven years of age and has been out of the department a little over five years. I cannot find anything in his record of service in this department to warrant special legislation in his behalf. He is not a World War veteran.

Since Murray left the Fire Department there have been approximately 130 other men, many of whom are veterans of the World War, who resigned to better their condition, and I am informed, because of the great number of applications for reinstatement, that it was necessary in October, 1919, to adopt the policy that all future resignations would be accepted on the condition that the men would not be reinstated.

Aside from this it would be a great injustice to the men who have successfully passed the civil service examination and are now on the eligible list for appointment to the Boston Fire Department. Many of these men are World War veterans and have been waiting to be called into the fire service. If your Honor approves of special legislation for Murray you may be asked to do the same for any or all of the many who resigned under the same conditions.

An order of this character, if approved, would establish a dangerous precedent which might cause much trouble to the Fire Department and result in considerable harsh criticism.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM J. CASEY,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

VETO—PERMIT TO CHARLESTOWN STORAGE AND WAREHOUSE COMPANY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 10, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order passed by your honorable body on the 8th instant refusing to grant the permit to the Charlestown Storage and Warehouse Company for the keeping of oil and gasolene at 55 and 56 Beach street, Charlestown, for the reason that, in my opinion, the granting of this permit will result in the establishment of a new industry at this point and make possible a development that will add to the taxable value of this particular site without injury to adjoining property.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

RELEASE OF CITY LAND, NORTH END.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 15, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a communication from the Secretary, Board of Street Commissioners, requesting the release of any rights the city may have in a triangular lot of land at the southerly corner of Snow Hill street and Sheafe street, which was discontinued as a public way by an order approved by the Mayor October 30, 1914, and which was purchased by James A. Doherty I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
May 10, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—By an order of the Board of Street Commissioners, approved by the Mayor October 30, 1914, a portion of Snow Hill street, at the corner of Sheafe street, North End district, was discontinued as a public way.

This action was taken on the application of James A. Doherty, the owner of the estate abutting the portion so discontinued, who paid the City of Boston three hundred dollars ($300) for the addition to his holdings which he thus acquired. This parcel of land is shown on a plan attached hereto, contains approximately ninety-four (94) square feet, and was considered at the time of the discontinuance to be of no importance to the city so far as its use for street purposes was concerned.

Ever since that action was taken, the payment of three hundred dollars ($300) having been duly made, the Dohertys have relied on their reversionary rights establishing their title to this piece of land, but have recently discovered, in connection with a projected sale of their estate, that the prospective purchasers were unwilling to take a conveyance of the property unless they (the Dohertys) could establish their title to the discontinued parcel by a deed in regular form. This would have to run to them from the City of Boston, and I am directed to call the matter to your attention now for the purpose of suggesting a Council order authorizing the Mayor to execute and deliver such a deed.

The Board believes that this would be the proper thing to do under the circumstances, as the city was paid for whatever rights it had in the land at the time of the discontinuance, and because it would enable the Dohertys to make a sale of their entire estate, which they are anxious to do.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH A. SULLIVAN,
Secretary.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be authorized in the name and behalf of the city, to execute, for a nominal consideration, a deed in form satisfactory to the Law Department conveying to James A. Doherty all the rights, if any, the city has in a triangular lot of land at the southerly corner of Snow Hill street and Sheafe street, containing 94 square feet, more or less, said lot being a portion of Snow Hill street, discontinued as a public way by an order of the Board of Street Commissioners approved October 30, 1914.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

PURCHASE OF CITY LAND, WEST ROXBURY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 15, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a communication from the Boston Elevated Railway Company proposing to purchase from the city a portion of its land on Spring street, West Roxbury, for the purpose of establishing a loop at this point.

The parcel in question contains about 50,000 square feet and is a part of the old Parental School property, containing about 2,000,000 square feet.

In my opinion the city can well afford to dispose of this piece of land for the convenience of the public, and I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Board of Trustees,
Boston Elevated Railway Company,
Boston, May 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Public Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company desire to establish a loop at the end of the Spring street line so as to avoid public inconvenience and unnecessary expense in the shifting of trailers at the end of the route and for the improvement of the street railway service. The best location for such a loop is the land at the corner of Spring street and Charles river, which is part of a large tract of land belonging to the City of Boston. We would need about 50,000 square feet of land as shown on the plan inclosed. This parcel is at present very low and would require about 11 feet of filling to bring it up to a suitable grade. As the city has nearly 2,000,000 feet of other lands in their tract, it would not seem to be urgently necessary for the city to retain this parcel for other purposes. Inasmuch as it is in a most favorable location for street railway purposes, this company can afford to go to the expense of filling it.

Will you kindly advise me whether the city would be disposed to sell this parcel of land. I would greatly appreciate it also if you would indicate what you consider a fair value for the land, and if we think it is within reason I think we can meet pour price.

Very truly yours,
EDWIN DANA,
Gereral Manager.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized in the name and behalf of the city and by a deed in form satisfactory to the Law Department, to convey to the Boston Elevated Railway Company for a sum not less than twenty-five hundred (2,500) dollars, a parcel of land on the northerly side of Spring street at the Charles river, containing about 50,000 square feet, with such reservations as he may deem necessary for public access to the bank of the river and any public landing which is or may hereafter be established thereon.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

SALE OF WOODEN HOUSE, HYDE PARK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 12, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings relative to the sale of a wooden house, which is located on a plot of land at the junction of River and Winthrop streets, Hyde Park, taken for municipal purposes by an order approved January 16, 1922, and I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
May 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I wish to advise you that the Board of Street Commissioners took for municipal purposes a plot of land located at the junction of River and Winthrop streets, Hyde Park, Mass., and on this land is a wooden house which will have to be disposed of before the lot can be graded up.

In consideration of these facts I respectfully suggest that the same be disposed of by public auction and that the necessary permission be obtained as usual from the City Council.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be authorized to sell at public auction at a price not less than fifteen hundred (1,500) dollars a wooden house located on plot of land at the junction of River and Winthrop streets, Hyde Park, which was taken for municipal purposes by order approved January 16, 1922.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

DISCUSSION OF COAL SITUATION.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I would move a reconsideration of the vote whereby the report of the Fuel Commissioner, Mr. Hultman, to this Council was placed on file, hoping that the same will not prevail. I want to say that I understand that one of the bulletin boards has interpreted that report, as I think I do myself, as saying that there is very little hope, in his opinion, of showing that there is an agreement in the City of Boston to fix the price of anthracite coal. Last week I introduced the order asking Mr. Hultman to investigate the price of anthracite coal in the City of Boston. It was suggested by one of the councilors that we put some teeth in the investigation, referring the matter to the District Attorney of Suffolk County. I voted for an order to do that, finally. I was perfectly satisfied to put the teeth in it, as suggested by the councilor. So the next morning I was sitting in my office when the telephone rang and Sergeant Carey said that he wanted to see me and that he would come right down. I told him not to come down, but to wait right there, and I would go right up, which I did. When I got up there, the genial sergeant handed me a summons to appear forthwith before the grand jury. I was glad to do it, and did it. But you know, Mr. President, that among experienced attorneys, men who have been at the bar for some time, it is not the proper procedure to summon an attorney to appear before such a tribunal. The proper procedure is to ask him to come up and give the facts, not to issue a summons. That makes little difference, but it showed the attitude of the District Attorney at the outset, if not during the whole proceeding, toward me individually. However, I went into the grand jury room and was asked what I knew about the fixing of coal prices. I have no criticism whatsoever to make of the grand jury, and anything I may say is not intended to criticise that body in the slightest particular. They take the facts that are given to them, and make their report upon the facts presented by the District Attorney. The District Attorney is responsible for the facts presented and the manner in which they are presented, and for the material, the substance contained in the facts. I told the grand jury that in the City of Boston there was a fixed price for coal, that there was an entire absence of competition among the coal dealers, and I maintained that because of that basic fact there was an agreement to fix the price of coal. You all remember, Mr. President, the decision in the Pelletier case. You know, some people think you connot comment or say anything, or connot introduce any evidence in a court of law, about the proceedings in a grand jury investigation. That is not the law. The law is that if there are any irregularities in the grand jury room on the part of the District Attorney, then the indictment, if one is returned against any particular individual or individuals, may be set aside, as it was set aside, you will remember, in the case of Commonwealth v. Allen, the present Attorney General of the State of Massachusetts. In that case one of the assistant district attorneys had made a comment upon the evidence in response to a question that was put to him by a grand juror, and Mr. Justice Fessenden, following the decisions of the Commonwealth, said that the indictment in that case was null and void. Now, the District Attorney of Suffolk County, while I was testifying before the grand jury, saw fit to comment upon the evidence. He said that this was a matter for the federal government, that it was a matter concerning violation of the Sherman antitrust act. That, Mr. President, was improper. That, Mr. President, was not in conformity with the law as laid down in the decisions of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts. He also said this, when I said that the fact that there was a fixed price, that there was an entire lack of competition, was the best evidence that there was in existence an agreement to fix the price, the District Attorney then said, improperly, that that was what is known in rhetoric, if you will, as a "post hoc, propter quod." Then I said to the District Attorney, in the presence of the grand jury, that I didn't know that the District Attorney could comment on the evidence. That, Mr. President, is in the record. Well, the next day I was summoned before the grand jury, again. I don't know whether I was brought up on a summons—no, a summons was not issued this time. I was in the outer chamber and the District Attorney said to me, himself, "What did you say that I commented on the evidence for?" I said to him, "You did comment on the evidence, didn't you? You remember the Latin words you used?" He said, "No, I don't remember them." I said, "You know that I am a graduate of the Boston Latin School, like yourself, and," I said,, "they are in the record. The record will tell the story." He left me; he went in the grand jury room. I was summoned again—no, I was not summoned, not legally. I was asked then to step into the grand jury room again. I did so, and I was then interrogated by another assistant district attorney, Mr. Fielding, who asked me whether or not I had said that the District Attorney had commented upon the evidence. I said, "Yes, I said it, and you did, sir." He said, "It is not in the records." I said, "It ought to be, but I once called the attention of the official stenographer to the matter of whether or not I was going too fast, and it may be left out. I don't know." The District Attorney looked over the transcript of evidence, and he tossed it to his assistant district attorney, and he said, "I don't see it; it is not there." Mr. President, if those Latin words that I have quoted here are not in that transcript of evidence that I gave before that grand jury, showing that the District Attorney did comment upon the evidence in the course of that inquiry, then I am absolutely wrong. Some one has said that I am a candidate for District Attorney. That is true; I am. It may be my veracity against the District Attorney's but if the Latin words where he comments upon the evidence as I gave it to the grand jury are not present in the transcript of the evidence, if, I say, in a sworn transcript of the evidence, or a transcript sworn to by the official stenographer, setting forth a full account of what was said, those Latin words do not appear, tending to say that because a result exists the reasoning is sound or the causes are there, namely, "post hoc, propter quod," Mr. President, I would immediately send to the public press a statement saying that I retire from the contest for District Attorney of Suffolk County. Mr. President, the District Attorney did comment upon the evidence, and I am willing to maintain it to my dying day; and I know that I can safely dare the District Attorney to submit to me a copy, a sworn copy, sworn to by the official stenographer, showing his comments upon the evidence. I maintain that that sort of procedure before a grand jury on the part of a District Attorney is improper, illegal and absolutely wrong. I still maintain, Mr. President, that I am not in any wise criticising the conduct of the grand jury. The grand jury was very courteous to me, and after my remarks evidently, according to the press reports, voted to inquire into the question of whether or not there was a conspiracy. I went up again to see the assistant district attorney, Mr. Fielding, at his request, and I told him that the press had commented upon the fact that it took only twenty minutes to discover—or, to get it correctly, that the press had said that the hearing before the grand jury took only twenty minutes. He said to me, "How can we prove this case before the grand jury?" I told him that I was not there to offer him any advice but, inasmuch as he had asked me, I would say that I would follow the suggestions as made by the city councilors. I said to him, "You as a lawyer ought to know what is contained in the reports of the income taxes of these various corporations." He said, "We cannot get the income taxes." I told him I didn't care whether he could get the income taxes themselves, but I told him if he could follow the line of the income tax and get these facts—namely, the volume of business done by each of these corporations, the amount of profit made by each, the amount that was charged up for depreciation and the cost of doing business,—that that was the only intelligent way, in reply to his question, "How can the thing be done?" that he could do it. And I told Mr. Fielding that he ought to do it. I don't know, Mr. President, that it was done. Now, there is an agreement in the City of Boston for fixing the prices of coal. I said also, Mr. President, when I was in the second time, when I was being interrogated by the District Attorney as to whether or not he had made any comment on the evidence as I was putting it in, which I maintained to be improper and illegal, that I would like to tell the grand jury some added facts if they wanted me to do so. But I didn't have a chance. I don't want to say that they were not willing to have me do so. They probably were, but my engagements in court made me late one morning, so that I got up there about quarter past eleven, and Mr. Fielding told me he had made the appointment for half past nine. There might have been a little difference in the time for the appointment and the time when I was able to arrive, but I thought the grand jury might sit at any time. However, I did not present any further facts. I do maintain, however, that there is an agreement to fix the price of coal in Boston; that there is an agreement to fix it down there in Pennsylvania, to be sure, and that there is an agreement here. I want to point out the fact that the Transcript, in reporting the investigation that was suggested as one that, if conducted by District Attorney O'Brien, would put some teeth into the thing, said, "District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien's coal-price-fixing grand jury inquiry occupied about twenty minutes." The Boston Globe said, "The hearing before the grand jury lasted less than half an hour, and District Attorney O'Brien announced that on Thursday he would make a public statement as to what occurred and results." But before I had any chance to go before the Grand Jury again the public statement was in the press and out on the street, the statement issued by the District Attorney saying that he found no—I withdraw that statement; the statement that was issued by the grand jurors on the evidence that they got. Again, Mr. President, I make no criticism of the grand jury, none whatsoever. As I say, they treated me with the utmost courtesy, and what they got they got from the District Attorney. But the press of Boston, now getting away from the grand jury proceedings, comment upon the question of whether or not there is a coal conspiracy or a coal agreement to fix prices in Boston. The Traveler said, "Coal plot 'not here.' After a brief examination of Mr. Ford, leading coal dealers and others, the grand jury reports," and so forth. It then goes on to say that "perhaps the grand jury should have taken a little more time and summoned a few more witnesses before dismissing the case." The grand jury, of course, could not take any more time, could not consider evidence that was not given to them. The grand jury can do no more than to consider the testimony that is given to them. That is their sworn duty, and that is what they did. The Boston Telegram writes an illuminating editorial upon the result of what District Attorney O'Brien did. It is well, in the interest of the record, that this should be read:

"It has been discovered after careful research for a few days that there is no coal price-fixing in Boston. That will cause great rejoicing in the homes of the poor as well as in the mansions of the rich. Almost without enthusiasm"—quoting always from the newspaper,—"the grand jury for Suffolk County had revealed the fact that, always by the merest accident, the big and little retailers of coal fix the prices of their various grades at the same figures, that there is not a difference of a cent a ton between them, and that the public, if it desires relief, must seek it at remote points. Now that the retailers have been exonerated, let the conservators of the public's interests make a thorough job of it. If they should travel for a week or less they would probably learn that the beginning of trouble with the coal traffic is the arbitrary conduct of the breaker boys at the mines, who refuse to work unless coal is retailed in Boston at certain uniform figures. Moreover, they might investigate the report, heard along the waterfront, that, if one retail dealer in Boston should sell coal for 2 cents a ton less than any other dealer, every coal barge chef would strike and thereby starve the crews en voyage. It is enough, perhaps, to learn that there are no coal-fixers in Boston, but it must have been an oversight on the part of the grand jury when it failed to report that the slate and stone sold in Boston as coal is far better for fuel purposes than the best of coal. Let us all rejoice that there are no coal price fixers in Boston. It helps to make easier the burden of substantial coal bills."

That editorial says that if one retailer in Boston should sell coal for 2 cents a ton less than any other dealer, every coal barge chef would strike. You know, one time in Boston a man named McGovern, of the McGovern Coal Company, had a lot of coal on hand, and cut the price from 50 to 75 cents a ton, and started to sell it. He didn't do it very long. He was told immediately to bring up the price, or he would go out of business, and he did it. That was an actual occurrence, and I remember the press reports at the time. By the way, in regard to Mr. Storrow, let me say publicly that I never said in this chamber that Storrow was connected with the Metropolitan Coal Company, because I didn't know that he was and couldn't prove it. So far as I know, he is not connected with the coal company. All I did know was that his associate member of the firm of Lee, Higginson & Company—namely, Henry Lee Higginson—had a considerable interest in coal and had thousand of shares in coal companies and coal mining companies, at the time of his death. The probate records show that, It is too long a story to go into as a matter of record in this Council, but I do want to deny vehemently having made that remark. I saw a statement in the press from Mr. Storrow, saying that I made that remark. I did not. I never made that remark in this chamber at that time or before or since. But when Storrow was investigating coal prices three years ago he showed that there was a difference in the profit per ton received by coal dealers running from 25 cents to $1.14 a ton on the prices at that time. I don't know the volume of business done by the men making $1.14 a ton. I could never find that out. But suppose it was millions of tons that were being sold here in Boston on that basis, and it is quite likely that it would be the coal dealers who could do business on a more economical scale who would be the ones that would make $1.14 a ton. They would naturally be the ones who did the most business. Now, Mr. President, the books and records of the coal dealers will show these figures. If there is such a condition here now as there was in 1917, when dealers were making from 25 cents to $1.14 a ton, why is it with those differences in the amount of profit that the price for which the coal was sold was the same? If there was that difference then, because of their different costs of doing business, and the price charged was the same, of course there must have been a combination then as there must be a combination now if there is a difference in the profit per ton received by different dealers. There must be a combination, a fixing of prices per ton of coal. That seems self-evident to me, and I maintain that if the District Attorney of Suffolk County does his duty to the public, which he ought to do, he ought to get these facts. I am not going to allow the District Attorney of Suffolk County to maintain that there is not an agreement here to fix the prices of coal, because everybody in Boston knows that, with different companies doing business and with different overhead charges, everything being different, the prices charged would not be the same unless there was an understanding. In other words, we have at the time I speak of these companies with their different costs of doing business, and one company making only 25 cents a ton profit and another company making $1.14 a ton profit. In the name of common sense, if there is a fixed price under those circumstances per ton of coal, it must be arrived at by agreement and not by accident; and if Hultman cannot do a better job than to say that there has been no coal price fixing in Massachusetts, if he has said that in his report, which seems to be the interpretation of the press, and if that interpretation proves to be the final one, then he ought to get out and allow some one who is competent to do the job.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I desire also to speak on the motion to reconsider, hoping that the same will not prevail. I want to be fair with the member opposite. I thought at the last meeting that the proper tribunal to investigate this question was the District Attorney. I voted for the gentleman's order to have the Hultman investigation, and then I voted for my order to have the District Attorney investigate. I don't know how far Hultman went, but I may say that he has not disappointed me a particle. I do know how far the District Attorney went by the statement made by the member opposite. Of course, there is not a member of the body, I suppose, who thought for a moment that the District Attorney would depend on the councilor who offered the order and who made a speech here at the last meeting for official information in regard to the matter, for his entire information in regard to the subject of coal price fixing. The District Attorney called on Coun. Ford immediately, and the councilor appeared before him and furnished him with what facts he had. I think the proper way for the District Attorney to have proceeded would have been to get busy with his organization—as I suppose he would have power to do under the law—and start in with a real investigation of the situation, gum-shoeing around and getting some knowledge of the matter, rather than sending for a few people, I presume, and asking them the stereotyped question, "Is there any coal price fixing?" and then calling on Coun. Ford to come and present the evidence he had. I believe, as well as I believe I am standing here, that there is fixing of coal prices in Boston. I cannot prove it. But Coun. Ford has suggested a means of getting some light, if the District Attorney wants to get knowledge of the subject. Coun. Ford tells how Mr. McGovern was dealt with, when he tried to reduce the price of coal, how he was politely told to raise it and did raise it. Of course, information can be obtained if it is sought in the right way. If the Police Department are going to investigate rumors of crime, they do not send for one man who happens to make a statement as to what appears to him to be the condition, and let it go at that. They don't depend on anything of that sort, but they get hold of whoever they can who has information in regard to the matter, have them tell their stories, and then they base their action on the result of the information they obtain in that way. I think it is farcical to proceed in any such way as was followed in this matter. I think the District Attorney could have started to work and got in possession of the books of different coal companies, if he has the power, and I think he probably does have the power. I will simply say this, that I am disappointed with the result of the action under our order, as I believe nothing of any importance has been attempted by the District Attorney. I criticised Coun. Ford in a roundabout way for using the coal situation as a vehicle for shoving his candidacy along. I don't blame him for trying to help along his campaign, but I did criticise him for kidding us, in the language of the street, trying to make us believe something could be done in the way he suggested, and I have a right now to criticise the District Attorney for using the vehicle he did in an unsuccessful attempt to find out somethng for the purpose of boosting his candidacy, using the funds of the county to retard justice in his candidacy for the same office. I believe that the District Attorney of Suffolk County, or any live district attorney, must have power to do some real, effective work in a matter of this kind. He must have some money for it in his department and must be able to adopt methods by which he can find out something of importance concerning these local coal bills. When a band of large coal dealers have a certain fixed price for certain grades of coal within a certain zone, there is something mighty peculiar about it, because otherwise the same thing would hold concerning beef, pork and flour. You can buy flour, pork and beef by shopping around, in some places cheaper than in others, and the same thing ought to be possible with coal. I only speak at this time in order to try to be fair with the councilor opposite (Coun. Ford). I am satisfied that the District Attorney did not go the limit, but used his office for the purpose of retarding the candidacy of the councilor opposite, rather than to bring about some beneficial results from the inquiry.

The motion to reconsider was lost.

SIDEWALK, HUMBOLDT AVENUE.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Humboldt avenue, from Walnut avenue to Seaver street, Ward 16, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

CONFIRMATION OF EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Under unfinished business, President BRICKLEY called up the following:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor May 8, 1922, viz.:

1. George F. Deleskey, John W. Finnegan and James A. McKenna, to be Constables.
2. Charles Rabinovitz, to be a Weigher of Coal.
3. David Kaplan, to be a Measurer of Leather.
4. James E. McGonagle, Jr., Francis A. Trayers and William A. Shutt, to be Weighers of Goods.

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots 8, yeas 7, nays 1, and the appointments were confirmed.

President BRICKLEY called up, under unfinished business, the following:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor, April 17, 1922, of the following-named persons to be Constables.

5. Powhatan Bagnall.
6. Frank I. Cohen.
7. James B. Cushing.
8. Frank Shaw.
9. Harry Van Dam.

President BRICKLEY—If there is no objection, we will take them up collectively.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I simply want to say that at the last meeting of the Council Mr. Harry Van Dam and myself engaged in an argument over the veracity of a statement I made. I want to say that I have today brought in the notice that I told him I had, which was sent out through his office, and for the purposes of the record I would like to read it. It says:

"Office of H. H. Van Damm, Special Constable,
1 Boylston Street, Boston.
March 31, balance..............................$7 40
Special notice 2 00
—— $9 40
My dear Mr. ——"

and I have scratched out the man's name——

"I am taking the liberty to inform you that this bill including poll tax and charges must be paid before May 1. We believe we have trifeled with you enough therefore after the above date a warrant will be issued for your arrest and you may be taken into custody on sight.

Respectfully,"

and there isn't any name signed to it, but the initials in the corner of the stenographer and the one who dictated to the stenographer. The initials are K, and then HV, which means to my mind H. Van Dam. It appears to me that this was taken out of a file. I shall be glad to let Mr. Van Dam look it over and see what he has to say about it. (Showing paper to Mr. Van Dam.)

Mr. HARRY VAN DAM (after examining paper)—I will simply say that this is not from me or from my office. That is the statehent that I made last week. The only notice that has ever gone out from my office is the one right here (showing another form to the Council) and no form other than that has gone out. That is the copy I got from the City Collector, and no other form has gone out from my office. Any form sent out would be on my letterhead and not on a piece of scrap paper.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I don't consider that this is a piece of scrap paper, and I don't consider that any such notice as that could be sent out unless it was sent out from his office. In fact, I remember that the envelope which came in connection with that was from Mr. Van Dam's office. Now, I don't know whether Mr. Van Dam sent this thing out or not. Of course, I have no knowledge as to that. But I do know that his name and address are on it, and I do know that one of the men who was delinquent in paying a poll tax received it. I also know that he brought it into me, and I brought it to the City Collector's office. I showed it to Mr. Hutchinson down there and he has made a notation on it, and I also showed it to the Acting City Collector at that time, and when he saw it he said, "Throw it out," which he did. I don't know where it came from, but in my opinion the evidence is that it came from Mr. Van Dam's office.

Mr. VAN DAM—In the first place, the name is wrong, is spelled wrong, and in the second place, I have no middle initial. This says "Harry H."

Coun. LANE—You haven't no middle initial?

Mr. VAN DAM—No, sir. This letter didn't come from me. I have no clerk and stenographer, and no man sent out any such notice from my office but myself. Then, it hasn't got any signature on it. If I send out a letter I will at least sign it, and if I send out a letter it will be on that particular form right there (referring to the other form). I have never used that form. I have no loose leaves in my office, and have no use for loose leaves.

President BRICKLEY—We will take up these numbers on the calendar separately, first acting on No. 5. The committee will be Coun. Gilbody and Walsh.

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots 8; yeas 5, nays 3, and the appointment was confirmed.

President BRICKLEY—We will now take up the question of confirmation of No. 6 (Frank I. Cohen). I will appoint the same committee.

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots 7, yeas 3, nays 4, and the appointment was declared rejected. (See later.)

President BRICKLEY—We will now take up No. 7 (James B. Cushing).

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots 8; yeas 6, nays 2, and the appointment was confirmed.

President BRICKLEY—We will now take up No. 8, and I will appoint the same committee. (Frank Shaw.)

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots, 8; yeas 5, nays 3, and the appointment was confirmed.

President BRICKLEY—We will next take up

No. 9, and I will appoint the same committee. (Harry Van Dam.)

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots 8; yeas 5, nays 3, and the appointment was confirmed.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I now rise to move that we reconsider our action on No. 6 (Frank I. Cohen).

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I second the motion.

Coun. MORIARTY—I rise to make the motion for this reason, that I feel that I am responsible for the agitation in regard to the constables. I believe I started it in 1919, and I did it with a certain feeling in the matter, and I have that same feeling today. I have gone along and voted "no" on the confirmation of every constable who serves civil warrants. If after my work since 1919 I have done no better than to stop one man, I feel that, while I am still going to continue my fight on the constables, I don't like to see one man picked out. I felt today that out of the five men before us for confirmation we should get at least three. I want to say that I don't believe Van Dam is a fit person to be a constable; neither do I think Shaw is a fit man to be a constable; neither do I think that Cohen is a fit man to be a constable; neither do I think that James B. Cushing is a fit person to be a constable; and neither do I think Mr. Bagnall is a fit person to be a constable acting for the City of Boston. But I don't think it is fair—and I am criticising myself as well as the other five members who voted against Cohen—for us as a body to single out my man. I feel that we should reconsider and approve of Mr. Cohen. I have had information come to me since the approval of other constables by us that many of the men we approved have literature and signs on their door indicating that they are detectives, also. I had a slip handed to me today showing that a man who came here and said that he was only a constable and who had been approved by us, testified in the divorce court against a certain man, acting in the matter not only as a detective but as a constable in the City of Boston. I feel now as I felt in 1919, I feel the same as I did a week ago, I feel the same as I did in talking to Cohen on the outside, that it was needless to waste any time talking to him, that there was nothing he could say that would change my attitude as far as constables as a whole are concerned. I think that Shaw here last Monday and a week ago last Monday, even under oath, absolutely lied when he told us that he carried a gun in the small hours of the morning, two or three o'clock, at his work, and then changed his testimony; and I believe we should not vote in a way that will allow Shaw or any other constable to carry a gun and a club and use them when they serve warrants, as they see fit. We have heard the language quoted by Coun. Donoghue, when he asked that confirmation of Constable Van Dam be held up, and I will repeat those words in the notices which constables send out:

"We believe we have trifled with you enough; therefore after the above date a warrant will be issued for your arrest and you may be taken into custody on sight."

Why, the first notice that they sent out notified those it was sent to that they already had the warrant, and this is either the second or the third one, and for being put to some bother and because of trifling for a short time, they tack on an extra compensation. However, I feel that if we are not able to get more than one of them, Cohen, so far as Cohen is concerned, he is as good as any of them. That doesn't mean anything. I can say that I think he is as bad as the lot, because I don't think any of them are any good, and I don't think a real man would take the job, I don't think it is a man's job. I think it is a copper's job, and I think anybody who uses his office as a constable is nothing but a spy, a trimmer, or any name that can be applied to him. But I do feel that it is not a fair proposition for this body to pick out one man and therefore, I move reconsideration on No. 6.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I hope reconsideration will prevail. It is unfortunate that one man should be picked out of all the number to be denied his commission. I want to repeat briefly what I said last week, that there is not a single man holding a constable's commission in Boston, in my opinion,—and my opinion cannot be shaken—but what would do detective's work if it was made profitable to him to do it. There is no doubt about it. The moment they start out as constables they have to become detectives, even in order to serve their writs, to hand their writs to the individuals. It is detective's work, pure and simple, with all of them. That is what goes with the job. I hope reconsideration will prevail.

Reconsideration of the rejection of the appointment prevailed, and the question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Gilbody and Walsh. Whole number of ballots 8; yeas 7, nays 1, and the appointment was confirmed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. MORIARTY moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 4.14 p. m., on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, May 22, at two o'clock p. m.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 31.

It has been brought to my attention by the commanding officer of Division 19 that on Sunday last Patrolman Walter C. Sumner of that division performed an exceedingly meritorious piece of police work. On the morning in question, notice had been received at the station to be on the lookout for a stolen automobile bearing Rhode Island numbers, the operator of which was a dangerous man and had fired two shots from his revolver at a Fall River police officer in passing through that city. By his vigilance and presence of mind, Patrolman Sumner succeeded in finding and stopping the car, and at the point of his revolver, placed the operator under arrest.

In recognition of this excellent service, I hereby grant to Patrolman Sumner one day's leave of absence from duty with pay, this day off to be arranged by the commanding officer of the division.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

Herbert A. Wilson,
Commissioner.

CALLS ATTENTION TO HARVARD BRIDGE MENACE.

The following report has been received from Engineer John E. Carty of the Bridge and Ferry Division regarding the present condition of Harvard Bridge.

Public Works Department, Bridge and Ferry Division.

May 22, 1922.

To the Commissioner of Public Works.

Harvard Bridge was built in 1887-91 and was opened to travel September 1, 1891. The design was made before the days of electric cars and before modern heavy motor trucking was thought of. As built, the bridge is composed of fixed and suspended spans on the approaches to the draw span. The roadway width is 51 feet except at the draw span where the width varies up to 34 feet 6 inches.

The bridge, of course, was not designed for electric cars and today the Boston Elevated Railway Company is operating very heavy center entrance cars over the structure. In addition to this there is a very great amount of motor traffic and some very heavily loaded motor trucks going across the bridge. When built the bridge was of very light construction and it is very difficult to build a solidly constructed floor as the cost would be so much that it would be advisable to build instead a new bridge.

As it is today the ironwork is in fairly good condition with perhaps the necessity of some few repairs. It is also probable that while the ironwork is at present in good condition, that with the increasing loads of electric cars and motor trucks the riveted joints will begin to work loose and require repairs. It must also be remembered that ironwork in this locality will need painting every seven or eight years; in fact the bridge should be painted in the very near future as the last job of painting was done in 1911.

This type of bridge, consisting of fixed and suspended spans, is such that any traveling load causes an excessive vibration and due partly to this fact and partly to lightness of floor it is almost impossible to keep the surface in good condition. The old fashioned type of sheathing is out of the question on account of the annual expense. Wood block has been tried twice on the bridge and has failed and the present type of pavement is shaking to pieces under the traffic. The loading at times is so heavy that the under plank is broken and it seems to be impossible to hold the under plank to the wooden joists or stringers which support it; in fact some of these have been broken under the traffic.

The most serious fault to be found with the bridge today is the condition of the flooring, which even if spiked over and over again will work loose. The condition of the draw span floor is similar. The floor span here consists of the old-fashioned 2-inch spruce on top of the under plank and this spruce lasts but a very short time after being laid, with the result that constant attention is also required to keep the floor of the draw span in safe condition.

The metal fencing along the bridge is also rusting out and will need entire replacing within the near future. The wooden sidewalks require constant attention to keep them in proper condition. The machinery of the draw span, while it is not used very much, is in such shape that repairs will be needed in a very short while.

In addition to the normal cost of repairs, there is also the cost of maintaining six drawtenders on this bridge for a very small number of openings; the cost of the drawtending service amounting to about $9,500 per year.

As the loads over this bridge and the number of vehicles constantly increase in weight and number, it is going to be increasingly difficult to keep the roadway surface in good condition and the cost of repairs is going to mount higher and higher and every few years there is going to be a very large job, with heavy cost, for almost complete renewal of the floor.

There are two elements of danger which have not been mentioned, one being the very shallow curb over which vehicles when operating at high speed or when they skid or are bumped by another vehicle are apt to climb and go through the fence and then go overboard. The other element of danger consists in the approaches to the draw span. As mentioned above, the original width on most of the bridge is 51 feet and narrows to 34 feet 6 inches at the draw span, so that at times automobiles approaching on the approach spans at a high rate of speed, driven by men who are not familiar with the locality, have got jammed in the narrow approach to the draw and have crashed into the gates or into the hand wheels for operating the end lifts.

While it would be possible at some considerable expense to change the sidewalk and raise the curb, it is impossible to remedy the condition of the draw span while the present structure is kept.

Respectfully yours,

John E. Carty,
Division Engineer.

EXTENSION OF LIBRARY SERVICE.

Mayor Curley has advised the trustees of the Public Library that the demand for branch libraries is general in character throughout the city where none exist at present, and that, in his opinion, the proper solution of the problem lies in the more extended use of the public schools, rather than in a building construction program beyond the power of the city to undertake. He further declared that it is possible, in each section or in each ward, where no library or reading room exists, to establish one in some public school building, provided the school authorities are agreeable.

Dr. Alexander Mann, president of the Library Trustees, declares that the Boston Public Library is sending to practically all of the schools deposits of books for the use of the pupils. Whether this use could be extended to the general public is, of course, a question for later determination.

Mayor Curley stated that if the school buildings could be used for the purpose suggested it should be possible to serve in a greater measure the entire public, provide a more general use for the schools, develop to a larger degree the reading habit, and accomplish these ends without materially increasing the cost of serving the reading public.

An appeal from citizens of the Mt. Hope section of West Roxbury for a branch library and reading room led Mayor Curley to suggest to the trustees of the Boston Public Library the use of school buildings, so that every section of Boston may have a privilege for which there is continuous demand. The trustees will consider the project.

The library system comprises the central library in Copley square, sixteen branch libraries, including that just opened on Centre street, West Roxbury, and fourteen reading rooms, all of which contain deposits of books. It has always been the pride of the trustees that the library service to citizens of the city is surpassed by that in no large municipality. The trustees receive a number of requests every year for the establishment of branches or reading rooms, all of which are carefully examined.

The latest branch to be opened is that in West Roxbury, for which all classes of citizens joined in the appeal. The other branches are in Brighton, Charlestown, Codman square, Dorchester, East Boston, Hyde Park, Jamaica Plain, North End, Roslindale, Roxbury, South Boston, South End, Upham's Corner, Warren street, West End. The branch circulation has increased from 1,776,745 in 1916 to 2,129,407 last year.

It is interesting to note that between the Central Library and the thirty stations there is a daily exchange of books and cards whereby persons living in outlying districts may draw books from the Central Library without the necessity of going there in person. The delivery or deposit of books is also undertaken in 193 public and parochial schools, thirty-six institutions and fifty-nine fire company houses.

REVISION OF TRAFFIC.

After extended consideration and a final public hearing at which no opposition was registered, the Board of Street Commissioners will shortly revise traffic regulations so as to abolish the open-air mart in the center of State street between Commercial street and Atlantic avenue and restrict this territory as an automobile parking space for the accommodation of members of business firms in the immediate vicinity and their patrons.

Chairman John H. Dunn explained that in the past few years practises have developed there that were offensive to pedestrians and to those employed in offices and shops looking out upon the mart. Here farmers used to auction their produce and express trucks swapped loads after having collected parcels and cases of goods at market district shops and stores.

Captain Hoppe of the Police Traffic Squad pointed out that unless an hour rule were fixed, some selfish persons would undoubtedly take advantage of the opportunity to secure all-day parking privileges, thus cheating late comers of good claims from a chance to park for even an hour.

George W. Bentley, owner of the parcel, 192 State street, hailed the change as a great boon to the entire commercial neighborhood and praised the Street Commission for its good judgment in making this and other needed changes in the regulations.

Chief John O. Taber of the Fire Department wished that, when those with automobiles parked in State street hear engines coming in response to a nearby alarm, they would at once go to their cars, to be ready to move them at once as the firemen may wish.

State street property owners and commercial firms originally proposed the change, which will be greatly beneficial to them and will do away with objectionable features of the existing arrangement.

Chief John O. Taber and District Chief E. J. Shallow of the Fire Department indorsed as satisfactory a proposal that, in future, automobilists shall be privileged to park their cars back to back in the center of the street, leaving a twenty-five-foot channel between their front wheels and the curb, through which up-an-down street traffic will have adequate room to navigate.

Capt. Bernard Hoppe of the Traffic Squad suggested that the parking privilege be restricted to one hour and the presumption is that tags will be given each person parking there—perhaps red in the forenoon and blue in the afternoon. Captain Hoppe thinks that about 160 automobiles may be accommodated altogether at this point, and is confident that this innovation will greatly relieve existing parking conditions in Exchange, Kilby and Water streets and all nearby thoroughfares.

Asked by Commissioner John O'Callaghan for any suggestion regarding other parking place changes he might have in mind, Chief Taber proposed that the parking privilege in Boylston street be allowed on the Common side, instead of on the business side, as now.

There are no hydrants on the Common side and parked vehicles do sometimes interfere with department operations on the business side of this highway.

The Street Commission took both matters under advisement and affirmative rulings are foreshadowed.

INCREASING EXPORTS.

Grain shipments have so increased that they are now being made out of the Port of Boston at the rate of more than 100,000 bushels a week. The banner week of the season thus far was reached on the 1st instant, when the steamship "Winifredian," of the Leyland Line, sailed from the Hoosac docks of the Boston & Maine road with a cargo of 223,532 bushels.

In addition to her cargo of wheat out of Boston she is also taking 400 tons of general cargo and 903 head of cattle for Liverpool. Last week the "Meltonian" sailed with 50,551 bushels of oats while other ships have left here with smaller shipments as ballast cargo.

Among the other ships departing recently with large consignments of grain from the West were the steamship "Nitonian," with 80,000 bushels, the "Sachem," with 80,000 bushels, the steamship "Digby," the "Western Plain," the "'Nord Africaine" and the "'Mississippi." Since the agitation of Mayor Curley for grain business for the port began there have been shipped more than a million bushels.

In commenting on this increasing grain shipments Mayor Curley said:

"The shipping of this great cargo of grain from Boston in the teeth of the 'differential' and despite the melancholy outpourings of our professional commercial pessimists is a proof of the fact that when shippers and shipmen get together in days of competition the Port of Boston will get her share of international business.

"Boston is coming back as a factor in international commerce, coming strong, and it is time for the crepe hangers to leave the mourners' bench and take a vacation."

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 45.

I. MEMORIAL FIELD SERVICE.

The Acting Fire Commissioner and the Chief of Department wish to compliment the members of the Fire Department who participated in the memorial field service at Fenway Park on Sunday, May 28, 1922.

Their deportment and excellent appearance on that occasion was such as to reflect great credit on the department, and the favorable comment by the citizens of the city should be taken as an indication of their appreciation and approval.

II. BONFIRES.

The Commissioner of Public Safety has issued instructions that owing to the recent large losses from fires in the Commonwealth, you are hereby requested not to grant any permits for bonfires to celebrate any event during the weeks that include the seventeenth of June and the fourth of July of this year.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner,

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

DEATH OF SAMUEL CARR.

Samuel Carr, vice president of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library, and since 1893 one of the trustees of the Frederick L. Ames estate, and widely identified with banking interests, died upon the 29th instant at his home, 403 Commonwealth avenue, this city, following an illness of several months.

Mr. Carr was the son of the late Samuel and Louisa (Trowbridge) Carr and was born in Charlestown November 18, 1848. His ancestors on both his father's and mother's side came to this country in the early days of its settlement. He began his education in Charlestown and finished at the Newton High School, his parents having removed to West Newton in 1862.

Immediately upon his graduation Mr. Carr entered the Shoe and Leather National Bank, of which his father was cashier, as corresponding clerk. He continued there as clerk and as assistant cashier until 1878 when he became cashier of the National Hide and Leather Bank, which position he held until 1882. He was elected president of the Central National Bank in 1882, and in March of the following year he was made confidential secretary to the late Frederick L. Ames, a large capitalist, and at that time one of the largest private real estate owners in Boston. He remained with Mr. Ames until his death in September, 1893, and thereafter in accordance with the terms of Mr. Ames' will acted as one of the executors and trustees. He was also trustee of the Oliver Ames estate.

Mr. Carr had extensive business interests, and he was represented on almost as many boards of directors as any man in Boston. He was the trustee of the Ames Real Estate Trust; a director in the American Agricultural Chemical Company, American Sugar Refining Company, Ames Shovel and Tool Company, Ames Shovel and Tool Company of Texas, Boston Consolidated Gas Company and Boston Elevated Railway Company; a trustee of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank; a trustee of the Boston Real Estate Trust; a director of the Calaveras Copper Company and the Dallas Electric Corporation; trustee of the East Omaha Land Trust, Embankment Land Company, New England Fuel and Transportation Company, Pray Building Trust, Factory Buildings Trust and Massachusetts Gas Companies; director of the Metropolitan Storage Warehouse Company, New England Coal & Coke Company, Old Colony Trust Company, Union Copper Mining Company, First National Bank of Easton, United Electric Securities Company and Workingmen's Loan Association.

He was always deeply interested in music. For twenty years up to April, 1904, he was organist and choir director at the Old South Congregational Church. He presided at the organ there for the last time on Easter Sunday, 1904, when one of the numbers given was an Easter hymn of his own composition, "Break O'er the Earth, Thou Glad Prophetic Morning." He had long been chairman of the music committee of the Old South Church, was president of the Board of Trustees of the New England Conservatory of Music, honorary associate of the New England Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and was closely associated with the Harvard Musical Association. So fond was Mr. Carr of music that the two upper floors of the rear of his Commonwealth avenue house comprised a large music room in which was a beautiful organ and there Mr. Carr frequently played the role of host to groups of music-loving friends.

Mr. Carr was a member of the Bostonian Society and of the Bunker Hill Monument Association, and a member of the Country, Essex County, St. Botolph, Union, New Riding, Algonquin and Automobile Clubs.

Mr. Carr was married September 10, 1872, to Miss Susan Waters Tarbox, daughter of the late Rev. I. N. Tarbox, D.D. She survives him as do two children, Marion Waters Carr, wife of Charles F. Leland, now living in Southboro, and Elsie Trowbridge Carr, the wife of Robert E. Brewer of Boston. Ashton L. Carr, vice president of the State Street Trust Company, is a nephew.

The funeral was held at the Old South Church upon Thursday, 1st instant, at 12 m.

Rev. George A. Gordon, D.D., pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Boynton Merrill, associate pastor, conducted the service. Music was in charge of Prof. William Churchill Hammond of Mt. Holyoke College, assisted by Henry E. Wry, organist of the church.

Honorary pallbearers were led by Chief Justice William H. Taft of the United States Supreme Court, and included Rev. Alexander Mann, D.D. of Trinity Church, Oliver Ames, Oliver W. Mink, Arthus S. Johnson, E. B. Bayley, Francis Peabody, G. W. Chadwick, Henry Sargent, J. H. Leman, Ashton Carr and Amory Eliot.

The ushers were Frederick Foster, Wallace Goodrich, John S. Ames, Oakes Ames, Philip Stockton, Thomas Gannett, J. D. Cameron Bradley, Herbert Goff, A. Alexander Flinn and William J. Gunn.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE.

Mayor Curley, Monday, issued a very pleasing appreciation to the World War Veterans as a Memorial Day observance.

To the World War Veterans:

Today has been set apart as one for keeping fresh in the memory of all good Americans the deeds of her gallant heroes under arms. As their comrades stand with bared heads, and place the flowered tokens of friendship and love upon their last resting places I ask that the entire citizenry of Boston join with them in tributes.

Had they not offered all for the cause of liberty that word would have become obsolete. To our veterans America owes a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid. Let the solemn observances of Memorial Day serve to keep our obligation ever before us.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTION.

Mayor Curley, Miss Mary A. Barr, John J. Walsh, Miss E. M. Herlihy and Henry L. Whitney will attend the sessions of the annual meeting of the National Conference on City Planning, which is to be held in Springfield, Mass., June 5-7, inclusive. The conference is to be held in conjunction with the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards.

DOLLAR LINE FOR BOSTON.

Robert Dollar, head of the world-operated line of steamships, called at City Hall Saturday, in company with Wendell P. Brown, to consult with Mayor Curley regarding making Boston a regular port for "Dollar" line vessels. In the absence of the Mayor, a conference was held with W. H. McMasters, one of the directing secretaries of the Commercial and Industrial Bureau.

Mr. Dollar stated that he was desirous of including the Port of Boston as a regular port for the "Dollar" boats to the Orient, the West Coast and ports of the world.

"It all resolves itself into cargoes with us," he said. "We will go anywhere for business and when we give definite assurance we intend to make regular sailings we always do so. Shippers are insistent that boats clear regularly and we pride ourselves on the dependability of the "Dollar" service.

"The 'Esther Dollar' is now at the Army Base pier discharging a cargo from world ports. She will take a large consignment from here and pick up at New York and then go through the canal to the Orient. If we finally decide to make regular sailings from Boston we will give shippers direct routes without reloading, into any large port in the world."

Assurances of support were given Mr. Dollar by Acting Mayor Brickley, who called his attention to the recent vote of the City Council to deed to the Commonwealth a tract of land in South Boston necessary to enable the leasing of a lumber plant, with track and wharf facilities, by the Dollar representatives in the New England territory.

MAYOR ADVOCATES BRIDGE AS MEMORIAL TO VETERANS.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Governor Cox, urging a new Harvard Bridge as a memorial to the veterans of the World War:

Boston, May 29, 1922.

Hon. Channing H. Cox, Governor,
State House, Boston, Mass.:

Your Excellency,—I beg to submit herewith report submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works of Boston, Joseph A. Rourke, as compiled by the bridge division engineer of the Public Works Department, and also report as compiled by the special commission appointed by former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, December, 1918.

I have conferred with the Mayor of Cambridge, who is desirous, in the interests of public safety and the establishment of a permanent war memorial to the Massachusetts men who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, that action be taken at once upon the question of a bridge linking the two cities, Boston and Cambridge, to replace the present Harvard Bridge and in addition serve as a worthwhile war memorial.

I am informed by the Commissioner of Public Works that the shortest possible time in which a temporary bridge can be constructed across the Charles river between Boston and Cambridge is about six months, and in view of the fact, in his opinion, that the present Harvard Bridge is unsafe for use for a longer period than six months, it is desirable that action be taken prior to the adjournment of the present session of the Legislature.

If I may be pardoned a suggestion to your Excellency, at a conference of the city governments representing Boston and Cambridge, the Boston Elevated Public Control Trustees, the Boston Transit Commission, the Metropolitan District Commission and the officials of the American Legion of the Commonwealth and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the Commonwealth, with such legislative committeemen as you may deem necessary, it should be possible to determine on the character of legislation necessary to meet the situation and secure the enactment of the same prior to the adjournment of the Legislature.

Respectfully yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 20, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a communication from the chairman, Board of Street Commissioners, relative to the laying out of Oak ovenue, Dorchester; Linden street, West Roxbury, and Elven road, Roslindale, which is a reply to your orders of April 24.

May 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir:—This Board respectfully submits the following information, in response to orders of the City Council, requesting a report as to the cost of laying out certain streets referred to herein:

Oak avenue, Dorchester	$33,000
Linden street, West Roxbury	14,000
Elven road, Roslindale	7,000

LAW CONCERNING GARAGES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 17, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I have this day approved the order of the City Council, as unanimously adopted on May 1, providing for acceptance of chapter 316 of the Acts of 1922, an act relative to garages in the City of Boston.

The enactment of this law, introduced for the purpose of preventing the erection and operation of a garage by the General Baking Company at Charlestown, marks one of the concluding chapters, if not the concluding chapter, in the struggle between this corporation and the people of Charlestown with reference to this particular project.

The drastic character of the act itself, however, is such as to require amendment at the next session of the Legislature. Section 2 of the act renders impossible enlargement or alteration to existing buildings maintained as garages, while section 1 is equally faulty in its provision that no garage for more than four cars be permitted on the same street as and within 500 feet of any building occupied in whole or in part as a public or private school having more than fifty pupils, or as a public or private hospital having more than twenty-five beds, or as a church.

In New York City the provision against garages is limited to 20 feet from the nearest wall of a building occupied as a school, theater or other place of amusement or assembly, while in Illinois it is 50 feet, and in Detroit 50 feet.

I have, nevertheless, in conformity with a pledge made during the last municipal campaign, approved the act, but do so in the belief that public necessity and public convenience will compel either the rewriting of the entire act or the adoption of perfecting emendments at the next session of the Legislature.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

FUEL OIL EQUIPMENT, ANNEX, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith communications from the Superintendent of Public Buildings relative to appropriations for the installation of fuel oil burning equipment in City Hall Annex building, and to cover the expense of motorizing the ambulance station on National street, South Boston. I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
May 20, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I am inclosing to you specification and proposal in duplicate of the Petroleum Heat and Power Company for a fuel oil burning equipment in the City Hall Annex building. Also comparative statement on economy in oil versus coal, and wish to say that I have gone into the subject pretty thoroughly with my chief engineer and other experts along this line, and believe that such a saving as noted in the Petroleum Heat and Power Company's statement, namely, $9,479.52, could be made, and I would recommend that this system be installed in the City Hall Annex building.

In accordance with the foregoing, I would respectfully request that an additional appropriation or transfer in the sum of $10,000 be provided to meet cost of same.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
May 22, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Some time ago you took up with me the question of motorizing the ambulances located at the Carney Hospital and in the care and custody of the Public Buildings Department, and in accordance therewith I have been in communication with experts along this line and respectfully submit the following:

Fireproofing building to entire satisfaction of the State Fire Marshal	$6,000
2 Ford one-ton chasses, $555 each	1,110
2 Ambulance bodies for same, $945 each	1,890

Mr. Chairman and members of the City Council, a very great privilege and honor has been conferred upon me by the national commander of the American Army and Navy Legion of Valor, namely, to have me present a certificate conferring membership in that truly great American organization on the president of your legislative body, and, in addition to that presentation, conferring upon me the insignia of the organization. I beg to say that it is conferred in conformity with General Order No. 46 of the War Department, dated Washington, April 5, 1919:

"5. Award of Distinguished Service Cross.

"By direction of the President under the provision of the Act of Congress, approved July 9, 1918, the Distinguished Service Cross was awarded by the Commanding General, American Expeditionary Forces in France, to David J. Brickley, First Lieutenant, 101st Infantry.

"For extraordinary heroism in action near Verdun, France, October 23, 24, 1918. Stubbornly resisting three strong enemy counter attacks, Lieutenant Brickley, without aid, went forward and by effective machine gun fire drove the enemy from and captured a strong pill box which had been raising havoc in our ranks.

"Official,
P. C. Harris,
The Adjutant General."

And now, sir, through the kindness of the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, it affords me great pleasure to confer upon you the insignia of this organization, knowing that you will wear it with the thought constantly in your mind of service and, if need be, sacrifice at all times, for the good of our common country.

(Mayor Curley here presented to President David J. Brickley of the City Council the certificate of membership in the Army and Navy Legion of Valor in the United States of America, and also placed the button of the organization in President Brickley's lapel, amid applause.)

The preambles and order will take their final reading not less than fourteen days from date.

2. Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred May 15) for sale of city land at Spring street, West Roxbury, to the Boston Elevated Railway Company—that the order ought to pass.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I am afraid that if we sell that land to the Elevated and they put tracks in there we will never be able to get them out, because I see where a decision was handed down by the Supreme Court last week in regard to Cambridge, stating that wherever a reservation had been given by the Public Service Commission the city would have no more control over it. If we did grant this, and it is later a street, in so far as a location for a bathhouse is concerned, we will have no location that will be handy for the public there. I don't want to appear opposed to this, but I feel that this is a matter which might well be laid on the table, giving the people of the district an opportunity to come in here.

President BRICKLEY—I will say that the Mayor can take care of that under the terms of the order, I think, Coun. Moriarty.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

The order will take its second reading not less than fourteen days from date.

3. Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred May 15) for sale of city land on Snow Hill and Sheafe streets—that the order ought to pass.

REPORT AGAINST REDUCED FARE.

The House Committee on Rules of the Massachusetts Legislature have reported against the admission of the petition of Mayor James M. Curley for a five-cent car fare within the city limits of Boston, with the deficit in operating expenses to be met from general taxation assessed upon the municipalities served. The committee's report followed strict party lines, for the three Democratic members, Representatives Harrington of Fall River, Sawyer of Ware and McCormack of Boston, were recorded as dissenters.

The action of the committee was sustained upon the floor of the House of Representatives by a vote of 161 to 48.

NEW HARVARD BRIDGE PROPOSED.

As a result of a conference called by Mayor Curley at the Mayor's Office, upon the 6th instant, legislation will be sought immediately to permit the raising of $4,000,000 by loan to replace the Harvard Bridge with a reinforced concrete structure, seventy to one hundred feet wide, and the construction of an island in the center of the Charles River Basin, at least ten acres in area, upon which a war memorial may be built.

This important decision was reached at a conference held in the office of Mayor Curley at which were present eleven gentlemen, representing Boston and Cambridge, which cities, with possible help from the Boston Elevated Company, will bear the cost of the undertaking. Besides Mayor Curley for Boston, there appeared Thomas F. Sullivan, Chairman of the Boston Transit Commission; Joseph A. Rourke, Commissioner of Public Works; John E. Carty, Division Engineer in charge of bridges and ferries; E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel; John A. Sullivan, special attorney for the present administration; Guy C. Emerson, engineer for the Finance Commission. Representing Cambridge there were Mayor Quinn, City Solicitor Peter Nelligan, City Engineer Lewis M. Hastings and City Auditor Charles H. Thurston. The Boston Elevated Company was represented by F. Ware Barnum, general counsel, and Attorney Mulcahy.

Of special significance during the conference was the unanimous opinion that the time had come when the old Harvard Bridge should be rebuilt and represent Greater Boston's tribute to the soldiers, sailors and marines in World War service.

Boston and Cambridge stand ready, as the result of this conference, to build the bridge and the island, together with the necessary approaches, thus leaving the suggested war memorial building for public subscription.

Mayor Curley and the other officials believe that, while a 70-foot width is satisfactory for streets in the main, it would be short-sighted policy to erect a bridge that could not provide for all possibilities in traffic for scores of years. It would not be surprising if the bridge were 100 feet wide. If that width is adopted, there would be considerable land damages on the Boston side, but little on the Cambridge side, because the ground that would be necessary is mainly in the park system.

Much additional expense will be necessary for the erection of a temporary structure for use while the work on the permanent bridge is under way. This construction would require at least five months and winter would be well advanced before work on the permanent structure on the island could begin. The Bridge Commission has no studies for a concrete structure, but understands that plans have been worked out by the war memorial committee.

The idea of doing something at once to replace or to repair Harvard Bridge, which was built in 1887-91, and opened to travel September 1, 1891, has been the matter of much discussion between Mayors Curley and Quinn. Two weeks ago Division Engineer John E. Carty of the Public Works Department made a report on the condition of the bridge, in which he said that when built the bridge was of very light construction "and it is very difficult to build a solidly constructed floor as the cost would be so much that it would be advisable to build instead a new bridge."

It was estimated that the cost of repairing the Harvard Bridge would be $2,000,000. Mayor Curley wrote to Governor Cox in connection with repair work or a new structure, and the governor replied that the idea of a war memorial was worth considering, but that the state would contribute nothing for its erection. Boston and Cambridge, he said, would have to pay for the new bridge.

Mayor Curley, in addressing his associates, said that he received as many as fifty letters a day protesting against the present structure. He had come to the conclusion that the bridge, which is bearing so much more weight than it was designed to carry, is a menace to the public welfare, and that the cities involved should act without delay.

Mayor Curley also declared the honor as officially due to the heroes of the war. It was to be gleaned that he did not favor the naming of squares, parks and streets for such heroes, though such has been done in Boston to a great extent. He said he was in hearty sympathy with the war memorial, believing that every citizen of Boston and Cambridge who served in the war should be paid honor there by the erection of war tablets.

The communication of Governor Cox was as follows:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Executive Chamber,
Boston, June 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Your communication of May 29, with reference to the Harvard Bridge was duly received and referred to the Department of Public Works for report.

The commissioner, Hon. John N. Cole, after an investigation by Mr. Williams, bridge engineer for the Department of Public Works, reports that it is possible to make "satisfactory repairs at an expenditure not unreasonable so as to make the bridge safe for all necessary travel, under proper restrictions, for some years.

The department further says:

"Undoubtedly the loose flooring and noise incident thereto result in the public gaining an impression that the bridge is much more out of repair than it actually is, particularly more from the standpoint of safety. The correction of this condition so that a fairly smooth surface would be available would call for a larger annual expenditure than has been made upon the structure for some years, but this department believes it would be possible to find some material to take care of that situation at an expense not prohibitive.

"This department believes that entirely from the standpoint of economy, with no consideration to be given to the construction of a war memorial, which appears on the surface to be the primary reason for immediate action, the present structure may be continued for some time as a serviceable bridge to carry the travel between Boston and Cambridge."

From the foregoing report it appears that the Harvard Bridge can be repaired at a reasonable cost and it is evident to anyone who lives in this vicinity that it needs a decent surface.

The proposal to build a new bridge as a war memorial is worthy of the most serious consideration but that is a matter for the cities of Boston and Cambridge to settle.

The state cannot contribute to the building of bridges between large communities. Such a policy would mean an enormous expenditure by the Commonwealth which it is in no position to assume.

If, however, the cities of Boston and Cambridge are agreed upon the necessity and desirability of replacing the Harvard Bridge at their own expense it would not be a serious matter to frame legislation to accomplish that, which would without doubt receive the most careful consideration of the Legislature, even though in its closing days.

Very truly yours,

Channing H. Cox.

NO RESTRICTION IN TREMONT STREET.

Mayor Curley declares there will be no one-way street regulation for Tremont street. He states he is opposed to the suggested regulation of traffic and advises the merchants are unanimously against it and it is his belief that they have about all the burden they can bear at present. Mayor Curley does not believe that to force traffic into a one-way channel, from Scollay square to Boylston street, would be a material improvement in the general movement of traffic down town. It would be but another slight palliative in street traffic regulation, the problem of which requires expensive treatment.

"I have given a good deal of study to street traffic," the Mayor states. "I have come to the conclusion that to improve the situation materially, we would be obliged to take drastic action, perhaps by the expenditure of $50,000,000, for one or two wide thoroughfares. I have thought for a long time that Tremont street, 100 feet wide south of Dover street, offered grave possibilities. If we could use that street as a nucleus of a highway that would end at the South Station, by cutting through Hollis street and making a clean sweep to the destination, we would have a traffic artery worth while."

Mayor Curley expressed the belief that no problem of the city is of more importance than that of traffic. He wants a comprehensive plan mapped out, and to that end he is considering a list of 300 names representing the business, racial, religious and educational life of the city, from which to appoint a City Planning Commission, which commission would study with competent experts such questions as traffic, housing and recreational problems.

* Lowest bidder. † Wheat straw.

Auditor's copy shows bid by John J. White Company, Charlestown District, on 36–38 pounds of oats of $0.62¾.

Incident to the award of this contract Superintendent Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"I respectfully request that permission be granted me to award the contracts to the lowest bidder in the various districts as indicated on the attached sheet.

"Regarding the item of straw, would say that rye straw, which is the grade of straw generally used by the city, is at the present time entirely too high in price to be used, current prices ranging from $44 to $46 per ton, and for this reason I respectfully recommend that the award on straw be made for wheat straw in the districts where this quality has been bid upon, viz.: South Boston, Roxbury, Dorchester, West Roxbury, Brighton and Hyde Park. Regarding the East Boston, Charlestown and city proper districts, I would respectfully request that permission be granted me to purchase the requirements of straw needed in these districts in the open market. In the city proper district identical bids of $39 a ton were received for shorts and the award on this item was made to Sumner Crosby & Son, Inc., by lot."

FIRE DEPARTMENT REPORT.

Acting Fire Commissioner William J. Casey has rendered the following report for the month of May:

City of Boston, Fire Department.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with your Honor's circular No. 3, I submit herewith a report of the activities of the Fire Department for the month of May, 1922.

The spring term of the Department Drill School commenced on Monday, May 8, 1922, and will be continued for thirty days. Eleven members of the department on probation are attending the school, where they will receive instruction and training in the use of apparatus and appliances of the department.

Copies of a pamphlet entitled "Gas Masks for Gases Met in Fighting Fires," published by the United States Bureau of Mines, have been purchased and distributed to various companies in the department. Since the introduction of gas masks in fighting fires it is essential that the members of the department acquire all the information they can on the subject. By studying these pamphlets the men will gain valuable information as to how and under what circumstances gas masks are to be used.

The Fire College, which opened to privates on February 20, 1922, closed on April 29, 1922. The final examinations were held and the marks were compiled during the month. Eighty-five privates of this department and five representatives of the fire departments of Lynn, Milton, Everett and Natick attended the course of lectures delivered at the college.

The remodeling of the quarters of Engine Company 26–35, Mason street, was completed during the month, and on May 22, 1922, Engine Company 26, which has been temporarily located in the old fire station on Church street, returned to its permanent quarters on Mason street assuming its permanent running card.

The Fire Department co-operated with the Boston Clean-Up Committee in the 1922 campaign to improve conditions in Boston. Inspections were made by our regular fire prevention squad, with an additional assignment of forty extra men. They covered every section and district of the city. A total of 38,620 initial inspections were made, and parties responsible for bad conditions were instructed to remedy them. There were 28,139 inspections of cellars, yards, stores and tenements The balance of the inspections were made in factories, office and other mercantile buildings. There have been 7,756 follow-up inspections made in bad cases, and more than 90 per cent were found to be remedied in accordance with the request of the inspector at the initial inspection. All owners or occupants responsible for conditions have been given a reasonable time to correct them, and further follow-up inspections will be made on all not already complied with.

Twenty-six officers and men have completed the course of instruction in the automobile school, thus qualifying them as chauffeurs. Twenty-four men have attended the motor pump school, and have been instructed in the operation of motor pumping engines. Eight men are being instructed in the operation of steam fire engines and seven men are being instructed in the high pressure school, in order that they may qualify for licenses to operate steam turbine engines at the high pressure station.

A new American-LaFrance type No. 17, four-wheel tractor, with type No. 31 abridged aerial, has been placed in service with Ladder Company 1, Friend street.

The American-LaFrance aerial truck, formerly in service with Ladder Company 1, has been placed in service with Ladder Company 13, Warren avenue, and the aerial truck, tractor drawn, formerly in service with the latter company has been placed in reserve.

The various branches of the department have performed their duties in a proper and satisfactory manner

Yours very truly,

William J. Casey,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

HOLIDAY PROGRAM.

The Independence Day Committee of the Public Celebration Association organized for 1922 consists of Chairman Charles T. Cahill, Secretary John J. Keenan; John B. Archibald, William H. Cuddy, Wayland F. Dorothy, John J. Heffernan, Frank Leveroni, E. B. Mero, Frank Chouteau Brown, Louis Watson, William Carroll Hill, Edward L. Curran, James H. Phelan, John J. Morgan, Henry J. D. Small.

The holiday program is being arranged by this committee and by the district chairman, under the supervision of Director of Public Celebrations J. Philip O'Connell, representing Mayor Curley.

The features of general interest will include the morning flagraising and patriotic exercises on Boston Common, reading of the Declaration of Independence at the Old State House and the annual oration exercises at Faneuil Hall in the forenoon.

There will be local events in charge of the district committees on twenty or more neighborhood playgrounds throughout the city, primarily for the enjoyment and patriotic inspiration of the children.

Boston Common will be a center of interest throughout the day. The Mayor will raise the National and municipal flags in the morning. The annual athletic carnival will be held immediately following. A children's festival is being planned for the Common in the afternoon. An evening community demonstration will assemble the usual thousands of people around the Frog Pond. A display of fireworks, the first display of the sort by the city since the war, will be the grand finale of the official observance.

LAND-TAKING IN SOUTH BOSTON.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for laying out and construction of Claflin street, from C to D street, South Boston, as a highway.

The highway and the land, exclusive of trees or structures standing upon or affixed thereto, in which an easement for street purposes is hereby taken, is bounded and described as follows:

Northwest by C street, fifty feet; northeast by the northeasterly line of said Claflin street as hereby laid out, four hundred and seventy feet; southeast by D street, fifty feet; and southwest by the southwesterly line of said Claflin street as hereby laid out, four hundred seventy feet.

Trees or structures standing upon or affixed to the aforesaid described land shall be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said land for the purpose of constructing said improvement.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on the southwesterly and northeasterly sides of Claflin street, from C street to D street, will receive benefit or advantage, other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement herein ordered, each of the particular lots within said limits to the amount respectively set against them herein:

	Amount.
Commonwealth of Massachusetts	$3,000
Commonwealth of Massachusetts	3,000
Commonwealth of Massachusetts	3,000
Commonwealth of Massachusetts	3,000
	$12,000

This Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the laying out and construction of Claflin street, South Boston, as a highway, from C street to D street and awards no damages therefor.

EXTENSION OF PORT SERVICE.

A suggestion was recently made to the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce by Mayor Curley that some action be taken to co-operate with shippers and shipping interests to make Boston not only a port of call and entry by shipping lines, but also the port of clearance from America and emphasizing the value of this policy as an element in the development of the local maritime interests and as giving an assurance of export facilities in Boston for our domestic surplus product and as a good advertising feature among European shippers.

Mr. Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association, very cordially endorses the Mayor's suggestion and says:

"We have been aware of this situation for some time and are cognizant of its adverse effects on the efforts being made to build up and expand the business of the port. We realize that the steamers that 'shop' along the coast for cargo, cannot be depended upon to deliver their cargoes in any reasonable time. The matter is still engaging the attention of our association and good results are already apparent. As an instance of this we have been advised today that the International Freighting Corporation is to have direct sailings beginning this month, between Boston and South America, and also that the steamer 'Hinckley' will sail from here direct for Scandinavian ports about June 20.

"It is very gratifying to know that the chief executive of the city is so keenly interested in the welfare of the port and our officials are appreciative of the deep interest that you have taken in our port development program. We are desirous of expressing to you our thanks for calling attention to this matter."

DEMOLITION OF OLD BUILDINGS.

Mayor Curley received the following letter together with the attached report upon the 3d instant from Health Commissioner Mahoney:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—In accordance with your suggestion and recommendation, I have had a report made and pictures taken of dilapidated structures in the city, which are at the present time a health nuisance and a fire menace. The report of the deputy commissioner in charge of the Sanitary Division, with the photos, are inclosed herewith. The location of these structures may be found on the reverse side of the photo, with the date and time of the report.

The demolition of these structures will be the beginning of the campaign to rid the city of these eye-sores and unsanitary structures, and afford more breathing spaces in the sections of the city where this type is usually found. It is expected that the department will have the co-operation of the owners of such structures to the extent that the City of Boston will be put to little or no expense in removnig these menaces.

Yours respectfully,
F. X. MAHONEY,
Health Commissioner.

16 FELLOWS COURT, ROXBURY.

This is a dilapidatd old building, three stories in height, the two upper stories being of wood and the basement story of brick. The house is vacant and open to the public, and is used at times for privy purposes by outsiders. The premises are in a very filthy condition. It is a distinct fire menace to the other buildings in the vicinity. I recommend the demolition of this building.

REAR 904 ALBANY STREET, ROXBURY.

The old stable in the rear of these premises is a two-story structure, built entirely of wood and is in a very dilapidated condition. The stable is vacant at the present time and is a distinct fire menace and a nuisance. I recommend the demolition of this building.

ADJOINING 17 REED'S COURT, ROXBURY.

The old stable on these premises backs up to the old stable at 904 Albany street. This is an old wooden structure in a very dilapidated condition and is a distinct fire menace. This, with the adjoining building at 904 Albany street, should be demolished.

REAR 83 HAMPDEN STREET, ROXBURY.

This is an old two-story wooden building, occupied as a blacksmith shop, which has recently been burned, and it is in a dilapidated and filthy condition. I recommend that it be demolished.

82 AND 84 HAMPDEN STREET, ROXBURY.

This is an old double house, two and one-half stories in height, which has been vacant for a long time and is in a very dilapidated condition. It is adjacent to a junk shop and is a distinct fire menace. I recommend the demolition of this building.

57 HAMPDEN STREET, ROXBURY.

This is a three-story structure with a brick front. The rest of the building is of wood and in a very dilapidated condition, and a distinct fire menace to adjoining buildings. I recommend that it be demolished.

4 AND 6 REED'S COURT, ROXBURY.

This is a two and one-half story wooden building with an ell at the rear and is partially open to the public. It is a nuisance and a distinct fire menace and I recommend that it be demolished.

REAR 903 ALBANY STREET, ROXBURY.

This is a two-story wooden structure, very much dilapidated, and is used at the present time for storage purposes. The building itself and the yards surrounding the same are in a filthy condition. It is within a short distance of a large dwelling house and is a district fire menace. I recommend the demolition of this building.

3 FELLOW'S PLACE, ROXBURY.

This is a two-story wooden building in a very dilapidated condition and adjoins a number of other buildings in about the same condition. It is a distinct fire menace and I recommend its demolition.

7, 9, 11 FELLOW'S PLACE, ROXBURY.

On these premises there is one three-story building, one two-story building and a one and one-half story stable building. These buildings are in a very dilapidated condition, and the yards adjoning them are filthy. The stable is occupied but is in a very offensve conditon and the manure is not properly taken care of. Mr. Dooley, the owner of the property, has an office in the building adjoining the stable, but other than this the buildings are vacant. On the even number side of Fellow's place there are also two wooden buildings which are occupied. These buildings all adjoin the Fellow's Street Playground, and on account of the number of children playing in the vicinity they are a distinct fire menace and a danger. There is also a vacant lot adjoining these buildings, which runs to the corner of Randall street. It seems to me that it would be good judgment for the city to take this land as an extension to the Fellow's Street Playground, thus wiping out these bad conditions. I am of the opinion that if some of the so-called White Fund could be used for this purpose, no better way could be found to use it than in the demolition of these buildngs and the abatement of the nuisance which is continually found on the vacant land adjoining.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 38.

My attention has been called by the Commanding Officer of Division 3 to the excellent police work on the fourth instant of Patrolmen Bernard Carney, Thomas Conboy, Joseph Decker, Bernard J. Graham, James J. Galvin, John P. Gavin, James R. Connaughton, James A. Jameson, Walter J. Kenney, Henry W. Laskey, Lawrence F. Oliver, Anthony J. Rock, Gerard M. Stone, John C. Walker, Joseph M. Walsh, William M. Walsh and Edward B. Quinn, in charge of Sergeant William W. Livingston, at the three-alarm fire in the Cosmopolitan Stables at 54 Pitts street. There were 180 horses in this building, all of which were rescued by the firemen with the aid of the above-named police officers, and I take pleasure in extending to these officers my commendation of the able assistance which they rendered to the firemen in this humane work.

General Order No. 42.

My attention has been called by the commanding officer of Division 4 to a most meritorious piece of police work performed by Patrolman Joseph A. Cote of that division.

Shortly after one o'clock in the morning of June 3, as Patrolman Cote was patroling his route in Shawmut avenue, near Corning street, his attention was attracted by the sound of a revolver shot, fired apparently in Corning street, and hastening into Corning street he saw one man staggering as if hurt and another man running down Corning street. Patrolman Cote called upon the fleeing man to stop, and to emphasize his request fired a shot from his revolver, whereupon the man turned and fired two shots from his revolver at the officer. Patrolman Cote then fired two shots at the man, one of which took effect in his left leg. Both men were taken to the City Hospital for treatment and a warrant issued against the second man for assault and battery with a loaded revolver upon Patrolman Cote with intent to kill.

It gives me great pleasure to hear of such prompt and courageous action on the part of a member of the force, and in recognition of his excellent service, I hereby grant to Patrolman Joseph A. Cote one day's leave of absence from duty, with pay, this day off to be arranged by the commanding officer of the division.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON, Commissioner.

REDUCED STATE TAX.

The Joint Ways and Means Committee of the Legislature reported a bill in the House on the 6th instant providing for a state tax of $12,000,000 and apportioning the tax among the cities and towns of the Commonwealth. The total tax is $2,000,000 less than that of last year, but it does not follow that each municipality will have a proportionate reduction, as a new basis of apportionment was made this year. Under the new basis certain towns and cities will have to pay more than last year.

The City of Boston is one of the fortunate cities, as its basis of apportionment has been reduced so that the tax shows a reduction of nearly $1,000,000, or more than twenty per cent. The figures for certain cities and towns in the metropolitan district are as follows:

VISIT OF SECRETARY DAVIS.

Hon. James John Davis, Secretary of the Department of Labor, will be a mutual guest of Boston Lodge of Elks and the City of Boston upon Wednesday, June 14, and will deliver the Flag Day oration.

Secretary Davis, who, prior to his appointment as a member of President Harding's cabinet, was one of the best known labor leaders in America, emigrated to this country with his father, mother and six brothers and sisters, in 1881, and became a resident in Pittsburgh. At the age of eleven, Secretary Davis began work in the iron and steel works at Scranton, Pennsylvania, and there learned his trade as puddler. Upon reaching his majority he joined the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America and is still a prominent member of this organization.

Secretary Davis joined the Loyal Order of Moose in 1906, and in 1907 was elected director general of the organization. In behalf of the Relief Commission of the Order of Moose, Secretary Davis visited the American, French, British, Belgian and Italian battlefields early in 1918, and, subsequent to the armistice, returned to Belgium and Germany where he directed immediate relief for the World War sufferers.

He is president of the American Bond and Mortgage Company of Pittsburgh, and a member of the Americus Republican and Pittsburgh Athletic Clubs, being a great lover of athletic sports.

The deaths of both Senators Penrose and Knox in Pennsylvania have brought Secretary Davis into especial prominence in the Republican party of his state.

Secretary Davis will leave Washington upon the evening of Tuesday, June 13, by Federal Express, and be met at the Back Bay Station upon Wednesday, Flag Day morning, at 8.45 a. m., by a committee comprising Exalted Ruler Michael J. Culliney of Boston Lodge of Elks, Chairman James A. Watson of the Flag Day Committee and Messrs. Cornelius J. Keating and Nathan Sidd of the Boston Lodge of Elks and a representative of the Mayor's office.

Breakfast will be informally served as guest of Boston Lodge of Elks at the Copley-Plaza and subsequent calls made upon Governor Cox, Mayor Curley and Collector Lufkin at the Custom House. After a short motor ride through the park system, Mayor Curley will extend Secretary Davis an informal luncheon, with members of Boston Lodge of Elks and representatives of organized labor, at the Copley-Plaza.

At 2.30 o'clock, Secretary Davis will motor to Swampscott, Beverly and Magnolia, accompanied by Collector of Customs Lufkin, a committee of the Boston Lodge of Elks and a representative of the Mayor's office.

The Boston Lodge of Elks will dine Secretary Davis informally at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, at 6.30 p. m. and at 8 p. m. he will attend the Flag Day ceremonies, beginning his oration about 9 p. m.

ATTENDED CONVENTION.

Dr. Robert E. Dyer, chief of the Dairy Inspection Division of the department, went to Hartford, Conn., to attend the Bureau of Animal Industry Conference on the Eradication of Tuberculosis in Animals, June 6, 7, 8.

CONCERT AT LONG ISLAND.

Eight hundred inmates of the Long Island Hospital and Almshouse were made glad upon Sunday, the 4th instant, by an elaborate musical program presented by the fifty girls of St. Columbkille's Church of Brighton, who went to the island. With this party also went Dr. David J. Johnson, Institutions Commissioner of the City of Boston; Dennis J. Driscoll, Deputy Institutions Commissioner; Rev. Fr. Oscar O'Gorman and Rev. William Desmond.

The steamer "George A. Hibbard" made two trips to the island to convey the party, which upon arrival was met by Superintendent John J. Ryan and Dr. Thomas Cuddy, resident physician, who escorted the young women and the other guests over the island and through the buildings.

The young women first gave an outdoor concert to which all of the inmates able to leave their rooms or to crowd upon the piazzas, listened with genuine pleasure. For those who could not leave the building, a concert was given indoors, and then for those of the hospital who are bedridden, the young women in groups went from ward to ward and gave a number of separate concerts, being heartily thanked by those in the cots, as they finished.

IMPROVEMENT AT PLAYGROUNDS.

A definite plan for improvement at the Christopher Gibson Playground, near Field's Corner, Dorchester, is announced after conference between Mayor Curley, James B. Shea, chairman of the Park Commission; Charles A. Coolidge and Myron P. Lewis. It is announced that the section of Geneva avenue which cuts through the existing sections of the playground would be discontinued, thus yielding about 3,000 square feet of additional land and affording a commanding location for the concrete bleachers.

Mayor Curley pointed out that the section of Geneva avenue between the ball field and the children's triangular field to the south is very little used by traffic. What little traffic there is could easily make a detour through other highways, and the bleachers could be erected on what is now Geneva avenue, with room to spare on each side for a tennis court.

It has been decided to replace the wooden locker building with a brick and stone structure. This will be located in a corner of the children's field, and will have accommodations much more satisfactory than the old building.

DIET WEEK ENDORSED.

Bread and Milk Week which began June 4 and will continue through June 10 in every city and town in New England, has the indorsement of Mayor Curley, who "recommends and urges that all citizens eat more bread and drink more milk." During the week educational talks will be given in the schools on the food value contained in a balanced ration of bread and milk.

The fire alarm operator will reply by giving the O. K. signal, 2-3 (-- ---).

The fire alarm operator will then dispatch the Rescue Company by telephone to its designation. In the event of the telephone being out of order, 6-6 (------------), followed by the box number, will be struck two rounds on the tappers, on the receipt of which signal the Rescue Company will respond to the box designated.

Assignment Cards for Fire Alarm Boxes.

Arrangements have been made with the various deputy chiefs to install in each fire alarm box a small assignment card (with special envelope) covering all responses to each individual box. These cards will shortly be forwarded to each division commander for proper distribution throughout the department.

On each of these cards is to be typewritten the response to the box, after which the same is to be placed in the fire alarm box, so that operators, upon their arrival at the box, may send the necessary information to the officer in command at the fire, giving the said officer an idea of what apparatus will respond, and permit him to ascertain what location the apparatus should take on multiple alarm fires. On the reverse side of the card is to be typewritten the number of the box in which the card is placed and to which it refers. Furthermore, any changes made in assignments must also be made in these fire alarm box cards.

These cards must be filled in neatly and correctly, as they will be depended upon by officers in command at fires for information as to what apparatus and material they will have at their command.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner.

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

CLOSING OF HARVARD BRIDGE POSSIBLE.

Mayor Curley declares if the municipal engineers decide, after a thorough examination that Harvard Bridge is unsafe, he will not hesitate to close it to travel. This is his statement in answer to the Legislature's action in sidetracking his petition to authorize Boston and Cambridge to borrow $4,000,000 at once to replace the present structure with one of re-enforced concrete. He takes this stand in no vindictive spirit, he says.

Mayor Curley says he does not personally know whether the bridge is strong enough to last through the winter. He has consulted Mayor Quinn of Cambridge and the engineers of both cities, who supervise bridges, and has been informed that when Cottage Farm bridge is closed, during reconstruction, one-half the traffic will detour and cross the already overburdened Harvard Bridge.

"The floor of the present Harvard Bridge was laid two and a half years ago at a cost of $250,000," Mr. Curley said. "Anyone who has ridden over it or crossed it afoot and observed conditions must be as disappointed as we are at the failure of the Legislature to recognize the need for prompt action upon it.

"In any event, the city administration will do its utmost to keep the bridge in fairly safe condition until the Legislature meets next January, and then, I hope, authorizes the borrowing of the repair money which it ought to have done yesterday.

"Meanwhile, however, I don't see that the City of Boston shall be held responsible morally for injuries that may be inflicted to vehicles or persons."

MAY REPORT OF STATE EMPLOYMENT.

The records of the Massachusetts Public Employment Office, 23 and 25 Pearl street, for the month of May show a decided improvement in the labor situation over last month, also over May last year.

The number of orders received from employers shows an increase of 26 per cent over April, also an increase of 8 per cent over May last year. The number of people called for by employers shows an increase of 26 per cent over April, also an increase of 14 per cent over May a year ago. The number of positions reported filled shows an increase of 34 per cent over last month, also an increase of 17 per cent over May, 1921. The attendance of applicants for employment was 13 per cent more than in April, but 15 per cent less than May a year ago.

During the month 2,512 service men (1,801 soldiers, 711 sailors) visited the office in search of employment, of whom 332 (159 soldiers, 173 sailors) were referred to employers and 155 (107 soldiers, 48 sailors) secured positions.

There has been a decided impetus in the men's skilled department for the building trade and the metal trades. In the former the calls were for carpenters, painters, bricklayers, stonemasons, plasterers and roofers, while the calls in the metal trades were for buffers, polishers, chandelier makers, machinists, assemblers, machine erectors sheet metal workers, molders, pipefitters, tinsmiths, electricians, blacksmiths and wire workers. The printing trades had calls in for compositors, cylinder and job pressmen and press feeders. The steam trades had calls in for engineers and firemen, while orders were received for upholsterers, cotton ring spinners, cabinetmakers and linemen in the general trades.

There has been a steady and persistent call for able-bodied laborers in the men's unskilled department with a fairly good supply of applicants, but there has been no difficulty in filling positions where the wages were right. The demand for farm hands who can milk continues to be heavy and an all-round farmer can easily be placed. Culinary workers both locally and for the mountains and summer resorts have been in good demand and many places have been filled.

The demand for boys for office, factory and errands has been heavier than for several months past, with a good supply of applicants who have easily filled the positions.

In the women's skilled department the demand for summer hotel workers has dominated, and while there are a number of hotels who have not filled their quota there is a tightening up of experienced applicants for positions. A majority of those placed so far have been college and high school girls. During the early part of the month the demand for power stitchers was only fair but there was a decided improvement at the latter part of the month. The call for factory work has been quiet with only a fair supply on hand. The demand for nurses and attendants for state institutions is increasing, with a scarcity in the supply of experienced help.

There is no change in the housework girl situation. The demand is heavy and the supply negligible. There has been a good demand for restaurant cooks which has been filled. Many of the summer hotels are calling for culinary workers and the supply is only fair.

The daily average demand was 70, as compared with 63 in 1921; 128 in 1920; 97 in 1919; 126 in 1918; 110 in 1917; 132 in 1916; and 63 in 1915.

The average daily number of positions reported filled was 51, as compared with 46 in 1921; 73 in 1920; 61 in 1919; 75 in 1918; 70 in 1917; 84 in 1916, and 51 in 1915.

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.
Boston, June 8, 1922. (June 10.)

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.
